DEMANDS OF HYLAN WHAT HE KNOWS OF HIDDEN PAPERS

Mayor Presses Tammany Candidate in What He Calls a 'Disreputable' Court Case.

'PUBLIC SCANDAL' HE SAYS

Mitchel, Continuing Attacks Based on Disclosures, Again Questions Murphy.

ALSO DENOUNCES TURNER

Says His Affidavit Exculpating Judge Hylan "Strains Credulity to the Breaking Point."

Mayor Mitchel continued yesterday, in a statement, to ask questions of Judge John F. Hylan, his Tammany opponent, and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, regarding the disclosures of Judge Hylan's past business dealings now being published in The New York World. The Mayor took up the evidence showing that certain legal papers relating to a case in which Judge Hylan was interested were missing from the Third District Municipal Court of Brooklyn, and that on the margin of the record is the notation: "Taken by Hylan, 1,030 Gates Avenue, party to examine," and he asked these questions:

"I now ask Judge Hylan if he knows where the missing papers in the Whitney case are hidden. I now ask Judge Hylan whether he was the man who attempted to erase the name of Hylan in the court record of the Whitney-Schwartz case. I now ask Charles F. Murphy whether he or others behind the Hylan nomination had previous knowledge of this public scandal." This is the Mayor's statement:

"Nothing could be more brazen than Judge Hylan's attempt to disprove his connections with the swindler, Goslin, by calling Charles E. Turner to his aid. He might as well attempt to prove by John H. McCooey that he never had political relations with Charles F. Murphy.

"Consider what Justice Greenbaum said, in 1906, of Charles E. Turner, Judge Hylan's former office mate and now his defender, when the Supreme Court was asked to pass upon one of Turner's deals:

> There is strong reason to suspect that this action is the result of a conspiracy between plaintiff, (Turner,) his assignor, and the defendants, Whiteman and Uhren, apparently tools of Alfred R. Goslin, to defraud the other defendants.

"With that judicial statement in mind, I fail to see how Mr. Turner's present affidavit can be believed, when we have Goslin's own affidavit backed by Goslin's checks, that Goslin 'agreed to pay Turner for Hylan's campaign expenses, and loan said Hylan $1,000 additional for these campaign expenses'; that 'Hylan and Turner called upon deponent a large number of times'; and that 'Hylan personally handed to said Goslin the assignment of these judgments.'

"Goslin's affidvait is at least credible. It is backed by Goslin's checks, received and cashed by Hylan. Every fact of which we have record can be explained by Goslin's affidavit. It requires the wildest stretch of the imagination to fit the known facts to the affidavit of Turner.

"Turner's affidavit strains credulity to the breaking point in that it asks the public to believe that, with diamond cutting diamond, Turner presuaded Goslin to make out checks to Hylan's order without knowing Hylan and without any security from or interest in Hylan himself. Goslin was a swindler, not a philanthropist.

"If, as Mr. Turner says, Turner owed Hylan money, why should Hylan write a letter in his own handwriting, thanking Goslin for his interest in his behalf?

"Why in this letter should Hylan inclose a note of which Mr. Turner's affidavit makes no explanation?

Calls the "Whole Thing Too Thin."

"The whole thing is too thin. The fact that the only man whom Judge Hylan can produce in his defense is a man denounced by Justice Greenbaum as a tool of Goslin, and part of a conspiracy to defraud, is in itself a proof of Judge Hylan's unfitness for a position of trust.

"Let it be remembered that this man Turner, denounced by the Supreme Court, confessed himself to have been a willing tool and accomplice of Goslin, and admits that with convict Goslin's money he fled the jurisdiction to avoid appearance in court.

"And above all let it be remembered that this man Turner, who now rushes to Hylan's defense, a confessed accomplice of swindler Goslin, was for years the close associate, business familiar and office sharer of John F. Hylan.

"When Mr. Turner swears that Hylan never had dealings, directly or indirectly, with Goslin he states what he must know to be untrue.

"While Turner was associated with John F. Hylan, Hylan acted as attorney for known agents of Goslin. Among his other activities, Goslin extorted money from corporations by making use of a statute which provided a penalty of $250 to be paid by any corporation which refused to show its books and the list of its stockholders. Goslin's scheme was to buy, either in person or through his agents, one share of stock, present it to the corporation, and demand to see the books and lists. No respectable corporation would permit a notorious swindler or his agents to have access to its records. Upon the refusal of the corporation Goslin would institute suit to collect the statutory $250.

"In 1906 Charles M. Dunn, described by Justice Greenbaum as a tool of

Germans Are Rushing Plans to Meet Our Big Air Fleet

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Reuter correspondent with the French army says that information in the hands of the French General Staff shows that the Germans are making feverish preparations to meet the Americans in the air next Spring. The number of German battleplanes is to be doubled during the Winter, and airplane and motor factories throughout Germany are being enlarged.

The Fokkers, who are building great fleets of fighting biplanes and triplanes, remarkable for speed and climbing powers, have taken over the great Perzina piano factories in Schwerin. For bombing formations heavy, three-seated machines are being built to carry nearly a ton of bombs apiece. When loaded they will be able to climb 12,000 feet in thirty-five minutes.

DENIES WORK FOR GOSLIN

He Sues The World for Libel, Asking $200,000 — Wants $100,000 from The Globe.

Summons in a suit for $200,000 for libel was served on The New York World last night by Frank Moss of the firm of Moss, Marcus & Wells, attorneys for Judge John F. Hylan, the Tammany candidate for Mayor. A similar action for $100,000 has been begun against The New York Globe, according to the Publicity Bureau of the Democratic Fusion Committee. The summons, it was said, would be followed by formal complaints, which were now in preparation and would be served as quickly as it was possible to do the physical work of preparation. These suits, it was announced, were the result of a publication in these newspapers of the statement that Judge Hylan was attorney for Alfred R. Goslin and his accomplices. Judge Hylan last night sent the following letter to the editor of The World:

"It is a pity that The World, in its malicious desire to injure me as a candidate, has published articles which an ordinary fair investigation would have proved were false. A fair investigation would have shown that the story that I was attorney for Goslin and his tools is a tissue of falsehoods. My associates collected the facts in three hours today.

"The facts are that Charles M. Dunn, an accomplice of Goslin, and whom I did not know, did start 'strike' suits using my name as attorney without my knowledge.

"In the official docket containing records of the cases brought by Dunn, there is a case in which a Charles M. Dunn is a complainant against Ferdinand Benner for $250 in which the attorneys for Dunn are given as Hughes, Rounds & Schurman — ex-Governor Hughes' law firm. I do not know whether an unauthorized use of the name of Hughes, Rounds & Schurman was made in this action, but the court record shows that this firm was superseded by a Jesse W. Toby.

Not Goslin's Attorney, he Says.

"As I have repeatedly said to The World, I never was attorney for Goslin or any tool of his and did not know him. When The World first made its false statement I was mystified. I could not understand how a newspaper claiming to be decent and honest would deliberately make such a statement.

"I never had anything to do, directly or indirectly, with any of the cases listed by you as being actions in which you claim I acted as attorney. I had no knowledge that such actions had been brought until I saw the statement in your paper today. I did not know Dunn when he brought these suits and at the time when he made the false affidavit of service. You have said that Dunn was a crook and an associate of Goslin. I have stated unequivocally, and you are unable to controvert my statement, that I did not know Goslin either. That should have put you on your guard lest you do me an injury, but you have repeated your original falsehood.

"I never brought a 'strike' suit in my life. I never brought action for a penalty in my life, with one exception, and that was when I brought an action for $50 against the B. R. T. for the purpose of establishing the right of a passenger to insist upon having a transfer from one line to an intersecting line. That suit was brought in the public interest and, for the purpose of establishing a transfer principle, without regard to the penalty or its amount.

Takes Up "Strike Suits."

"The court records indicate that apparently Dunn did bring suits for strike purposes, and when the person sued responded or showed signs of resistence he allowed the cases to be dismissed. Thus persons whose names he used as attorneys did not learn of these suits. It seems to have been a scheme that Dunn or Goslin evolved. All the records indicate this fact. No complaints were filed except in the Schwartz case and the case where Dunn himself was complainant. The actions were commenced merely by the issuance of summonses.

"The layman may not know that anyone who applies to the court clerk and pays the requisite fees can secure summonses and start actions in the name of any person without the knowledge of that person. This is what Dunn did.

"If The World had taken ordinary care to examine these court records, it would have found intrinsic evidence that these suits were not commenced by me.

"In the case where Dunn was plaintiff the complaint is inclosed in a back, or cover, on which is typewritten the name 'John Hylan,' as the attorney for the plaintiff. If you assume that this is my name, it is misspelled and

PLOT TO DEFEAT THE LIBERTY LOAN BARED AT CAPITAL

INSIDIOUS METHODS USED

Personal Advice, Hampering of Publicity, and Pressure on Banks Disclosed.

LOAN TOTAL $1,500,000,000

That Is Washington's Maximum Estimate—Figures Here Reach $460,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Pro-German agents in the United States, according to reports to the Treasury Department, have directed their energies toward defeating the Liberty Loan. Their organized propaganda is alleged to have borne fruit in scattered localities from Minnesota to Texas, where weak efforts have been made, not openly, but by indirect methods, to discourage subscriptions.

The work of the pro-German agents, officials assert, has been carried on for more than two weeks. Some of the workers have had the temerity, reports to the Treasury indicate, to conduct their operations here in the national capital.

Official recognition of the propaganda against the loan was voiced today by Colonel Herbert M. Lord, representing the War Department at the War Risk Insurance Conference, at which the details of the new soldiers' and sailors' insurance law are being explained to officers and enlisted men from various cantonments.

Organized Effort Made.

"There has been organized effort," said Colonel Lord, who was Chairman of today's meeting, "to discourage and defeat the loan."

This effort, he added, had been made by "seeking to misrepresent the patriotism of the national army."

Colonel Lord added tonight in explanation that what he really said to the conferees was that if they had read the morning newspapers they had observed there was an organized effort to discourage and defeat the loan. He explained also that he had no knowledge other than what he saw in the newspapers and that, so far as he knew, there was no organized effort among the soldiers to discourage the loan.

An official account of the proceedings of the conference, which was held behind closed doors, issued tonight by the Treasury Department, reads as follows:

"In convincing refutation of the slander, which was to the effect that the men of the new national army were opposed to the war, Colonel Lord announced that subscriptions from the army for the loan already aggregate $26,000,000, and that some of the subscriptions were written in foreign languages.

"The announcement caused great enthusiasm among the delegates from the army and navy, marine corps and coast guard, (attending the conference,) 500 of whom swarmed up to the platform following the address and signed war insurance applications, all of which, except forty, were for the maximum of $10,000."

Assembled from various sources, the efforts of workers against the loan appear to have been directed along four main channels:

> Attempts to discourage prospective buyers of Liberty bonds.
>
> Efforts to prevent certain banks from handling the bonds.
>
> The publication in certain newspapers and other mediums of publicity of editorials and articles which, while not directly opposing loan subscriptions, tend to discourage buyers.
>
> The prevention, so far as local and sporadic efforts can prevent, of the placing of Liberty Loan posters and advertising literature where they will be most beneficial.

Plotters in Guise of Friends.

Attempts to discourage buyers by the personal plea method have been confined mostly to the East. Instances have been brought to the attention of officials where buyers have been approached, apparently in a spirit of great friendship, and advised not to buy the bonds.

Efforts to prevent banks from handling the bonds have centered chiefly in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Missouri and Oklahoma. The President of a Wisconsin bank has advised the Treasury that his depositors, mostly Germans, or of German parentage, have withdrawn many thousands of dollars from his bank because he aided the First Liberty Loan.

These depositors, he added, had taken their accounts to two rival banks on the understanding that those banks would not aid the second Liberty Loan. The two banks, he reported, were not aiding the loan in any way.

Many banks have felt the pressure of German influence in this propaganda, reports indicate. So pronounced was the movement that the States of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Montana recently decided that they would withdraw State funds from any bank which did not support the loan.

In Missouri and Oklahoma the pro-German element is said to have applied strong pressure on bank Directors and officers to induce them to refrain from participating in the flotation of the second loan. This movement proved to be a boomerang, it is said. The banks turned a deaf ear to these representatives and subscriptions are now reported to be increasing heavily in that region.

A check is kept by the Treasury on all newspaper editorials and articles referring to the loan, not only in publications printed in English, but in the foreign language press. A number of such publications, it is asserted, have been industriously printing editorials and articles of a tone apparently studied to produce impressions unfavorable to the loan.

Active Even in Washington.

The fourth phase of opposition—attempts to prevent the posting of Liberty Loan posters and placards in advan-

British Airplanes Bomb Factory in Rhenish Prussia

LONDON, Oct. 17.—An official communication dealing with aviation issued tonight says:

"British airplanes carried a very successful bombing raid this afternoon into German territory. A factory west of Saarbrücken, some forty miles beyond the German frontier, was attacked, and many bombs were dropped with good effect. Fires were seen to break out in the factory.

"All of our machines returned safely."

FIND COAL CACHE OF 1,000,000 TONS

MOVE TO COMMANDEER IT

Garfield Again Warns Operators and Strikers That Mines Must Be Kept Working.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The Fuel Administration has found approximately 1,000,000 tons of soft coal "cached" in the Cleveland district by private interests now obtaining a steady supply to meet present needs, and has made plans to commandeer much of this surplus at Government rates if the shortage in other sections makes such action advisable. Under this scheme mines would later be directed to replenish the supply seized as it was needed at the price the Administration had paid for it.

This was one of the most important developments which became known today in connection with the efforts of Dr. H. A. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, to keep the Government and the manufacturers of war essentials supplied with coal. Investigations are being made in several other districts to ascertain if corporations are storing quantities above immediate needs. Dr. Garfield has persisted in his assertions that the alleged shortage was not as "real" as some operators and manufacturers insisted and has said that he was prepared to "go the limit" where any situation not to the Government's liking presented itself.

Dr. Garfield said today that photographs had been taken of the coal stored in the Cleveland district, and were in the possession of the Fuel Administration as evidence. Facts and figures also have been obtained to show the actual requirements of the firms involved, the amount of coal they are now obtaining above the stored surplus and the nature of their output—whether it contributed directly or indirectly to the conduct of the war. Some of the products included articles made from steel, brass, glass and tubings. A number of [illegible] come in the so-called "luxury" [illegible]. Many acres of ground have been set aside for the storing of this coal, it was said. Arrangements are already being made for cars to move a large part of the coal from the Cleveland district to other places where it is needed. In the meantime, the country-wide survey will be carried on to determine whether such conditions exist in other sections.

Warning to Miners.

The second development of importance today was an announcement by Dr. Garfield that miners and operators who participated in any way in the threat to tie up production by strikes in order to force the hand of the Fuel Administration in agreeing to price increases for coal at the mine to meet wage increases would not only be branded as unpatriotic, but would find themselves involved in the meshes of Federal law.

Dr. Garfield was in conference during the day with John P. White, President of the United Mine Workers of America, who reported that so far the strikes in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Pennsylvania were local in character, although they were threatening to spread. He expressed the hope that the men could be induced to return to work.

Dr. Garfield said that some persons evidently had failed to understand the gravity of the situation confronting the country, and were thinking of themselves first and their country second by advocating strikes in an effort to make the Government act favorably, without due consideration, upon requests for increases over the schedule set by President Wilson.

Such action, he said, could have but one effect. He said he would postpone rather than hasten his decision and use whatever powers were necessary to compel the production of coal to meet the needs of the nation.

In discussing the course he would pursue if operators and miners proved recalcitrant in the face of his warning, Dr. Garfield refused to give his plans in detail. He has open to him under the provisions of the food control law the right to exercise the power of commandeer of mine or output which would involve Government operation. He could seize individual mines or all of the mines. It is not believed, however, that the power of taking over mines will be exercised on a wholesale scale, as it is felt that disputes will be settled and maximum production continued.

Dr. Garfield said that strikes now in progress did not seriously affect production, but he felt that they should not be permitted to spread to other and larger fields if any action or appeal on the part of the Government could prevent such a crisis. He seemed confident that operators and miners would realize their duty to the nation and co-operate to supply its needs pending the decision of the Fuel Administration as to the necessity for increased wages and coal prices. This telegram was sent by Dr. Garfield to miners and operators in certain districts of Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio, where strikes among the miners

INTERNAL BREAK FORECAST

ARMY IS SHORT OF MEN

Battleship Crews Sent to Western Front—Austria Puts Landsturm on First Line.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—When will the war end? Government officials, representatives of the Allies in Washington, high officers of the army and navy, and others concerned have been trying to find the answer for weeks. It is now possible to say that, in the light of information received from agents of the United States abroad and from all reliable sources of opinion, the rather general sentiment is that the Central Powers will face defeat and be prepared to make substantial concessions for peace with the end of the next fighting season—about this time next year.

The Government is preparing for military activity of at least three years, but while preparations will not be lessened in any degree, there is a constantly growing feeling that Germany and her partners cannot hold out beyond the Winter of 1918. Well-informed officials say that it is not well to be too optimistic, as the situation is full of uncertainty and they are reticent in making predictions that contain any degree of positive statement. They believe that the way to win the war is to keep everlastingly at it as long as Germany is able to fight.

In this spirit the preparedness program is going forward and it is not beyond the mark to say that the Central Powers will be astonished when they come to feel the force of American military and naval methods.

Guarding Against Misinformation.

At the same time attention is called to the danger of underestimating Germany's reserve strength, both military and economic. Many, indeed most, of the reports that are coming to Washington from Government agents abroad give the impression that things are going badly for Germany and Austria. But it is realized that the tendency of these agents is to lay stress on information which shows the Central Powers to be in the throes and that although the multiplicity of these reports makes an impressive showing, experience has shown that there is another side to the case of Germany and the nations associated with her in the war.

For instance, according to a suggestion made today, it is not doubted here that Germany has made much of the opposition to the war voiced by Senator La Follette and his pacifist following. In this country it is well understood that the La Follette effort to weaken the participation of the nation in the great struggle amounts to nothing in the face of the patriotic determination of the great majority of the American people to fight the war to a finish. Germany, however, in the opinion held in Washington, has probably convinced a large portion of the country's population that opposition to the war is very marked in the United States, so marked that the Wilson Administration will be forced to withdraw from active participation at an early day.

Officials are therefore guarding against being misled as to conditions in Germany, as they understand that Germany is being misled as to conditions in this country. With the danger of over-optimism in mind, they are applying the acid test to all the information that comes to them about the state of affairs in the Central Empires. The sifting process has been thorough, and is considered free from the tendency to exaggerate, and the opinions that have been deduced are therefore regarded as worthy of credence.

Unrest Believed to Be Growing.

This Government is now convinced that the leaven of democracy is working in Germany. Today the prediction was made in one of the best informed Governmental quarters that by this time next year the growing demand among the German people for a larger participation in the management of their Government would have become effective and thus afford the basis for German compliance with President Wilson's dictum, indorsed and subscribed to by the Entente, that no peace is possible until Germany's methods have been reformed to the extent of permitting the German people themselves to furnish the guarantees for the observance of peace terms, which the President will not trust the present rulers of the Empire to fulfill.

The mutiny among the seamen of Germany's Grand Fleet is a case in point. All the evidence reaching the State Department indicates that the outbreak was due to the inculcation of the spirit of democratic revolution among German sailors. Confidence is growing that Chancellor Michaelis will soon be obliged to step down.

One of the features of the situation is that the Prussian autocracy is resisting the effort toward democratization. It is felt here that this failure of the autocracy to realize the danger of the unrest among the people will lay the foundation for a sudden explosion that will have momentous results because of its suddenness, just as the Russian revolution gained headway.

The German Government, according to the advices reaching Washington, has not backed up its accusation of Socialist members of the Reichstag for causing the mutiny in the fleet by ordering the

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—News of the torpedoing and disabling of an American destroyer by a German submarine in European waters was flashed to the Navy Department tonight by Vice Admiral William S. Sims, commanding the naval expeditionary force abroad. One member of the crew was killed by being blown overboard and five others, including a gunner's mate, were injured, but not seriously.

Vice Admiral Sims gave few details, but it is assumed that there was no fight and that the U-boat made good her escape after launching a torpedo without showing herself.

In accordance with the policy of secrecy concerning American naval operations the department did not divulge the name of the destroyer or the exact place of the encounter.

Official announcement was made by Secretary Daniels in this statement:

"The Navy Department has received a message from Vice Admiral Sims stating that on Oct. 16 an American destroyer was torpedoed by a submarine while on patrol duty in European waters.

"The vessel was not sunk and has since arrived in port.

"The casualties were as follows:

"Killed: Osmond Kelly Ingram, gunner's mate; next of kin, (mother,) Bettie Ingram, 504 Third Street, Pratt City, Ala. Ingram was blown overboard and his body was not recovered.

"The wounded, none of whom were seriously injured, are:

This is the first time an American warship has been hit by the enemy since the war began. Destroyers convoying troops and merchantmen have engaged submarines and are believed to have accounted for some of them, and the ships patrolling the European shipping lanes undoubtedly have had many an encounter of which nothing has been heard, but until yesterday none had been touched by a hostile shot.

Naval gun crews on armed American merchantmen have not been so fortunate. Many of them have had to abandon their charges and take to the boats—usually after an attack without warning—and one officer and thirteen men have lost their lives, while four men now are in German prison camps.

Naval officers believe that the torpedoed destroyer was taken unawares by the submarine and had no chance to bring her guns into play. They think it probable that the U-boat accidentally stumbled upon the patrolling destroyer and was fortunate enough to get into position to launch a torpedo and dive to safety without ever showing more than her periscope.

It is believed, too, that the destroyer must have been steaming slowly over her beat, for at top speed these craft present an almost unhittable target to the submarine.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 17.—Herman H. Pankratz, one of those wounded on the destroyer attacked by a German submarine, has two brothers serving in the navy. He enlisted himself here three years ago. His home is in Claremont, N. H.

There is no such address in New York as that given as the home of William Edward Merritt. The West Thirty-first Street address given in the case of Patrick Rutledge is a warehouse.

18 British Ships Were Sunk By U-Boats Last Week; Reventlow Admits Submarine War Is Weakening

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Twelve British merchant vessels over 1,600 tons were sunk by mine or submarine in the last week, according to the statement of the British Admiralty tonight. Six vessels under 1,600 tons and one fishing vessel were sunk.

[In the previous week fourteen vessels over 1,600 tons, two under that tonnage, and three fishing vessels were sunk.]

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 17.—Count zu Reventlow, mouthpiece of the German Admiralty, publishes in his newspaper, the Deutsche Tageszeitung, an article preparing his readers for a decrease in submarine destructiveness in September as shown by the German statistics, publication of which is about due.

In addition to his earlier explanations of the decrease in the figures of tonnage sunk, Reventlow advances the theory that Great Britain has withdrawn ships from service for the remainder of the year in order to have them in readiness to transport the Argentine harvest in January. These withdrawals, he says, decrease the opportunities of the submarines for sinkings. This theory contrasts with his earlier assertions that Great Britain's available tonnage already had become too small for its needs.

Sudden changes in the routes of ships, Reventlow says, are making it increasingly difficult for submarines to find their prey. He attributes to American authority a statement that the voyage of passenger liners between America and England now requires twenty-six days.

ROME, Oct. 17.—The losses to Italian shipping through submarines for the week ended Oct. 14 were four steamers over 1,600 tons. One packet boat and one sailing vessel escaped attacks.

GERMANS FINISH OESEL CONQUEST

ATTEMPT TO BRIDGE DVINA

Frustrated by Artillery, Petrograd Says—German Baltic Fleet Is Reinforced.

BERLIN, Oct. 17, (via London.)—German troops have captured the Russian island of Oesel, in the Gulf of Riga, in its entirety, it was announced today by the General Staff.

The German statement says that Teutonic naval forces had encounters with Russian torpedoboat destroyers and gunboats north of Oesel Island and in the Bay of Riga, and that these resulted favorably for the Germans. Naval aircraft dropped bombs on Pernau, a Russian port on the Gulf of Riga, where large fires were observed.

The War Office statement says:

> The enemy forces which still offered resistance on the Svorb Peninsula have been overcome. As a result the Island of Oesel is fully in our possession. The booty is increasing. More than 1,100 prisoners were brought in yesterday.
>
> Our naval forces have had encounters with Russian destroyers and gunboats north of Oesel Island and in the Bay of Riga, which resulted favorably to us. Without losses on our part the enemy ships were compelled to retire.
>

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 17.—The National Tidende's Malmo, Sweden, correspondent telegraphs:

"Between Monday and Tuesday a great number of German warships were seen, including submarines and destroyers. It is believed here that the Germans are reinforcing their Baltic fleet."

Russians on Oesel Cut Off.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 17.—The Russian War Office has completely lost touch with the Russian forces on the Island of Oesel, it was officially announced today.

At 5 o'clock this morning the Germans attempted to throw a bridge across the Dvina River, in the Riga region, but the Russian artillery frustrated their plan and destroyed the bridge work.

One German dreadnought, which ran into the Russian mine field defending Oesel Island on Oct. 12, struck a mine, the statement adds. After the explosion the warship made for the coast and its ultimate fate is not known.

The War Office statement reads:

> On the Baltic, profiting by the calm, bright weather, the enemy has been actively engaged in aerial scouting, principally in the region of the Baltic Islands. Our aviators ascended to meet the enemy. In an aerial engagement our aviator, Safonoff, brought down an enemy machine, which fell with in our lines. A Zeppelin flew over Moon Sound.
>
>
> The enemy continued to develop his success on the island of Oesel, pressing back our detachments, which were covering the mole between Oesel and Moon Islands. Land communications have thus been interrupted between the two islands and we have completely lost touch with our forces on Oesel Island.
>
> An eyewitness who escaped after the landing of the enemy at Tagga Bay reports that, on the morning of Oct. 12, an enemy dreadnought ran into one of our minefields defending the island. After the explosion which followed the warship made for the coast. Its ultimate fate is unknown.

Counterattack Is Imminent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—What is believed to have been a plan to obtain naval secrets by introducing into the United States Naval Intelligence service a man who was probably employed by the German Government has been nipped in the bud by the Navy Department.

Secretary Daniels permitted it to become known late this afternoon, in connection with the arrest in New York yesterday of Fritz Kuhn and George von Seebeck, that a man of unusual ability, whose name for the present is withheld, and who was a friend of both Kuhn and von Seebeck, had sought appointment in the Naval Intelligence service. Had he succeeded he would have been placed in a position to learn many of the secret activities of the United States Navy.

When this man's record was investigated it was decided that, despite his facility as a linguist and his capacity in other directions, which would have made him a valuable member of the Naval Intelligence service if he were to use his qualifications as a loyal servant of the American Government, his antecedents were such as to render it extremely dangerous for the Navy Department to accept him in so important a confidential capacity. Other circumstances revealed by the investigation caused the belief that he was in the employ of the German Government.

For fear of disclosing information that might hamper or thwart investigations now being made, Secretary Daniels was not inclined to enter into fuller particulars regarding the frustration of the effort of this man to enter the Naval Intelligence service. But it was learned that it was as a direct result of the investigation of the would-be Naval Intelligence officer that both Kuhn and von Seebeck were arrested and sent to Ellis Island to be interned as dangerous enemy aliens.

Man of Valuable Parts.

When the man in question made his application for appointment to be a member of the Naval Intelligence service the Navy Department took it under advisement and began an investigation. This is always done in the case of candidates for this important branch of the naval service. The navy wanted to know all about the man's past, where he had lived, what had been his occupation, and who were his friends. The investigation showed that he was able to speak a number of languages fluently. So far as ability went, it was found that he was a man of many parts who by sheer force of training, initiative, general knowledge, and familiarity with international naval affairs, would surely have capacity in the difficult task of gathering naval intelligence, provided his motives were correct and he wished to give the Government honest and loyal service.

The investigation of his antecedents and friendships had not gone very far, however, before the investigators began to suspect that he might not be the right man for American Naval Intelligence work. Among other things, it was found that the man had been in intimate touch with two men in New York City. These men are Fritz Kuhn, who before the outbreak of the war was London representative of the Deutsche Bank, and George von Seebeck, who had also been connected with a German bank in London. Kuhn and von Seebeck, the latter of whom is believed to be a son of General Baron von Seebeck of the German Army, who commanded one of its corps sent through Belgium in the earlier days of the war, had been living in London ostensibly as German banking experts, but both left England when there was a prospect they would be interned by the British authorities. They came to New York, found employment with the Guaranty Trust Company, which dropped them from its rolls, and were at the time of their arrest connected with an importing house on the waterfront of New York.

Following the trail of the Naval Intelligence candidate's associations led across destroyers have steamed collectively a total distance of 875,000 miles. This is more by several times the distance cruised in two whole years of peace. And what makes the figures all the more impressive is that they have been reached without the loss of a single life or a very serious mishap to any of the units.

Roughly, the destroyers have spent five-eighths of their time at sea and their average time in port has been three days after each turn of five or six outside.

Clear weather and long days have favored them and aided the men in learning the technique of their business of combating the submarines, convoying troop ships and merchantmen, patrolling the shipping routes and rescuing survivors from torpedoed ships.

The Americans, therefore, can claim no small part of the credit for the gradual decrease in shipping losses. First of all, the addition of their units to the Allies' forces, patrolling as they do an area as large as that bounded roughly by the great V formed by New York, Detroit and Knoxville, was certain to make life less comfortable for the U-boats. Next the Americans applied all the tactics of the long experienced British, and in some instances improved on them.

All destroyers added to their equipment depth charges and other devices. Then the crews learned some more about the business of smoke-screening a merchant fleet while they beat off the attacking submarine with gunfire and depth charges. Their gunnery, too, has greatly improved. One gun crew saw the spar of a sunken ship the other day, which they at first thought was a periscope, and shattered it at 2,000 yards.

Many New Ideas Introduced.

New ideas also have been and are constantly being worked out with a view to rendering the work of the submarine increasingly difficult. Filled with enthusiasm over each new experience had with the enemy, the Americans are not slow to apply a more effective method of dealing with him the next time he shows his head above water. For instance, two officers, working on designs for new destroyers, have introduced many new ideas gained from observations made in this anti-submarine game. Still others have suggested changes in gun-firing. In fact, something new is being worked out all the time.

In the period of active service over here each destroyer has taken many turns at patrol duty. This means five or six days away from port at a stretch in varying kinds of weather when the routine is "eat, sleep, stand watch and get seasick." Occasionally this routine is broken by the call to general quarters, usually caused by the presence of a U-boat or crew of a torpedoed ship.

Every destroyer has to its credit at least one encounter with a submarine while some of the more fortunate have stalked two or three under-water craft. At no time, however, have the submarines shown fight. They always avoid a meeting.

The depth charges are feared most by the U-boat commanders. These weapons, as announced recently by the American Navy Department, are high explosives timed to explode by water pressure at the desired depth. Naval officers make no secret of the effectiveness of this new-found antidote for the submersible.

German Morale Weakening.

The wide cruising radius of the American boats also has helped to produce unmistakable signs of a weakening in the morale of the U-boat crews. They have made the U-boats spend more time under water than they used to do. There is not so much destruction of ships by gunfire and bombs as formerly. The augmented destroyer patrol has made the submarines use up more torpedoes, with the result that they have to return to their base more frequently for reloading.

When not patrolling the shipping lanes, the destroyers have been convoying food and supply ships and transports. An assignment to convoy American troop ships is welcomed by the men.

The destroyers also have taken laurels in the humanitarian task of rescuing survivors of torpedoed ships. The Americans began snatching torpedoed crews from watery graves the day of their arrival and for a long time not a week passed without several destroyers accounting for survivors.

This rescue work is more often than not done in mine-infested areas and places where U-boats are known to be lurking, and is always attended by grave danger to the rescuer. Frequently while one destroyer is picking up survivors another will run protecting circles around the scene. More often, however, the hazardous work is done single-handed, the destroyer guns booming into space as a warning to submarines not to attempt to interfere.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER SUNK.

Crew of Ship Lost in Mediterranean Is Missing.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 17.—The Norwegian steamer Themis has been sunk in the Mediterranean, according to an announcement by the Norwegian Foreign Office, received here today. All the members of the crew are missing.

The Themis, 7,402 tons gross and 445 feet long, was built in Sunderland, England, in 1911 and owned in Tonsberg.

DUTCH OFFER US SHIPS FOR COASTWISE TRADE

Also Would Let Vessels Transport Supplies to Vladivostok in Return for Foodstuffs.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—It was reported today that members of the Dutch Commission had submitted to the War Trade Board a proposal for the release of a considerable quantity of the tonnage now held up in Atlantic seaports and that the matter was being given careful consideration.

It was said that the diplomats offered as a primary condition that none of the vessels should be employed in the war zone, but might be used in the transportation of supplies to Vladivostock and for the coastwise trade.

Compensation was asked, it was understood, in money and supplies, including a certain quantity of foodstuffs for Holland. Holland also wanted greater freedom in commercial relations with the Dutch East Indies where noncontraband commodities were concerned. The Dutch Government, in return, was willing to give the strictest guarantees that no supplies permitted to go to Holland from the United States would be re-exported into Germany in their original form or in by-products. Holland would like some cattle fodder, but had little hope of obtaining aid in that quarter.

The proposal, it was said, was taken under consideration, but no decision was reached, and it is considered unlikely that any shipments of foods to Holland will be permitted for some time to come. While negotiations are under way, the War Trade Board will remain firm in the position taken that Holland shall get nothing which might go to the Central Powers in the form of fats or other by-products.

In this connection there was a report that the Dutch steamer Zeelandia, bound for Holland from Argentina, had been refused bunker coal and was unable to proceed. This action was in line with the policy announced by the Exports Administrative Board before it was reorganized into the War Trade Board.

An attaché of the Dutch commission said today that a Dutch shipping firm's representative in this country had reported the nontransmission of a cablegram sent by him to Holland, indicating that the British embargo upon the use by the Dutch of the British commercial cables is in effect between the Netherlands and the United States. Minister Van Rappard stated that he had suffered no inconvenience in transmitting legation telegrams to The Hague, but that he did not know whether Dutch business interests were experiencing any difficulty.

Tardieu's Mission Extended.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—The Journal Officiel promulgates a decree renewing for another six months the special mission to the United States of Captain Andre Tardieu. The previous authorization expired on Oct. 15.

BIG GUNS THUNDER ON FLANDERS FRONT

Haig Sends Very Brief Messages, but Berlin Emphasizes the Heavy Fire.

MAY INDICATE A NEW DRIVE

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A laconic message from Sir Douglas Haig today in regard to the western front is regarded, coupled with Berlin wireless reports of heavy artillery fire on the Flanders front, as a sign that a new British drive may be imminent. Even in tonight's bulletin the British commander told of nothing but the gunfire.

The dispatch from the British Headquarters today reads:

"There is nothing of special interest to report."

The official communication, issued tonight, says:

> Hostile artillery has shown considerable activity during the day northeast of Ypres and on the coast sector. The activity of our own artillery on the battle front continues.
>
> There is nothing further of special interest to report.

The Belgian communication issued at Havre says:

> Yesterday our artillery successfully shelled enemy works in the region of Dixmude. Our fire during the artillery action on Oct. 15 and 16 caused very serious damage to the enemy organizations in the region of Dixmude.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The artillery fire on the Flanders front gained in intensity in certain sectors yesterday and last evening, while this morning it increased in violence along the whole front, Army Headquarters announced today. The statement reads:

> Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht.—In Flanders the artillery duel swelled again yesterday to considerable intensity from the inundated region on the Yser to the Lys. In some sectors the intensity of the fire increased in the evening, and on the whole front this morning. Except for reconnoitring engagements, which were numerous between La Bassée Canal and the Scarpe, there was no infantry activity.
>
> Front of the German Crown Prince.—The artillery duel northeast of Soissons developed yesterday into extreme violence at times and continued into the night. In Western Champagne, in the Argonne, and on the eastern bank of the Meuse the artillery activity reached a greater violence.
>
> Ten enemy airplanes and one captive balloon were shot down yesterday.
>
> Dunkirk has again been attacked by our aviators, who observed conflagrations caused by their bombs.
>
> In reprisal for the dropping of bombs by enemy aviators on open German towns, bombs have been dropped by us on the town of Nancy, lying within the region of the French operations. Large fires resulted.

The supplementary statement tonight reads:

> In Flanders, northeast of Soissons, and on the eastern bank of the Meuse, there were lively artillery engagements.

Heavy Gunfire at Verdun.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Violent artillery fighting is in progress on the Verdun front east of the Meuse, the War Office reports in both the day and night bulletins. The day statement reads:

>
> We repulsed several attacks, made southeast of Juvincourt, near Mont Carnillet, and on the front north of Chaume Wood. In the last-named region the artillery fighting became very intense late in the night. We made a successful attack on a German trench at the foot of the heights on the Meuse, and brought back prisoners.
>
> There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

The official communication issued tonight says:

> Lively artillery actions have occurred at various points along the front, particularly in the region of the Ailles Plateau and on the right bank of the Meuse.
>

WILSON 'READY TO FIGHT.'

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Medill McCormick, Representative at Large from Illinois, was the guest of honor as the representative of the American Congress at a luncheon given today by French Senators and Deputies. Mr. McCormick, responding to a toast, said he had come to Europe fearful for the strength of France, but that he had drunk from the well-spring of her power.

Premier Painleve, in a speech, said:

"I am happy to welcome an allied citizen and a representative of American democracy. The arousing of a continent in support of justice will prove one of the greatest events in history. President Wilson is working in behalf of justice and humanity and he is ready to fight. France, I venture to say, is not unworthy of America's co-operation, for France will continue to struggle and conquer despite all she has endured."

After paying tribute to General Pershing, the Premier concluded:

"General Pershing's sword and that of France will write the first chapter in the society of nations."

INDICTS PETTIGREW.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Information reached here tonight that the Federal Grand Jury at Sioux Falls, S. D., had indicted former United States Senator Richard F. Pettigrew of South Dakota, for violation of the Espionage act.

Mr. Pettigrew, who is in Chicago getting treatment, was interviewed at a hotel late tonight:

"If I have been indicted," said Mr. Pettigrew, "it was for a speech I made about two weeks ago in Sioux Falls. I said that we were in a war in which we had no business, that we were involved because certain people were on ships where they should not have been. Further, I declared that since we were in the war, the best thing for us to do was to back out gracefully."

On second thought he suggested another reason why he might have been indicted.

"It might be," he said, "for a letter which I sent out in July, 1917, headed 'Making the world safe for hypocrisy, and dedicated to Woodrow Wilson.'" trial of the accused members, and this is looked upon as a sign of fear on the Government's part to risk the disclosures of a public hearing.

SEE TEUTON LOSS OF POWER IN YEAR

Conditions in Austria are encouraging from the viewpoint of the United States and the Entente Allies. The new Emperor is apparently afraid that he will lose his crown unless peace comes soon.

It is well known here that Austria is sick of the war and would go to extremes to bring about a cessation of hostilities. She fears that if the Allies win, a fear that has sunk deep into the Teutonic heart, revolution in Hungary, probably spreading to the rest of the empire, will follow, with the result that the Austrian crown will be thrown into the discard. Should the Central Powers win the Austrian Emperor would confront the likelihood that all-powerful Germany would make Austria a vassal nation.

This Government is prepared to drive smashing blows into the German defense with the resumption of the active fighting season next Spring. President Wilson is determined to see the conflict to a finish. He is keen for the participation of the American fleet, as well as the army, and the encouraging reports of the lessening of German resistance are believed to have stimulated that determination.

SENDING SAILORS TO FRONT.

Shortage of Soldiers Given as Cause of New German Move.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A high naval authority states that there is considerable evidence of the weakening of the crews of German battleships by the removal of trained sailors to the western front. Recently a battleship crew was lined up and the first hundred men were drafted as soldiers.

Volunteers for the submarines can now be obtained only by giving the U-boat crews food much superior in quality to the rations of the rest of the fleet.

LANDSTURM ON FIRST LINE.

Austria's Need of Men Shown by the Use of Reserves.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Austria's army has been so worn down that it has been necessary to draw upon the Landsturm for men for first-line duty, according to cable dispatches today from Berne.

These reports quote proceedings in the Austrian Reichsrath recently when the Austrian Minister of National Defense, replying to assertions from the Military Committee that the old men called out of the Landsturm were unfit for service, said the wearing down of the Austrian military forces made it absolutely necessary to call for auxiliary service with the shortest possible delay, even though this had brought out a large number of men unfit for service.

REPORT HELFFERICH WILL BE SACRIFICED

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 17.—All the German papers agree that the political crisis must not be regarded as over. The situation, it is said, will remain unaltered until the Chancellor, after his return to Berlin, has had time to consider his position. It is probable, too, that nothing will happen before the Kaiser's Balkan visit is concluded.

It appears that Michaelis, before going East to visit the occupied territories, made a desperate effort to save himself from what must be regarded even by himself as his certain fate. He is reported to be convinced that the sacrifice of the Minister of Marine is not enough, and that he actually offered to throw Vice Chancellor Helfferich out of the Government ship is stated by the National Liberal Boersen Zeitung. The paper adds that the position of Vice Chancellor was offered to one of the leaders of the majority in the Reichstag.

The Berlin Zeitungam Wittag says the person to whom the post was offered was von Payer, leader of the Progressive Peoples' Party. The Boersen Zeitung says the offer was refused, "as no leading personality in the Reichstag has any desire to go aboard the sinking ship."

While the crisis hangs fire the German press is devoting an enormous amount of space to the operations on Oesel Island. No recent war event, perhaps, has had so many lengthy articles and telegrams devoted to it as this operation. Great stress is laid on the co-operation between the navy and army work of the warships, being highly praised with the obvious aim of further minimizing the reports of trouble in the fleet.

Another matter to which the press devotes much attention is the problem of fuel for the Winter.

"We have little coal," says the Vossische Zeitung, "and that little is uncertain. It is probable that unless the authorities take action Berlin and its suburbs will contain only unheated houses. The heating question has become as serious as that of food supply. If coal fails, then work in offices, factories, and shops must cease."

The writer says that though the people can endure a shortage of food for a long time, the absence of heat would very quickly have a disastrous effect on the morale of the masses.

By The Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 17.—A German Socialist newspaper says the Socialists have decided to vote against the new war credit of 10,000,000,000 marks which is to be submitted to the Reichstag in December unless Chancellor Michaelis resigns.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 17.—The Berlin correspondent of the Fremdenblatt of Hamburg discerns indications that forces actually are at work in the entourage of Chancellor Michaelis with the thought of a military dictatorship, or at least with the idea of having the Chancellor continue in office in defiance of the Reichstag, supporting himself by military backing.

Conservative and Socialist papers in Germany have been engaged in a controversy for some time on the subject of a dictatorship, but hitherto it had not seemed to be of such a nature that it should be taken seriously.

TEUTONS ISOLATE HUNGARY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Oct. 17.—The Austro-Germans have isolated Hungary from the rest of the world. During the last three weeks no newspaper correspondence has been permitted to leave Hungary.

The Gazette de Lausanne learns that the measure is due to serious agitations and riots against the German masters. The paper adds that it is impossible to bottle up a population of 20,000,000.

The Arbeiter Zeitung of Vienna sarcastically remarks that while such important events are passing in Germany the Kaiser's proper place is in Berlin, not wandering about Europe.

KAISER TALKATIVE ON TRIP TO BALKANS

Let Painleve Come and Take Alsace, Correspondent Quotes Him as Saying.

LUNCHEON A SERMON TEXT

Unworthy of Any German to Live Well, He Asserts, When Best People Go Without Things.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 17, (via London.)—Karl Rosner, war correspondent of the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, has been privileged to travel in the train which took the Kaiser to the Balkans and to sit at luncheon in the restaurant car with him and his staff.

Rosner paints a highly colored picture of William II. dealing with mountains of State documents as the train speeds on the way across Hungary. The Kaiser sat down at the luncheon table with the observation that he had just read Painleve's first speech as French Premier.

"So M. Painleve wants Alsace-Lorraine, does he?" exclaimed the Kaiser. "Good. But he must come and take it. And what are his but loud-sounding phrases with no trace of reason among his words?"

The Kaiser then treated the company to a eulogy of King Carl and Queen Elizabeth of Rumania, whose good work had "been undone in a few months by hunger for gold and power of certain agitators."

Luncheon apparently consisted of meat and fish courses, with bread and cheese, just "what might have been served in a middle class household," Rosner says. That gives the Kaiser a text for a little sermon

"It is unworthy of any German," he proclaims, "to live well when even the best people go without things. What we have of foodstuffs is common property, which by just division is sufficient to keep us alive for an unlimited time and which permits us to await final victory with calm. Who takes more than his share depletes our reserves. He is only the servant of his belly and sins against those who serve the fatherland."

SULTAN AND KAISER EXCHANGE HONORS

Turk Gives His Ally the Diamond Star and Gets the Hohenzollern Star and Chain.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 17.—A dispatch from Constantinople says the Sultan of Turkey has conferred on the Kaiser the diamond star of the Iftichar Order, Turkey's highest war decoration, and that the Kaiser presented to the Sultan the star and chain of the Hohenzollern Order with diamonds.

The dispatch adds that the Emperor and the Sultan have held another conference, the Emperor being attended by Dr. von Kühlmann, and the Sultan by Talaat Bey, Grand Vizier; Enver Pasha, Minister of War, and Hakki Pasha, Ambassador to Germany.

SCOFFS AT OUR ARMY AS SAFE TO IGNORE

Troops Can't Arrive Till Summer, Says Major Hoffe—Not Better Fighters Than Rumanians.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 17.—The Weser Zeitung of Bremen publishes an article by Major Hoffe of the German General Staff on the effect of America's entrance into the war. After reviewing the difficulties of the United States in training and transporting troops to Europe, he says that the American military possibilities may be safely ignored by Germany.

"Before the declaration of war," he says, "the military resources of the United States consisted of an insufficiently trained regulararmy of only 100,000 and a National Guard of 120,000 hardly trained at all. The various measures taken to increase the army will result in the formation by Spring of an army of about 1,400,000, which has only received minimum training.

"No considerable part of this army can reach Europe before Summer, while, in any case, a large number must be retained at home, so that not more than 400,000 or 500,000 men can be sent to Europe.

"The transport difficulties will be enormous. Two and a half million tons of shipping will be necessary to transport and supply sixteen divisions, and the total American shipping, even allowing for confiscated ships and new construction, will be by Spring only 4,000,000, of which the navy requires 2,500,000.

"Any extensive transport of American troops would cause serious difficulties in supplies to England and France. It must also be remembered that the U-boats are sinking more and more ships daily.

"Finally, the fighting value of the American troops is not great, probably about equal to that of the Rumanians, and there certainly will be fewer of them than of the Rumanians. So, Germany will have an easy task. In fact, it is doubtful whether the Americans will risk the venture of sending an army to Europe at all.

"The only American help to be seriously reckoned with is in the air. Fliers can be quickly trained and easily transported, but the German command has taken all necessary measures to meet this danger. The new enemy directs his efforts less against the German army than against the nerves of the German people and against the internal unity of Germany."

A dispatch from Washington printed in THE TIMES yesterday stated that more than 100,000 American soldiers had been convoyed safely to France already.

$32,550,000 in Army Shoe Orders.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The greatest order ever placed for army shoes has been given by the War Department through contracts just completed, calling for 7,000,000 pairs at an aggregate cost of $32,550,000. This enormous order has been distributed among many factories. Through the Council of National Defense, the Government, and not the contractors, fixed the price at $4.65 a pair.

SPIES ASK PLACES IN SECRET SERVICE

the train of Kuhn and von Seebeck and resulted in their arrest after their antecedents had been traced. The candidate concerning whom no inkling of his identity is disclosed has been under close surveillance for some time, and it is understood that he either has been arrested, or soon will be, and interned.

The revelation made today regarding the effort of this man to enter the American Naval Intelligence service when associated with other outcroppings would seem to indicate that desperate efforts have been made to place men in posts of responsibility, in some instances as spies, where they might obtain American army and navy secrets. Only yesterday Secretary Daniels confirmed the news of the arrest of a man who gave his name as William Lewis Dunbar, who had succeeded in having himself enrolled in the United States Naval Reserve as an ensign and who served as such from March 20 to Oct. 6 of the present year, when he was discharged and turned over to Department of Justice agents. Secretary Daniels, when asked today for further particulars regarding the Dunbar case, said he had no further disclosures to make at this time.

An investigation is in progress for the purpose of weeding out spies from the American Army. It is believed that paid agents of the German Government have enlisted in the army for the purpose of getting American military information of value to the enemy. Recently the officers in command of the officers' training camp at Fort Myer, Plattsburg, and other points were urged in official telegrams to hunt for a German spy. The lookout for this man was based on the receipt of information by Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell and other high army officials that a man who had been identified as Karl Otto von Helferich, an officer of the German Army and a member of the German intelligence service, had spent four days in August last at Fort D. A. Russell. His identity was not uncovered until after he had disappeared. Whether he has since been apprehended is not learned.

ARREST 35 GERMANS IN BARRED ZONES HERE

Five Taken in Naval Ship Plant, and Others on and About Hoboken Piers.

Twelve Germans employed on Lackawanna Railroad piers adjoining the Government station in Hoboken and upon ferries and towboats that pass the army piers at all hours of the day and night were arrested by agents of the Department of Justice last night and taken to the internment prison at Ellis Island.

This action followed a raid upon the ship and engine building works of the Gas Engine and Power Company and Charles L. Seabury & Co., on the Harlem River at 177th Street, upon instructions from the Navy Department given through Attorney General Gregory. Five Germans were arrested in the two plants, bringing the total alien arrests of the Secret Police to seventeen for the day.

It was reported by workers on the Lackawanna piers at Hoboken that at least thirty Germans had been taken from the railroad line boats as they docked at Hoboken between 6 and 7 o'clock last night, and some employes asserted they had seen that number held in the immigration room on Pier 3 to await the arrival of the Government tug from Ellis Island.

A squad of agents of the Department of Justice, directed by Captain William M. Offley, arrived at Lackawanna piers at 6 o'clock and arrested immediately a ticket chopper at the main ferry entrance and two aliens employed in the restaurant on the pier. They were hustled under guard to the immigration room and held there. As the ferryboats came in the agents went quietly to the engine rooms of the vessels accompanied by railroad officials and a German was taken from each of three boats.

Six more were taken from the towboats used to pull freight car barges around the harbor and in hauling coal to Boston and other ports. Most of these boats tie up at the Lackawanna piers, adjoining the army piers, every night.

None of the men arrested had barred zone permits, and the names of none of them were given out last night.

The Seabury Company, where arrests were made, is one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country, and is engaged on a number of large Government contracts. The company is one of the best equipped for the manufacture of light naval patrol vessels such as are used in anti-submarine work. The Germans have been in the employ of the company for a considerable time, it is said, and none of them, according to the secret service agents, had a barred zone permit, which all uninterned Germans are required to have. The plant of the Seabury Company is the centre of one of the most important barred zones in New York City.

The men who were arrested are William Saner, Joseph Schoepe, Henry Freiershausen, Richard Berndt and William Eckerlin. Schoepe, Eckerlin and Saner are machinists, and the other two woodworkers.

This is the first time, since the war began, that enemy aliens have been found at work in a shipbuilding plant in New York. Schoepe is said to have represented himself as an American citizen, and as such to have been employed by the company. He is an expert machinist.

A man who gave his name as William J. O'Neill, and who said he was in the advertising business, was arrested late Tuesday night, charged with personating an officer of the United States Army. The man was arrested in the Hotel Ansonia by Detectives McGowan, Hagan, and Leonard of the Fourth Branch Detective Bureau. On O'Neill the police found a number of letters purporting to be recommendations from officers of the regular army. The man will be turned over to the Federal authorities today.

"While our fleet in the zone of operations is being pressed by German forces four times its strength, our army finds itself in a more favorable position, the strength of the German troops landed being insignificant. Tagga Bay, the only place where reinforcements can be disembarked, is exposed to northerly gales, which have been blowing for two days. The transport of our reinforcements to the island of Oesel, however, does not depend upon weather conditions.

"This explains the persistent efforts of German destroyers to penetrate as far as Moon Sound, thereby threatening our communications, and the enemy's desperate attacks against the troops defending these communications. The matter should be settled before long, as we are hastening the dispatch of reinforcements for a counterattack, which is imminent."

WILSON ENCOURAGES 'AWAKENED RUSSIA'

Tells Mme. Breshkovskaya That Education Is Indispensable for Nation's Welfare.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Messages of feilcitation upon the union of the United States and the new Russian democracy in the cause of justice exchanged by President Wilson and Mme. Catherine Breshkovskaya, Chairman of the Russian Committee on Civic Education, were made public today at the State Department.

Mme. Breshkovskaya cabled:

"We Russian citizens have been receiving from the American people so many tokens of friendship and expressions of good will to help Russia in her hour of difficulties that we feel an imperious desire on our part to say to the great democracy of the United States how near to our hearts is the union with that democratic people and how fervently we wish to preserve that union and friendship so long as our nations last.

"America as well as Russia is a young country in comparison with other great States. Our power is fresh and full of energy. The many heavy blows we have received during our history have hardened our strength and made us enduring in the struggle with the stern conditions of today. Let us, then look courageously into the face of our future and let us devote all our strength to the creation of a new life based upon justice and mutual trust, life free and bright, built upon the foundation of universal education and love.

"Trusting in the teachings of science, and knowing that the common welfare of all peoples is best served solidly together, we have organilzed ourselves into a Committee of Civic Education. A widespread education is necessary to make Russia an orderly democratic country. We plan to bring this education to the soldier in the camp, to the working man in the town, and to the peasant in the village.

"We greatly appreciate the willingness of our elder brother in democracy to aid us in building a true democracy that will guarantee our liberties and give to all in Russia equal opportunity. The Russians on our part are ready to be useful to our brethren on the other side of the ocean and defend the ground of their liberty and common welfare from the assaults of whatever enemies may come. Long live our union and friendship."

President Wilson replied:

"It has afforded me genuine pleasure to receive your eloquent message. At this hour, when the historic events of the last few months have brought Russia into such close touch with America, it is most heartening to witness the courage with which the new Russia faces the problems of the future, especially when the high mission of national enlightenment and preparedness for the great duties which fall upon a civic democracy is advanced an dsustained by such an educational organization as yours.

"We of America long since learned that intellectual development and moral fitness are the most powerful elements of national advancement. As the individual is the type of the nation, so the nation should embody the highest individual ideals of civic perfection in order to assert and mantain its honorable position in the world-family of commonwealths, fulfilling its material and moral duties toward its neighbors, strong in the might of right and fearless in the cause of truth and justice.

"In the effort to attain this goal, may awakened Russia and enfranchised America advance side by side with mutual affection and confident trust."

ATTACKS ON EAST FRONT.

Russian Attempt to Advance Fails, Berlin Reports.

BERLIN, Oct. 17, (via London.)—Russian detachments have attempted to advance on the main fighting front in the East, the War Office reports today, but have been driven back. The War Office statement reads:

> On the mainland (Russian) front there has been a considerable revival in the fighting activity. Enemy detachments were driven back.

Iowa's 'Wets' Win by Small Margin.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 17.—Complete unofficial returns from Monday's vote on an amendment to the Iowa Constitution providing State-wide prohibition tonight showed the "wets" leading by only 887 votes, and it seemed obvious that an official recount would be necessary. The complete unofficial returns gave the vote as 214,634 against and 213,747 for the amendment.

AMERICAN RED CROSS MAKES GIFT TO BRITISH

A Million Dollar Contribution Announced in Connection with British Collection Day.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A list of contributions made public tonight in connection with "Our Day" collection in behalf of the British Red Cross is led by a gift of $1,000,000 from the American Red Cross.

Of this amount $250,000 is for the relief and comfort of the sick and wounded in hospitals and casualty clearing stations in the lines of communications where the British forces are fighting, $250,000 for the maintenance of auxiliary hospitals and convalescent homes in England, and $500,000 for institutions in Great Britain devoted to orthopedic and facial treatment and general restorative work for disabled soldiers.

In a letter Major Grayson M. P. Murphy, head of the American Red Cross Commission in Europe, said:

"We hope that you will accept our contribution as an earnest of the desire of our people to begin to take our share of the burden of the war which your forces have waged for three years in behalf of the whole civilized world."

A RECENT DISCOVERY

The Best Portrait of
ABRAHAM LINCOLN

The New York Times has just received an original impression of the best photograph of Abraham Lincoln, never heretofore published. It will be reproduced on the first page of the Rotogravure Picture Section of next Sunday's edition of The New York Times. The original photograph was taken in Brady's Studio, in Washington, in February, 1861, a few days before Lincoln was inaugurated President of the United States.

Mr. Lincoln was posed by George H. Story, A. N. A., the present curator emeritus of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The result is an artist's truth-telling camera study of Lincoln, the man. It is Lincoln as the clear eyes of an artist saw him, a portrait true to the original in dress, form and feature.

Those who desire this rare portrait should place their order for next Sunday's Times with their newsdealer at once.

The picture as reproduced in next Sunday's New York Times would, a few years ago, have cost as many dollars as the Sunday Times costs cents. It is an extraordinarily true-to-life photograph, well worth preserving and framing.

ROOT FINDS PRIMARY NO BAR TO MITCHEL

Quotes State Constitution as Republican Doctrine of Non-Partisan City Government.

'BEST MAYOR IN 50 YEARS'

Ex-Senator Wants Mitchel Re-elected on Record in Office and as a Great War Leader.

Elihu Root, in a letter sent yesterday to James R. Sheffield, former President of the Republican Club, went strongly on record for Mayor Mitchel's re-election and asserted that no Republican ought to be controlled in the slightest degree by the recent primary vote.

Mr. Root also asserted that Mayor Mitchel should be re-elected, not only because he has been the best Mayor New York City has had in fifty years, but because he has been "a great war Mayor." His defeat, Mr. Root said, would mean the loss of a great lieutenant of the National Government, that the enemies of the country would rejoice as for a victory over loyal Americanism, and that Germany would be encouraged and strengthened in her warfare. He added that "every disloyal man in New York is against him."

After saying that he was for the re-election of Mayor Mitchel as a matter of course, Mr. Root wrote:

"No one familiar with the settled principles of the Republican Party in this State can suppose that in voting for Mayor on the sixth of November he ought to be controlled in the slightest degree by the recent primary vote. No considerations of party loyalty or good faith create any such obligation in a municipal election.

"The people of the State under the leadership of the Republican Party separated municipal elections from State and national elections for the express purpose of making the members of political parties free from party obligation in voting for municipal officers. This was done by the Constitution adopted in 1894. The convention which framed that Constitution was Republican by a large majority. Its President was Joseph H. Choate. Its work was specifically approved by the Republican State Convention of that year. The Republicans carried the State that Fall and by a heavy majority elected their State ticket and adopted the Constitution.

For Business, Not Politics.

"In the address to the people of the State with which the convention submitted its work for the people to approve or reject, the convention said:

> The main features which we propose are as follows:
> We seek to separate in the larger cities municipal elections from State and national elections, to the end that the business affairs of our great municipal corporations may be managed upon their own merits, uncontrolled by national and State politics, and to the end also that the great issues of national and State politics may be determined upon their merits free from the disturbing and often demoralizing effect of local contests. For this purpose it has been necessary, by a series of amendments, to rearrange the terms of office and times of elections of the Governor, State officers, Senators, and municipal officers, so that the elections for State officers will occur on the even-numbered years and the elections for municipal officers on the odd-numbered years.

"The Constitution was adopted upon that authentic and official statement of its purpose and effect. Tammany Hall fought violently against it, but without avail, for the old City of New York voted in its favor, and the City of Brooklyn voted for it by a still larger majority. Well might Tammany oppose these provisions, for they deprive that sinister organization of the tremendous power of party regularity which she had so effectively used to maintain control over the revenues of the City of New York.

"To repudiate or nullify the principle of those provisions would be to restore that power to Tammany Hall. The way in which nominations are made when they are made, whether by primary or by convention, is unimportant. The effect of a nomination is the same either way, and the constitutional principle firmly established is that in a municipal election the voters of every party remain absolutely free. This principle cannot be annulled in one party and maintained in the other. We cannot say that Democrats are free to vote as they choose without regard to the Democratic nomination without saying that Republicans are free to vote as they choose in the coming municipal election without regard to the Republican nomination."

Best Mayor in Fifty Years.

Mr. Root said there were two strong reasons why really patriotic Americans in New York City should vote for Mr. Mitchel for Mayor.

"The first reason," he said, "is that he has been tried and has made good as Mayor. I have known personally every Mayor of New York in the past fifty years, and several of them have been my warm personal friends; yet I am satisfied that Mr. Mitchel has been the best Mayor New York has had during all that time. It requires peculiar qualities to succeed as Mayor of New York, and Mitchel has them. He has shown himself not only honest, intelligent, and attentive to duty, but he is a born fighter perfectly fearless, just as ready to fight a man with votes behind him as a man without them, and he has a tremendous enthusiasm for his job.

"According to his understanding, his job is not to draw a salary and be ornamental, but to have a well-governed city, to knock out the crooks and imposters who seek to fatten on the city under all sorts of political pretenses, and to keep things straight and get things done for the benefit of the whole community. It is a rare thing to find a man like this; and, if we really care about the prosperity and good name of our town, we will hold on to him for a second term at least. It is moreover an excellent practice which encourages very good public officers by giving them second terms. It pays for the public to recognize real merit in its servants.

"All this would be true in ordinary times. It is doubly true now. With the tremendous burden of the war upon us, we cannot afford to waste any strength in trying experiments. All personal likes and dislikes should be laid aside. Wherever we have experienced public servants giving us good government, we had better not turn them out and try to break in new men, who may succeed and who may not. At the very best, the change would mean a loss of strength and efficiency on the part of the American people at a time when we need all the strength and all the efficiency that is possible for us.

Great as a War Mayor.

"The second cardinal reason for re-electing Mayor Mitchel is that he has been a great War Mayor. None of the great war Governors to whom success of the Union cause in the Civil War owed so much was the leader of half as many people as Mayor Mitchel has had under his mayoralty during this war. He has been a great patriotic leader, powerful, fearless, active, effective, arousing his people, holding up the hands of the National Government for the cause of free democracy and the security and honor of our country. All true Americans owe him a debt of gratitude, and we ought to express our sense of that by our votes. If we permit him to be turned out of office, a great lieutenant of the National Government will be lost; the enemies of our country will rejoice as for a victory over loyal Americanism; Germany will be encouraged and strengthened in her warfare and many of the young men whom we are sending across the Atlantic to fight for us will pay with their lives for that encouragement to our enemy.

RIEGELMANN'S LEAD REDUCED BY RECOUNT

Gains for Bird S. Coler were the feature of the reinspection of ballots in the contest between him and Sheriff Edward Riegelmann for the Democratic nomination for Borough President of Brooklyn. On the face of the primary returns Sheriff Riegelmann was the winner by a plurality over Coler of approximately 1,200.

The District Attorney's office in Kings was represented at the reinspection of the ballots, which began yesterday morning at the headquarters of the Brooklyn Election Board, 435 Fulton Street. The first seven Assembly districts counted yielded a net gain of 350 votes for Mr. Coler.

Erasures, like those developed in the Mitchel-Bennett recount of the Republican primary ballots, were shown to have been employed by the Democrats, as well in their desire to make sure that Sheriff Riegelmann, who had the backing of the McCooey machine, got the nomination. In some instances it appeared that the eraser had been plied for the benefit of both candidates.

Heavy gains for Mr. Coler were shown by the reinspection of the ballots in the Third Assembly District, where it appeared that he had won sixty votes, not including ballots in protest owing to erasures or for other reasons, and upon which the courts may have to pass. In the First Assembly District, with twenty-eight election districts, Coler's friends claimed a gain of fifteen votes for their candidate. In the Third Assembly District a gain of forty-three was made by Mr. Coler in a single election district, the Fourth.

"I would like to call the attention of the District Attorney to these ballots," said Mr. Coler. "Every ballot is marked in identically the same way and apparently in the same hand. The District Attorney should call a handwriting expert to show that fact, and summon every voter in the district who is recorded on the books as having voted to swear how he cast his vote."

Assistant District Attorney Conway carefully examined all suggestions of possible fraud which came to light. District Attorney Lewis has been investigating the count of the Democratic primary vote and has announced that if the facts as revealed to him warrant prosecution, he will submit the matter to the Grand Jury.

An official inspection of the Democratic primary vote for Justice of the Supreme Court and for Borough President of Queens was started yesterday in the Queens Bureau of Elections, 62 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City. When the count stopped for the day the boxes from only ten districts of the 188 in Queens had been opened, and the changes recorded showed that the errors were so slight that unless more evidence of irregularity is shown tomorrow the count will probably be discontinued.

HYLAN IGNORES WOMAN WHO HECKLES HIM

Candidate Clings to Manuscript When Asked Why He Doesn't Debate with Mitchel.

Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, got his first real heckling of the campaign last night. The candidate spoke at the Labor Lyceum, Willoughby and Myrtle Avenues, Williamsburg. The hall was only partly filled, about 200 men and women making up an audience that was plainly sympathetic. The Judge got a good reception and, following his established campaign rule, he began to read his speech. He had proceeded about half way when a well-dressed woman sitting in the middle of the hall arose and in a high voice said:

"Why don't you debate the issues of this campaign with Mayor Mitchel?"

Judge Hylan was plainly startled and stopped reading. Immediately the crowd began to jeer at the interrupter. There were cries of "Go on, go on," and the candidate began to read from where he left off.

Again the woman interrupted, and holding aloft a newspaper demanded of the candidate why he didn't answer the questions put forth in an advertisement asking for more specific data concerning the Judge's charge that the Rockefeller interests ruled the city.

Again the Judge hesitated and looked embarrassed.

After the meeting, the woman, who was accompanied by two other women, made her way to the street. As she was about to enter a limousine, she said her name was Mrs. John Smith, and that she lived in Brooklyn.

LA FOLLETTE CASE HELD UP.

Investigators Will Hold No More Sessions Until Nov. 26.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—No further sessions of the committee investigating Senataor La Follette's speech at St. Paul will be held until Nov. 26. The committee found itself unable to proceed immediately because of Senator La Follette's refusal to take part in the inquiry under the conditions imposed. A readjustment of plans will be necessary, and for the convenience of members of the committee it was deemed best to postpone further meetings until just before the opening of the next session of Congress.

Senator Pomerene, Chairman of the committee, issued this statement today:

"Because of the developments of yesterday the committee has thought it best to seek information from other sources. This is being arranged for but it will take some time to collect it. Members of the committee have engagements which demand their presence at home and for this reason an adjournment has been agreed to until Nov. 26."

It is the intention of the committee to hold extensive hearings when it reconvenes. All possible data relating to the accuracy of the statements of fact in the St. Paul speech will be gathered and high officials of the State Department probably will be summoned as witnesses to clear up the facts regrading the Lusitania case.

DEFENDS PATRIOTIC ISSUE.

Mayor Tells Advertisers That Seditious Elements Back Hylan.

Speaking at the Advertising Club, 47 East Twenty-fifth Street, at noon yesterday, Mayor Mitchel defended the stand he has taken on patriotism and asserted that although he did not inject the issue into the campaign he was ready to stand by all that he has said.

"The patriotic issue," the Mayor said, "developed from the 'lineup' behind the various candidates for Mayor and it indicates that nearly all of the forces of disloyalty and sedition are behind the candidacy of Judge Hylan. Another force of disloyal people behind Judge Hylan is the Socialist party."

The Mayor said that a few years ago Charles F. Murphy was instrumental in naming as Governor a man over whom he held a club, so that the Governor would have to do his bidding. When the Governor refused to do what Murphy wanted, he said, the club was used.

"Has Mr. Murphy had in mind Judge Hylan's record?" asked the Mayor. "Has he had in mind his associations, his acceptance of checks drawn by one of the most notorious criminals in New York? Did Mr. Murphy know of this record and regard it as a club that he might hold over Hylan as Mayor of New York to obtain compliance with any demands he might have in mind?"

BENNETT IN FAVOR OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Republican Candidate Promises to Vote for State Amendment on Election Day.

HOMELESS IN MANHATTAN

Nominee Compelled Largely to Speak in Open Air Here — Three Brooklyn Meetings.

William M. Bennett, Republican candidate for Mayor, announced last night that he was in favor of woman suffrage and would vote for the suffrage amendment on Election Day. The Republican candidate added that while a member of the Legislature he had always voted in the affirmative on the measure.

Mr. Bennett was campaigning in Brooklyn last night, where he addressed three meetings arranged for him by Jacob A. Livingston, the Republican leader of Kings. The meetings were held under the auspices of the regular Republican organizations of the First, Third, and Eighth Assembly Districts, and at their club houses.

In Manhattan friends of Mr. Bennett said today, the Republican candidate for Mayor, figuratively speaking, would be homeless, the Republican district organizations in every instance having refused to have anything to do with his candidacy. In the circumstances Frank D. Wilsey, Chairman of the Bennett Campaign Committee, said that the supporters of the Republican nominee would be compelled to a very large extent to make their campaign in the open air.

"The open-air campaign," Mr. Wilsey said, "is already under way and we are having good audiences, who listen intently to what our speakers have to say. Mr. Bennett himself has not as yet taken active part in the open-air speaking, but he will as soon as he gets through with his campaign in Brooklyn. Next week our fight will be focused on the winning of Manhattan."

It was announced at Bennett headquarters in the Bartholdi Building yesterday that arrangements had been made with Major Gen. Bell for Bennett meetings among the drafted men at Camp Upton. Mr. Bennett will make the journey to the big cantonment on Saturday afternoon and address four meetings.

Mr. Bennett, in a statement made public yesterday, said that if the people of this city wanted a business administration during the next four years they would have to look to him for it. The Mitchel administration, he declared, had shown itself too extravagant and too disposed to spend the city's money for non-essentials to be trusted.

"As to Mr. Hylan, he has shown through his association with Goslin the danger of intrusting the spending of $1,320,000,000 which the city administration will disburse during the next four years to him," said Mr. Bennett. "The fact that he reads speeches, apparently written for him by some one else, shows his ignorance of the form of city government and city finances. As to Mr. Hillquit, his idea is apparently that all forms of business activity should be taken over by the Government—that we should all become employes of the Government. My theory is that the money of the city should be spent for absolute necessities and not for extravagances, and that it should be spent for the benefit of the citizens and not for the benefit of the Mayor's financial backers."

Governor Appoints McClelland.

Governor Whitman has appointed ex-State Senator James D. McClelland, who is a member of the staff of District Attorney Swann, to represent the State as one of the New York delegates to the tenth international congress of the World's Purity Federation at Louisville on Nov. 8-14.

SAYS HYLAN OPPOSES DRAFT

Senator Ottinger Asserts Candidate Took Stand Against Law.

State Senator Albert E. Ottinger, who tried to put through the New York Republican County Committee a resolution indorsing the candidacy of William M. Bennett, declared yesterday that Judge John F. Hylan, the Tammany Mayoralty candidate, had told him that he was against the selective draft, and that he expected to defeat Mayor Mitchel on that issue. Speaking at the September meeting of the County Committee, Senator Ottinger remarked that Judge Hylan was opposed to the draft, and a day or two later Judge Hylan retorted that this was untrue, as he had signed a petition to Congress urging the enactment of the Selective Draft bill. When seen at his office, 165 Broadway, yesterday Senator Ottinger said:

"I first met Judge Hylan at the United States Hotel at Saratoga the day after he was designated by the Democratic Fusion Committee. After a few pleasantries I told the Judge that I thought he had a chance of being elected and he replied:

"'Yes, I'll beat Mitchel on this selective draft proposition. I attended a meeting at which Mitchel spoke on the selective draft, and he didn't get a hand. The selective draft is not popular with the people, and that is why I am going to be elected."

When Mayor Mitchel was informed last night of the conversation he said:

"I am not surprised, in view of Judge Hylan's backers and connections, that he is opposed to anything to make America stronger in this war with Germany. We now have Mr. Hylan's personal, direct testimony added to everything I have already pointed out for the proposition that there is an issue in this campaign of a national and touching Americanism. Mr. Hylan, according to Senator Ottinger, expects to win because he is opposed to the selective draft and because I am in favor of it. I accept the issue. If the people, like Mr. Hylan, are opposed to American preparedness, I suppose they will vote for him."

When the Mayor was informed that Senator Ottinger had said that he still was for Bennett, he said:

'Well, I suppose Mr. Bennett has got to have a few votes."

SOCIALISTS AID MITCHEL.

Stokes and Slobodin Repudiate Hillquit Because of His War Stand.

J. G. Phelps Stokes, who left the Socialist Party because of its anti-war attitude, announced yesterday that he would not only vote for Mayor Mitchel, but would aid in his campaign. Henry L. Slobodin, Chairman of the New York State Socialist Committee, also announced that he would not support Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor.

"I am not going to vote for Hillquit," said Mr. Slobodin. "I certainly cannot subscribe to his candidacy. I consider him a traitor to Socialist principles and also am opposed to him for his pro-German activities."

Mr. Stokes said he was going to vote for Mayor Mitchel because Hillquit had stated the prime issue of the campaign to be the war policy of the Government.

"I firmly believe," he said, "that the interests of democracy as well as of Socialism, both here and abroad, hang on the issue of this war and that Hillquit and his associates through their opposition to American participation in the struggle are doing more than any other element in America to jeopardize and wreck the prospects of democracy.

"As has been so correctly pointed out by many, a victory for Hillquit and his peace-at-any-price propaganda would do more to hearten the German Government than a dozen average German 'victories' in Russia, France, or Belgium, and would enormously increase the tragic difficulties and burdens of those who are gladly giving their lives that democracy may triumph."

Dedicate Schuyler Mansion.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The 140th anniversary of the Battle of Saratoga was observed in this city today by the dedication as an historic shrine of the Schuyler Mansion, the home of General Philip Schuyler, who commanded the Continental troops previous to the Saratoga fight and prepared them for that combat. Addresses were made by Governor Whitman and Commissioner of Education John H. Finley.

ASKS HYLAN ABOUT HIDDEN PAPERS

Goslin, purchased ten shares of the Arizona Consolidated Gold Mining Company for $250. He split this ten-share certificate into ten shares, kept one, and assigned the other nine to associates of Goslin, among whom was the same Charles Turner who makes the affidavit this morning.

Says Hylan Was the Attorney.

"Dunn presented his share to the corporation, demanded to be shown the books, and, when they refused, brought action.

"The attorney of record in this strike suit was John F. Hylan.

"Four of these strike suits were brought by Miss Magher, Goslin's stenographer, against the American Asiatic Steamship Company and against T. Ashley Sparks, President Funch, Edye & Co.

"In all these cases service of the summons upon the corporation was sworn to by Charles M. Dunn. In all these cases the attorney of record was John F. Hylan. Most significant of all, in the light of what I am about to point out, the papers in these cases are now missing from the archives of the court.

"In 1905 Goslin introduced a man named Edgar A. Whitney to Isaac Schwartz, a Brooklyn builder. Whitney told Schwartz that another man, named Bernard Uhren, wanted a garage built in Brooklyn. He declared that Uhren was very rich and would think nothing of paying $1,000 more for the garage than the job was worth.

"Schwartz signed a contract with Uhren for $8,350, agreeing to pay Whitney $500 of the extra $1,000. Schwartz started the garage, but when, after expending $1,830, he sought payment on account, he discovered that on the day he had signed his contract, Uhren had mortgaged his property for $3,000 to Anna Irene Magher, Goslin's stenographer.

"On Oct. 6, 1915, Whitney brought suit against Schwartz for the recovery of the $500 he alleged was due him as half of the extra $1,000 that was to be charged Uhren. When this suit came to trial Goslin's tool, Charles M. Dunn, submitted a false affidavit, declaring that he had served Schwartz with a summons, and judgment was taken against Schwartz by default for $517.

"No reputable lawyer with a knowledge of the facts would take such a case. The attorney of record was John F. Hylan.

Refers to Missing Papers.

"It seems almost unnecessary to add anything to this record, but a still more striking circumstance appears in this case. The papers in the case of Whitney against Schwartz have disappeared from the Third District Municipal Court of Brooklyn. They disappeared while District Attorney Jerome was gathering evidence against Goslin, but in the archives of the court there appears this interesting record:

> Plaintiff appears, John F. Hylan.
>
> Defendant appears, (Blank.)
>
> The Court thereupon rendered judgment on the 16th day of October, 1905, in favor of plaintiff for $500 damages and $2 costs, and $15 extra costs.
>
> Transcript issued Oct. 16, 1905, to John F. Hylan.

"On the margin of this record, is the following notation, relating to the papers in the case: 'Taken by Hylan, 1,030 Gates Avenue, party to examine.'

"The climax to this story is the fact that some one has found it to his interest to destroy this notation by running a mark through the words 'Hylan, 1,030 Gates Avenue.'

"John F. Hylan has been exposed as a man capable of driving his own company to the verge of bankruptcy by suits for his own legal services which as attorney for that company he failed to defend.

"He has been exposed as a lawyer who assaulted decent business as attorney for associates of the swindler, Goslin.

"He has been exposed as the attorney of record in the disreputable Whitney-Schwartz case—a case so black that some one found it necessary to purloin the papers.

"I now ask Judge Hylan if he knows where the missing papers in the Whitney case are hidden?

"I now ask Judge Hylan whether he was the man who attempted to erase the name of Hylan in the court record of the Whitney-Schwartz case?

"I now ask Charles F. Murphy whether he or others behind the Hylan nomination had previous knowledge of this public scandal?"

GOOD-BY! third page—hello! last page. That's where I'm going to perch from now on. As an Irishman might say with racial drollery, I've been coming so fast to the front, that I'm going back.

I'll be easier to spot—just flip over your paper, and we're face to face. As always, you'll find my chats as full of tickles as a tailor's tape, and abreast-of-the-hour, though behind The Times.

ASSAILS CITY DEALS IN FOREIGN LOANS

Tammany's Candidate for Controller Charges That Transactions Were 'Absolutely Illegal.'

HYLAN TAKES UP TAXES

Rate Has Become "Little Short of Confiscation," He Asserts—Predicts Budget of $260,000,000.

Speaking at a luncheon of the Brooklyn Civic Club yesterday Charles L. Craig, Tammany Hall-Democratic Fusion candidate for Controller, made the charge that Controller Prendergast had borrowed money for the City of New York at the rate of 9 per cent. in violation of the New York City Charter.

"Controller Prendergast," said the rival candidate for the office he now holds, "has involved the city in huge transactions in foreign exchange. He has made a great number of short-term loans that are absolutely illegal. They have involved the city in huge losses. The facts have been concealed by Mr. Prendergast.

"In 1910 Mr. Prendergast sold $15,620,000 of short-term notes, payable in London and Paris. In 1911 he sold over $46,000,000. In 1912 he sold over $46,000,000. In 1913 he sold over $86,000,000. In the first eight months of 1914, before the outbreak of the war, Mr. Prendergast sold the huge total of $90,436,000 of New York City notes payable in London and Paris. Every one of these loans was absolutely illegal.

"I challenge Mr. Prendergast to point to any provision of the Greater New York charter that authorizes corporate stock, notes or revenue bonds and bills to be made payable in a foreign country. The issues above referred to were corporate stock notes and revenue bonds and bills. For several weeks I have been endeavoring to obtain the particulars of these transactions from the Controller's office. I have been blocked and obstructed at every step.

"When the European war broke out $77,000,000 of these notes were outstanding, payable in London and Paris. This led to the $100,000,000 loan that introduced the pay-as-you-go system. The Wall Street bankers exacted 6 per cent. for the $100,000,000 and also required that the city leave the money on deposit with the subscribing banks at 2 per cent. The City of New York was required to pay $5.03 for each pound sterling had in London as against about $4.85 that the city had received. A like advance had to be paid on the notes payable in Paris."

Hylan Speaks in Brooklyn.

Judge John F. Hylan again carried his Mayoralty fight to Brooklyn last night. Speaking to four audiences, he charged that William Hamlin Childs, Chairman of Mayor Mitchel's Campaign Committee; James H. Post, another member of the committee, and R. A. C. Smith, Dock Commissioner under Mayor Mitchel, were financially interested in sugar companies which had hugely increased their profits by boosting the price of this commodity from 5 to 10 and 12 cents a pound in defiance of President Wilson's mandate against profiteering.

"Are men who will engineer such a deliberate raid upon the people of all classes likely to exert a good influence for you with the officials whom they elect to office on a platform of corporate servility?" asked the Tammany candidate for Mayor. "They are supporting Mayor Mitchel because he is their friend, and remember, the Mayor says 'If you don't like my friends you can go to hell.'"

Judge Hylan predicted that the city budget this year would be approximately $260,000,000, with the special revenue bonds that would be piled on top of the $238,000,000 at which the budget had been tentatively fixed. The tax rate, Judge Hylan said, would be from ten to thirty points higher than this year, while the assessments in many instances exceeded the full value of the property assessed.

"The rate of taxation has become little short of confiscation," Judge Hylan continued. "Yet Mr. Mitchel and his colleagues go on in their happy, rollicking, spendthrift way, with no thoughts of the future and no attempts to lighten our burdens. The Mitchel-Prendergast Administration has paid enormous profits for useless real estate which they have purchased from their intimate friends, and they have leased city property to other friends at rentals that are disgracefully low. When Mr. Mitchel and his colleagues have city property to rent we must be satisfied with a return of 1½ per cent. When Mr. Reynolds, the Mayor's intimate friend, has property to sell to the city he gets profits in some cases of 2,400 per cent."

Cites Dock Property Lease.

Judge Hylan cited as an instance the lease of the dock property at the foot of Joralemon Street, in Brooklyn, which was purchased by the city from the New York Dock Company in May, 1915, for $559,000 and leased back to that corporation for a term of fifty years at $3,518 per annum.

"The lease was made on the recommendation of the Controller, indorsed by Charles A. O'Malley," said Judge Hylan. "Mr. O'Malley is the real estate expert of the Finance Department, appointed by Controller Prendergast at the behest of the real estate ring in which Reynolds, Greve, and Bailey are the dominant figures. He is removable at the pleasure of the Controller. When O'Malley was called before the Grand Jury he refused to testify and tell the truth in reference to the Reynolds-Greve-Bailey land deals unless he was granted immunity from prosecution. Do innocent men exact pledges of immunity from prosecution?"

Mr. Craig said yesterday that he intended to take part in the hearings on the west side improvement which will begin today before the joint committee of the Public Service Commission and the Board of Estimate. In commenting on the tentative proposals of the committee and the rejection of the suggestions contained in them by Vice President Place of the New York Central Railroad Company, Mr. Craig said:

"The New York Central's reply shows the evil effect of the Mitchel-Prendergast deal. They led the railroad to believe that its desire to acquire the perpetual ownership of the commercial waterfront of the Hudson River north of Fifty-ninth Street would be gratified. Mitchel and Prendergast did their utmost to accomplish the transfer of the city's waterfront to the railroad and ruin Riverside Park."

COLLEGE MEN HEAR MITCHEL.

Mayor Addresses Helpers at Dinner at Columbia Club.

Speaking at a dinner given by the Mitchel College Men's League at the Columbia University Club and at two crowded mass meetings in Harlem, Mayor Mitchel last night continued his account of his stewardship to the people of New York, and declared he was confident in the results or an election when the voters compared the achievements of four years of Fusion with the past record of Murphy and Tammany Hall.

At the meeting at the Columbia University Club, where his hearers were men who are going to work for Mitchel in the campaign, the Mayor emphasized the fact that in the last analysis the election would hang on the way in which the people regarded the dominant issues of this Fall. The first one, he said, was of course Murphyism and Tammany Hall in charge of the city government; the second, the question of the personal fitness of Judge John F. Hylan for Mayor.

"There are around this table a number of lawyers," said the Mayor, taking up this point. "If you have read the facts that have been printed from public records, a very large part of which have been—some of them—directly admitted by the statement that Mr. Hylan addressed to the paper that published these facts, and others of them inadvertently admitted by that most remarkable of documents, the affidavit submitted and printed this morning; if you have followed that state of facts you have already formed your own judgment as to the personal fitness for public trust of an attorney who would associate himself with people of this kind and who would permit himself the acts and the conduct that is here shown spread upon the public schools."

The meetings in Harlem, one at Carlton Hall, on 127th Street, and the other at Camp Mitchel, on 125th Street, were enthusiastic in their reception of Mayor Mitchel.

the middle initial left out. Ordinary caution and intelligence should have informed you that that complaint never came from me. Would I, as an attorney, have served papers with my name thus misspelled? I invariably used printed backs of a distinctive color with my name and address properly printed thereon.

"In the actions you list as having been commenced by me, the address on the summonses is written incorrectly. The address given in The World and written in long hand on these forged summonses is 1,030 Gates Avenue, while I invariably use the address 1,028 Gates Avenue. Further, the handwriting on these summonses in the spaces that would ordinarily be filled in by the attorney who prepared them is not in my handwriting but is, apparently, in the handwriting of Dunn, judging by his signature.

"I further find in the typewritten synopsis of what you said you would print Wednesday morning, which you submitted to me at 10 o'clock Tuesday night, you include the case of Dunn vs. The Arizona Copper Mining Company. You say I was attorney and that the case was commenced in the Sixth District Municipal Court of Brooklyn, on Oct. 19, 1905. I never heard of such a case and was not attorney in it and no such case as you describe could have been commenced because the court you say it was commenced in did not come into existence until Jan. 1, 1906.

"I learn that Edgar A. Whitney, the plaintiff in an action referred to by you, in which there appears a false affidavit of service, today voluntarily came to our headquarters and made an affidavit, hereto annexed, that he never retained me and did not know that such a man as John F. Hylan existed at that time.

"If you had taken ordinary care to hunt up Mr. Whitney, you would have learned that when he found himself involved with Goslin and a band of crooks, he went to the office of District Attorney Jerome and told the whole story, which resulted in the exposure of this fradulent affidavit of service.

"You have maliciously and wantonly attempted to do me a great injury. A libel action has been commenced against you and the other newspaper which followed your lead. These actions will be prosecuted to judgment with all possible dispatch.

"I invite honest scrutiny of my private and official life. I especially invite a comparison of my private life, as well as my professional life, with that of the candidate whom you support for Mayor, Mr. Mitchel, and in whose interest you have libeled me, and who, parrot-like, repeats your slanders.

"You control powerful machinery, with which you can give a sinister appearance to the innocent acts of any man. But your whole involved story, running through several days of publication, will crumble, like this falsehood and the preceding ones."

It was said at the office of The New York World last night that an appearance in the case would be noted today.

Silk Shirts Are A Delicacy On Autumn's Menu

THEY are not only the top o' luxury, but also the top o' scarcity this season, and top prices are being asked all about town. I'm asking $5, $6, $7.50 and $9 for fine-quality, hefty-weight silks.

PLOT TO DEFEAT THE LIBERTY LOAN

tageous places—has been carried on in many places, notably Washington. Afforts to get permission to hang placards in the windows of empty shops here in many instances have met with refusal. In other instances, posters have been torn down. In nearly every case investigated, it was found, it is reported, that the person refusing permission also was entirely out of sympathy with the course of the country.

Not until Colonel Lord's announcement today, however, did officials believe that the effort was organized. They now say it bears all the imprints of a carefully directed conspiracy.

ESTIMATE $1,500,000,000 OF LOAN NOW TAKEN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—By estimates made at the Treasury Department late tonight, the first half of the drive for the sale of the second issue of the Liberty Loan bonds, with the addition of two days, has obtained the subscription of $1,250,000,000. This statement is based on the official reports, which are usually under rather than over actual subscriptions. The impression is strong, therefore, that the total up to the close of business today reached the amount of $1,500,000,000, or one-half the minimum quota set for the paign, country at the beginning of the cam-

At the rate achieved in the last three days it would now appear certain that the entire $3,000,000,000 of bonds would be placed, and if the rate of subscription during the last days of the campaign for the sale of the first issue should be repeated now there would be strong probability that the maximum of $5,000,000,000 would be reached.

The official returns received at the Treasury Department tonight from all twelve Federal Reserve Banks giving the amount of subscriptions down to the close of business yesterday afternoon showed a grand total of $700,110,150, which is $175,,000,000 more than had been reported. This was the largest gain on any one day since the campaign started.

The official figures follow: Boston, $77,700,000; New York, $347,600,000; Philadelphia, $23,348,000; Cleveland, $70,250,000; Richmond, $28,313,600; Atlanta, $8,152,900; Chicago, $77,188,000; St. Louis, $5,165,350; Minneapolis, $15,750,000 Kansas City, $6,202,000; Dallas, $5,728,750, and San Francisco, $34,711,550.

Carefully compiled unofficial estimates indicate that the actual sales to date are as follows: New York, $460,000,000; Chicago, $290,000,000; Cleveland, $105,000,000; Boston and Philadelphia, $100,000,000 each; Richmond, $50,000,000; St. Louis, $45,000,000; San Francisco, $35,000,000; Minneapolis and Kansas City, $30,000,000 each; Atlanta, $15,000,000, and Dallas, $13,000,000. Total, $1,275,000,000.

If the unofficial figures are correct, the daily average sale from now on to the close of the drive on Oct. 27 must be more than $400,000,000, if the maximum quota is to be obtained.

PLAN LOAN DRIVE HERE TO REACH WELL-TO-DO

Bankers Point to Need of Men of Moderate Means to Come to Rescue—Total 460 Million.

Although five-eighths of the time for filing subscriptions to America's second war loan has elapsed, the applications reported in the New York Federal Reserve District aggregate only $460,000,000, or less than one-third of the $1,500,000,000 allotment on the basis of $5,000,000,000 of subscriptions for the whole country. Yesterday's gain was $47,000,000, and the official figures of the Federal Reserve Bank showed returns totaling $300,589,100, compared with $460,000,000, the estimate of subscriptions in hand, and in the mail.

The campaign has reached the stage where still greater efforts will have to be made if this district is to reach its expected total, and bankers expressed the view last night that a survey of results thus far obtained indicated that the mass of people of moderate means, who can well afford to subscribe in amounts ranging from $2,000 to $200,000, had not been quite as responsive as have the men and women who earn small wages. As regards persons of great wealth, it is reported that they will come forward during the closing days of the "drive." The men comprising the "ultra-rich" class are so few in number relatively that it is a compaartively easy matter to reach them, and the most influential bank Presidents have been assigned to the task of soliciting them for very large subscriptions. The principal difficulty encountered by the Liberty Loan committees has been to induce persons of the middle class to do their share in the way of aiding the Government in financing the great war. This class did not do as much as was expected of it in the first Liberty Loan campaign, and it is not doing any better now.

"We have found our campaign more or less faulty in effectiveness in reaching the moderately wealthy classes," declared Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company and member of the Distribution Committee. "I have reference to the class that can subscribe for amounts from $5,000 to $200,000. The minds of the men of this class have bcome embroiled with the problem of taxation, their minds are affected by fluctuations in the stock market, and they are perturbed by such irrelevant things as the delay in the delivery of definitive bonds of the first issue, and all the while these men are losing sight of the critical necessities of the nation. The magnitude of the demands upon wealth and the penalty that will come to wealth under the enormous needs of this war year, except as they accept the invitation of the Government to subscribe for this premier security of the world, are not fully understood."

Urges Payment out of Earnings.

Mr. Mitchell added that it would be the endeavor of the Liberty Loan workers to drive home to this class of people the absolute necessity of their subscribing to the loan liberally. He said that just as special facilities had been afforded for the small wage earner buying bonds, namely the dollar-a-week partial payment plan, so the banks were ready to help the people of the middle class to subscribe by offering to lend them money at a preferential rate of 4 per cent. Mr. Mitchell asserted that it was imperative that men should borrow from their banks for the purposes of making the loan a success, and pointed out that just as the buyer of the $50 bond on the installment plan paid for the securiti out of his future savings, so the man who can borrow $10,000 or $100,000 for the purpose of investing in the Government loan, should pay for the securities out of his future earnings.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in an address before bond salesmen at the Harvard Club yesterday, said that he had just learned that 91 of the 103 negro cooks in the barracks on Governor's Island had subscribed an average of $141 each to the Loan.

"If we had airplanes and Zeppelins bombarding our city twice a week, as they have in London, the need for immediately oversubscribing this loan would be more apparent," Governor Strong declared. "There has got to be an immediate increase in bond sales here. The people of this nation have got to be volunteer purchasers of the issue. There are only two ways in which the Government can raise money. One is by taxation, the other is by bond issues. If this loan is not a success Congress will vote a high rate of taxation that will amount to virtual conscription of wealth.

"It is a question of will you buy now, will you invest in a sound business proposition, or will you wait until the Government offers you a tax receipt on which there are certainly no returns? No man in this city need be afraid to mortgage his future earnings. The banks will not call loans made on bonds. The banks themselves are backed by the Federal Reserve Banks and a merchant's borrowing capacity on bonds today is greater than a broker's credit obtained on stock securities."

Increases Subscription $15,000,000.

The United States Steel Corporation, which subscribed $50,000,000 to the First Liberty Loan, announced yesterday a subscription of $15,000,000, which, added to an earlier application of $10,000,000, makes a total of $25,000,000. The corporation may yet make a still further subscription.

Governor Harding Predicts Success.

W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, was in town yesterday. Asked about the Liberty Loan campaign, he said:

"There is no question as to the result of the campaign. Liberty bonds are the safest investment in the world, and this fact alone should be sufficient reason for people to subscribe to them. But this is not the main reason for buying them. The point is that they will save the lives of our soldiers. We must not talk in terms of investment when we should be talking in terms of human life."

Chauncey M. Depew, former United States Senator, predicted an advance in the price of Liberty bonds immediately following the termination of the war.

"I want to impress one point on the millions of New Yorkers and other Americans who should buy bonds and who have not yet done so," Mr. Depew said. "If this war should end tomorrow every outstanding Liberty Loan bond would be worth 15 per cent. more than its face value. In other words, each $1,000 bond would be worth $1,150 and each $10,000 bond would be worth $11,500 in the open market.

Statement by Loan Committee.

The Liberty Loan Committee has received so many inquiries regarding the conversion of the 3½ per cent. bonds of the first Liberty Loan into bonds bearing interest at the rate of four per cent., that it decided to issue the following statement:

"Owners of interim certificates and definitive bonds of the First Liberty Loan will be able to convert their holdings into four per cent. bonds on and after Nov. 1. There are two ways of effecting this conversion. One is by turning in the bonds or certificates of the first issue to the banks, which will then obtain the new fours from the Federal Reserve Bank. The other is by applying directly to the Federal Reserve Bank. In both instances, the Bond Issue Division of the Federal Reserve Bank will handle this business.

"It is expected that a majority of all the bonds and certificates of the first Liberty Loan will be converted by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, even though they were floated through other branches of the Federal Reserve system.

"It will be necessary for persons who obtained interim certificates of the first loan from Federal Reserve Banks outside of New York to have them changed into certificates of this Federal Reserve District before they can be converted into 4 per cents. A branch of the Bond Issue Division at 50 Wall Street will attend to this transfer, as well as to the conversion.

"Holders of coupon bonds may present their securities to the banks of the Federal Reserve Bank, as stated above, but the owners of registered bonds must assign and transfer them to the Secretary of the Treasury before they can convert them."

McAdoo Explains Exemption.

Word was received at the Liberty Loan headquarters yesterday from Secretary McAdoo, setting forth the tax exempt provisions of the 4 per cent. bonds. The statement follows, in part:

> Four per cent. Liberty bonds are exempt from all State and local taxes, except estate or inheritance taxes. They are exempt from United States normal income taxes and from all other United States taxes except estate and inheritance taxes and except income surtaxes and excess profits and war profits taxes.
> The interest on $5,000 principal amount of bonds and certificates owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation is exempt from all United States taxes except estate or inheritance taxes. This is true though their total holdings exceed $5,000. In case of holdings by trustees, each beneficiary is entitled to independent exemption of the interest on $5,000 in trust for him, even though the trustee is identical, if the trusts be separate. In case of families the wife and each child, if the actual owner, is entitled to independent exemption of the interest on $5,000 principal amount so owned. Undistributed income invested in these bonds is not subject to the additional tax imposed by that act upon undistributed income.

A letter from the War Commission of the Episcopal Church, signed by the Chairman of the Commission, Bishop William Lawrence, of Massachusetts, and the Chairman of the Commission's Executive Committee, Bishop James De Wolfe Perry, Jr., of Rhode Island, has been sent to the Episcopal clergymen of the country urging their patriotic support of the nation in the crisis of war.

Viscount Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England, will be the chief speaker at the Liberty Loan mass meeting which will be held this evening at Carnegie Hall. Addresses will also be made by Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, and George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia. President Butler of Columbia University will preside.

Novelist Booms Sales.

Major John Hay Beith, the British novelist, whose pen name is Ian Hay, addressed the Liberty Loan meeting at James McCreery's yesterday.

The other day a rich New York resident said that he would buy a large bond if Douglas Fairbanks, the actor, could be induced to act as auctioneer. The managers of the Liberty Loan Association got into communication with Mr. Fairbanks, in California, and obtained his promise to come to New York and sell the bonds. Mr. Fairbanks is now in town. He will appear at McCreery's at 2 P. M. tomorrow. He will be accompanied by his little son, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

The New York Stock Exchange will be closed at noon on Oct. 24 in recognition of President Wilson's proclamation, which designates that day as Liberty Day. The Consolidated Stock Exchange and the Curb are expected to take action similar to that of the big board, and many members of the Exchanges and open-air market are scheduled to spend the afternoon in soliciting subscriptions to the Liberty Loan.

The management of the Hippodrome reported last night that the special efforts put forth at the big showhouse to get subscriptions for the Liberty Loan brought in $105,500 at the evening performance and $6,750 in the afternoon yesterday. The largest subscribers were Harry S. Black, Charles Dillingham and Mrs. John W. Gates.

BROOKLYN HEARS LOAN APPEAL

A Liberty Loan meeting, exclusively for Brooklynites, was held in the Academy of Music in Brooklyn last night. Alfred T. White presided and addresses were made by Police Commissioner Arthur Woods, Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, and James M. Beck. The People's Institute Choral Society of 150 voices sang.

Mr. Lamont told the big audience that the sinking of the Lusitania, the destruction of our commerce and the lives of our citizens were contributing causes for the entrance of the United States into the war, but that these did not supply the dominant reason.

"We saw a cruel, rapacious, treacherous Government setting out to conquer the world," he said. "We saw the Prussians trampling down weaker nations, crushing them as they would a hill of ants, murdering the men, attacking the women, maiming the children, committing hideous crimes and exulting in them. And we saw that if such a Government ever succeeded in conquering the heroic French, the sturdy English, the vigorous Italians—we saw that if such a victory ever came to pass—then, next, it would be our turn, here in America."

ALIEN BORN HELP LOAN.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—High praise for the patriotism shown by citizens of foreign birth or descent in subscribing to the Liberty Loan was expressed today in a report to Governor Aiken of the Federal Reserve Bank by a sales committee.

"They are willing," said the report, "to sacrifice their own business interests in the cause, which is the more remarkable because many of them are people of small means, struggling to make a living and to gain a footing in a land strange to them."

The Loan Committee announced that the total of subscriptions in the district received up to 9 A. M. today was $95,879,000, with Rhode Island leading in the percentage of its maximum allotment subscribed. Boston's total is $30,344,000.

Among the subscriptions received today and not included in the tabulations were those of Paine, Webber & Co. for $1,000,000 on their own account and $500,000 for their customers. Others were $250,000 from the Fall River Bleachery, and $100,000 from Winthrop C. Durfee of Fall River.

$14,400 from 12th Cavalry Troop.

HACHITA, N. M., Oct. 17.—Troop K, Twelfth Cavalry, stationed here, with four officers and an enlisted personnel of seventy-two men present out of a strength of eighty men, subscribed to the second Liberty Loan $14,400 from 11 A. M. to 1 P. M. on Oct. 13, or a matter of $7,200 an hour.

Chicago Reports $11,000,000.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Liberty bonds worth $11,000,000 were subscribed for today, it was announced tonight, and reports from other points in the Seventh Federal Reserve District were equally encouraging. Among the big subscriptions were $5,000,000 by the Merchants Loan and Trust Company, $1,500,000 by the Pullman Company, and $1,000,000 each by the Union Trust Company, the Illinois Central Railroad Company, and the Lee-Higginson Company. The German Press Club of Chicago decided to invest all its surplus funds in bonds.

Straight Bones That Grew Straight in Educator Shoes
Bent Bones That Were Bent by Pointed Shoes

Don't Let Your Feet Play Traitor!

WHEN, after a long walk or a hard day's work standing up, your feet go back on you, they're traitors to the rest of your system.

Throw away your pointed shoes—quick. Get into Educators, designed by scientists to "let the feet grow as they should." They're

THIS Kit Bag is made by us from the finest Oak-tanned young Steer leather. This is stitched to a heavy steel frame. The thread is pure linen, and waxed. The stitches are beautifully regular, and very close together. The leather is so superbly heavy that the frame can never rust through.

The lining is of heavy Persian Goat, very full, to prevent tearing. Even the side pockets are leather lined.

This bag is worthy of bearing the two marks we have placed upon it—our trademark and our name.

Boys in the Sailor Suit days, the Norfolk Jacket and English single-breasted Sack Suit days, and on through to the long trouser days, should be treated in their dress as little men.

Their clothes should be designed so that the boy may have a manly look, while the quality of the fabrics and tailoring should equal in every respect the standards of the most exclusive men's custom tailor.

In our own building we maintain a tailoring department for boys liberally stocked with fine imported fabrics where, from the most correct English models, De Pinna suits and overcoats are designed and finally tailored by real men tailors.

Boys' Norfolk Suits—A variety of exclusive De Pinna models, with and without pleats or belts, made up in a vast variety of patterns, mixtures, navy serges and imported worsteds. $12.50 to $24.50.

Boys' Trench Coats—Made of regulation army cloth and in English mixtures, cut with that military "swing" that is so much sought these days, 5 to 16 years. $22.50 to $32.50.

Boys' Overcoats—English Slip-on and Belted models produced in imported coatings. Hats and caps to match made on order. The coats, sizes 3 to 8 years, $18.50 to $30.00; 9 to 17 years, $22.50 to $40.00.

EGG SHOWER STOPS COLUMBIA RADICALS

Loyal Students Break Up Meetings Demanding "Academic Freedom."

GOLDMAN DISCIPLE BLAMED

Expelled Student Sought to Make Common Cause with Prof. Beard. Reviving Sedition Issue.

Flying eggs propelled by vigorous but unknown hands assisted in dispersing the second of two mass meetings held at 116th Street and Amsterdam Avenue last night by radicals among the students at Columbia University, ostensibly to protest against the resignation of Professor Charles A. Beard and "the suppression of academic freedom," but in reality, it was said, to revive sympathy for Leon Samson, a student expelled from the university last June for alleged seditious conduct. Samson, said to be a follower of Emma Goldman, has attempted to make common cause with Prefessor Beard, and was one of the promoters of the demonstration that was held on the steps of the university library two days after Professor Beard wrote his letter of resignation.

Patriotic students, organized like soldiers going into battle, also broke up the first meeting of the radicals, which took place at 116th Street and Amsterdam Avenue at noon yesterday. Members of the Naval Reserve, who are taking radio and engineering courses at the university, assisted in dispersing the first meeting.

About 300 persons, including fifteen policemen, had gathered about a motor truck containing the speakers at the second meeting before the eggs began to fly. Earlier in the day the friends of Samson had distributed handbills on the campus announcing that the meetings were to be held, and these had been followed by promises from the leaders of the conservatists among the students that Samson "would be ducked in the college pond" if he made his appearance.

Samson did not make his appearance at either meeting, and about 150 of the patriotic students were on hand at 8 o'clock last evening when the motor truck, containing three men and two women speakers drew up alongside the curb. This spot had been selected for the meeting because, while it is just outside of the campus of the University, it is on city ground, and permission from the University Council was not necessary to hold the meetings.

Some of the patriotic students climbed to the roof of The Spectator, the student publication, and began to do "snake dances" and sing patriotic airs when the speaking commenced. Then, learning from their leaders that they had as much right at the meeting as any citizen, and that the police were not aggressively in sympathy with the radicals, they formed ranks and surrounded the motor truck and the speakers. William Schneider, one of the speakers, who is a student at the College of the City of New York, where Samson also was a student until expelled, shouted to the crowd not to pay any attention to the disturbers, but found it increasingly difficult to make himself heard as the songs and yells gained in volume.

Then, suddenly, the eggs began to fly. One of them, aimed apparently at the motor truck, struck a policeman, bespattering him and some of the spectators.

"Cut that out," roared the policeman, "or ——," but detecting another egg coming swiftly in his direction, he ducked his head, and the rest of the sentence was lost in the eager scurrying of many persons for cover.

This, and the transformation of the jovial mood of the attackers into something more serious proved too much for the speakers, and the motor truck, gathering momentum as it went, began to move through the crowd to safety. By the time it reached 118th Street the truck was said to be going fully fifty mile an hour, and when last seen was sounding its siren lustily for a clear right of way.

Thereupon, the band of loyal students marched to the south field of the campus, where they listened to patriotic addresses by C. P. Ivins, Vice President of the Senior Class, and others who are not in sympathy with Samson and his radical friends.

The first demonstration, while not as exciting as the second, attracted a much larger crowd. This meeting was announced to be exclusively for students who believed in the reinstatement of Samson and the withdrawal of Professor Beard's resignation. The loyal students distributed circulars decorated with a picture of Samson, accompanied by the following legend:

"Our fighting pacifist. Keep him on the jump. You know him. He slew his enemies with the jawbone of an ass. He will speak again today."

Shortly before noon, several hundred persons, many of them friends of Samson, gathered at the appointed spot, and a few minutes later an automobile arrived, carrying a banner bearing the words: "Vote for the reinstatement of Samson." Simultaneously the loyal students, among them about forty members of the Naval Reserve, came up, and marching in squads, forced their way through the crowd. Captain Gargan and ten policemen from the 125th Street Station were on hand, but did not interfere with the marchers. The manoeuvre of passing through the crowd and forcing them away from the automobile was repeated several times, and then one of the naval reservists jumped on the running board of the car and tore the banner from its fastenings.

"Where is Samson? Show us Samson!" yelled some of the students; but he was not to be seen. Finally, like the speakers at the evening meeting, the lone occupant of the automobile decided it was hopeless to attempt to go on with the meeting, and drove off at top speed. A large crowd followed him for several blocks, yelling and hooting, but made no effort to harm him. His name was not learned.

"We are against such demonstration," said Ivins, in addressing the students last night. "We are in favor of academic freedom, but we have nothing to do with Samson or any of his friends. Samson is not a student of the university and does not belong here. He should stay away. Any further attempts by him or his friends to stir up trouble will be checked by the loyal students as promptly as possible."

NAVY WATCHFUL HERE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—"Important —if true." This was Secretary Daniels's comment today on the report that Germany expected to establish a submarine blockade of the coasts of the United States, Cuba, and Canada.

Mr. Daniels made no attempt to minimize the importance of this step if seriously undertaken by the Germans, but indicated that the American Navy was ready to meet any German submarines that might venture to this side of the Atlantic. Mr. Daniels said the report had been sent to all naval vessels and stations.

While it has been demonstrated in the cases of the Deutschland and the U-53 that German submarines are able to cross to this side of the Atlantic, naval officers were inclined today to be skeptical over the Berlin report for the reason that they believe that it would be difficult for the U-boats to remain on this side for successful operations, unless provided with bases.

For nearly a year the naval coast patrol boats have been investigating reports of secret German submarine bases, and this investigation is being continued in all the movements of naval vessels in the coast patrol. If any base has been found the fact has not been disclosed.

PAINLEVE WIRES PERSHING.

Congratulates Commander on His Nomination for General.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Premier Painlevé today sent the following telegram to General Pershing:

"My Dear General: I am informed of your nomination for the grade of General. I desire to congratulate you immediately on the high distinction which has been conferred upon you, which is a just reward for your valor and high military qualities.

"The entire French Army rejoices with me in the promotion of the man who will soon lead to battle and to victory the valiant soldiers of the great American Republic."

FIND COAL CACHE OF 1,000,000 TONS

have already occurred or are impending:

American citizens engaged in the mining of coal, whether operators or miners, are, for the most part, mindful of the fact that our country is at war, and that the burden rests upon them to produce the coal needed without interruption.

But there are evidently some who fail to understand the gravity of the situation and do not hesitate to advocate strikes at the present time, as a means of forcing the Government to, at once, decide whether the wage increase agreed to at the meetings recently held at Washington by the operators and miners of the Central District should justly be covered by an advance in the prices fixed by the President.

The matter has been submitted to me and all concerned are expected to co-operate. I am giving immediate and close attention to the question and hope to report a decision at an early date. The only circumstance within my control which will delay that decision will be the violation of the spirit of the arrangement between the operators and miners, which was that under no circumstances should the production of coal in the United States, at the present time, be allowed to diminish.

If the operators or the miners attempt to bring pressure upon me to reach a decision, I shall postpone it and use whatever powers are necessary to compel the production of coal to meet the country's needs.

H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator.

Garfield Calls for Economy.

In a statement tonight Dr. Garfield said the Fuel Administration and the railroads were energetically working on the problem of getting more cars to the mines and that there was every hope that the coal shortage would be remedied. He said that whether the increased demand for coal would be met by an increase of supply would depend upon car supply, the energy and patriotism of the miners, coal operators, and laborers, and also upon the loyal recognition by every citizen that he is responsible for conservation and limitation in the use of coal to the utmost possible extent.

"Our production," he said, "has shown a steady increase over last year's figures so that the total of bituminous coal mined in 1917 will be about 50,000,000 tons greater than in 1916 and increased production of anthracite coal will show an even higher percentage. Complaints have been received from some mines that the increase in wages of miners has resulted in a falling off of production. It is charged that miners will quit work when they have earned a certain amount of money and thus the higher wages shorten the working time. In most cases where investigations have been made, however, it is shown that the short time has resulted much more from the shortage of cars than from the unwillingness of men to put in full hours.

"It is the opinion of the Fuel Administration that if all the people will show the same patriotism in the use of coal which the miners and mine operators are showing in its production there will be enough coal this year for all war purposes and still leave all that is necessary for domestic industries and for keeping the people warm."

CHICAGO NEAR FUEL FAMINE.

Grave Suffering Predicted Unless Mines Are Reopened at Once.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—It was predicted here tonight that if the coal strike in Illinois and Indiana continued for ten days there would be a fuel famine in Chicago and a majority of the big office buildings in the loop district would be compelled to shut down. Reports received from the Illinois coal fields showed the strike spreading and 20,000 workmen were out.

Fred W. Upham, President of the Consumers company, announced that his company had only three days' supply of coal on hand, and that his loss since the strike began had been between 8,000 and 10,000 tons daily, with a much greater shortage in sight.

Many of the operators hurried to Washington, where every effort will be made to impress upon the Administration the urgency of immediate action. The one hope held out was that Dr. Garfield may consent to an increase in the price of coal covering the wage increase demanded by the men. This would amount to 40 cents a ton, it was said.

Dynamite in War Supply Plant.

AMERICA TO JOIN PARIS WAR COUNCIL

Lansing Indicates That United States Will Be Represented with the Other Allies.

RUSSIA THE CHIEF PROBLEM

Italy Also Wants Assurances of Aid So She May Resume Her Drive Next Spring.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—It was officially indicated today that the American Government would be represented in the forthcoming war conference which probably will open this week in Paris. The names of the American representatives will not be made public for the present, but it is learned that they will be men of high standing, and that they are available for quick movement to the French capital.

"I think," said Secretary Lansing, commenting on the plans for the conference today, "that I ought to say about the matter of the war conference that there is a prospect that we may be represented in it. As to who will represent the United States there has been no determination actually reached as yet, but we have people on the ground who are readily available."

This will be the first general war conference in which America has taken part. The State Department has been kept fully advised of the proceedings of and conclusions reached at such gatherings, but has not before been officially represented.

In an Entente diplomatic quarter it was asserted today that political, as well as military, naval, and economic questions, would be considered at the conference. Among the more important will be the Russian project for an allied declaration affirming the Russian resolutions concerning the independence of Poland; the Balkan problem, and China. Russia will seek to obtain a declaration from all the Allies, it has been intimated, on peace aims, which will put them unitedly on record as favoring the principles enunciated by President Wilson and the Russian Provisional Government.

Two of the questions to be discussed and upon which decisions must be made are admittedly those of shipping, as underlying practically all others, and Russia. It is hoped that by next Spring Russia will have so rehabilitated her army as to be able to become an effective force in the military situation. Russia's particular problem, before the reformation of her fighting strength and efficiency is achieved, will be to strengthen the control of the provisional authorities, to prevent the withdrawal of more Teuton troops from the Eastern fronts, and carry on such operations as are possible this Winter against the Austro-German and Turkish armies.

While Russia is performing these tasks, the United States will undertake to supply Russia with equipment of every description, rolling stock, guns, munitions, and credits, to be available for the Spring operations. What Russia needs will be stated to the conference by General Alexieff, former Chief of the General Staff, who announced in Petrograd on his departure for Paris that he would outline the Russian situation fully.

MEDICAL OFFICER WOUNDED

Lieut. A. Graham, Attached to British Forces, Is Shot.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—First Lieutenant A. Graham, Medical Officers' Reserve Corps, attached to the British forces, has been severely wounded in the thighs by gunshot. General Pershing so advised the War Department today without giving details. Lieutenant Graham's next of kin is Mrs. William J. Graham, of 153 Park Avenue, Paterson, N. J.

If Lieutenant Graham was shot when serving at the front, as is assumed here, he was the first American of the expeditionary forces to be wounded on the firing-line. One American officer was killed and several enlisted men of the medical department were wounded in the recent bombing of a hospital behind the front. They also were attached to the British forces.

General Pershing also advised the department today that Private Jos [illegible] Ziemkowski, of the infantry, died Oct. 15, of natural causes. His next of kin was Mrs. Mary Ziemkowski, Manistee, Mich.

GERMANS SLAY TEN IN AIR RAID ON NANCY

French Aviators Attack Enemy's Positions—British Drop Tons of Bombs at Bruges.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Ten persons were killed and forty wounded in a bombardment of Nancy last night by German aviators, the War Office announces. On Monday and Tuesday twenty-five German airplanes were destroyed by the French, or compelled to land in damaged condition. The communication follows:

"At 6 o'clock last night enemy aviators bombarded Nancy violently. Numerous victims among the civilian population are reported. Ten were killed and forty wounded.

"On Oct. 15 and 16 five German airplanes were destroyed, four by our pilots, one by special cannon. In addition, twenty enemy machines fell damaged within the German lines in the course of eight aerial combats.

"Our bombarding squadrons made a number of expeditions. Numerous projectiles were dropped on military establishments at Volkingen, railway stations at Thionville, Mezieres-les-Metz, and Woippy, and factories at Hagondange and Rombach."

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Tons of bombs were dropped on the docks at Bruges in Belgium, on Monday night by British naval airplanes. The British Admiralty, in a statement announcing the raid, says:

"Naval aircraft dropped many tons of bombs on the Bruges docks on Monday night. On Tuesday one of our fighter patrols downed a double-seater enemy machine in the vicinity of Zarren. The observer fell out and the machine turned over and fell in flames. All our machines returned."

PUSH GERMANS BACK WITH 'TYPHOON FIRE'

FRENCH GIVE TIMELY AID

Area of Operations So Widened in Flanders That Flanking Movement May Result.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The allied armies in Flanders have developed a new system of artillery attack, which is described as "typhoon fire" by Secretary Baker in his weekly statement dealing with operations for the week ended last Saturday.

Secretary Baker asserts that the effect of the "typhoon fire" has been deadly, and has caused great concern to the German high command, forcing the Germans to amend their tactical positions. The Secretary also emphasizes the importance of the dispatch of French troops to Flanders, pointing out that it has supplied sufficient masses of troops for the Entente armies to enable them to drive an ever-extending wedge into the German lines.

Here is the review:

"The allied offensive in Flanders continues methodically. Assigned objectives attained with increasing regularity indicate efficient co-ordination of artillery preparation and infantry attacks. The precision of the allied barrage is proved by the low casualties of the assaulting columns. The deadly effect of allied artillery is confirmed to us by reports reaching us regarding the concern of the German high command at the new allied 'typhoon fire,' which is compelling the enemy to amend his tactical dispositions in an effort to meet the shock of shell rained upon his lines.

"French participation in the operations in Flanders is the outstanding features of events during the past week. The successes attained by the French forces operating north of the British sector, more particularly in the neighborhood of the Houthulst Wood, have given the allied advance in Flanders the needed elbow room. Breadth of front is an essential condition for operations which are to have far-reaching result, for confined to a too narrow base, a really important encircling movement can have no sustained value if along its entire length it can be flanked by artillery fire.

An Ever-Extending Wedge.

"The zone of operations in the Ypres salient, formerly too narrow for the proper disposition of large masses of troops, has now, by the French co-operation and their recent successful advance, so extended the line that fighting in what was the Ypres salient has changed in character. It is no longer to be considered a salient, but an ever-extending wedge progressively driven into the German lines. The operations of the French during the last week are in fact complementary to the engagements which resulted in the capture of Messines by the British last June.

"During the engagements of the week, the French everywhere maintained the positions won in the face of repeated onslaughts. Strong German detachments were ordered to dislodge the French, who now hold the advance positions between the Victoire and Pategout farms, east of Draebank. These, however, were repulsed.

"As was to be expected at this season, bad weather has somewhat retarded the allied advance. Operations were hampered owing to the fact that the well drained ground of the Passchendaele Ridge once passed over, the advancing columns are confronted with the water-logged, soggy Flanders plain, which stretches on to Roulers and beyond. The infantry was further impeded by the fact that allied artillery preparation has so plowed up the ground that the terrain has been turned into a sea of mud, making the going almost impossible.

"Torrential rains and low-lying clouds rendered aircraft observation difficult, and under ordinary circumstances would have caused a suspension of offensive operations, but the inclement weather has not prevented the extension and consolidation of allied gains during the week.

"The enemy, as usual, counterattacked in force. His efforts to retake the positions captured by the Allies have in isolated cases been momentarily successful, but eventually failed. The Germans, fearing lest the allied advance in Flanders would be followed by a similar effort along other sectors of the front, particularly north of Verdun, endeavored to thwart allied plans by launching a powerful attack preceded by the usual intensive artillery preparation in this sector. The enemy was able to gain a temporary foothold in certain advanced French lines. Latest advices show that he was driven out after some hot fighting.

"It must be remembered that if a commander in the field is willing to pay the price, both in the lives of his men as well as in an overwhelming expenditure of munitions, he is invariably able to score a local success. This the Germans gained in their assault on the French positions, along the right bank of the Meuse, in the region north of Hill 344. The enemy's success was, however, more short-lived than was to be anticipated, when its cost is taken into consideration, for not only did the French regain the positions momentarily lost, but they are now holding their positions against exceedingly heavy enemy pressure, at the same time successfully carrying on their offensive engagements in Flanders, as well as raiding the enemy's lines at other points.

"Along the northern sector of the eastern front artillery duels are reported.

"In the vicinity of Riga the enemy, after an intensive bombardment of the Russian lines south of Pskoff road, succeeded in temporarily pressing back Russian advance detachments.

"The growing intensity of artillery fire in the neighborhood of Jacobstadt would seem to indicate that the Germans are contemplating an action of some magnitude across the Dwina.

"Along the Rumanian front the enemy attacked in force and gained a foothold in the allied line, from which he was, however, dislodged by a well-directed counterattack.

"Relative quiet reigns along the Italian front.

"Winter conditions now prevail in the Alpine battle zone, rendering important operations impossible; elsewhere the usual artillery activity is noticed.

"No new developments are reported from other fronts."

WHO WROTE "CHRISTINE"?

The publishers have been attacked because they do not know whether Mrs. Cholmondeley's remarkable book is fact or fiction.

Is CHRISTINE Fact or Fiction?

Many readers have openly expressed their opinions of Christine—few have denied it to be one of the most truthful books evoked by the great war.

Is CHRISTINE Worth While?

Read what English critics say of Christine:

"The letters of a loving daughter to a devoted mother—bright, tender, hopeful and witty. A remarkable, pathetic, human document."—East London Sentinel.

"So realistic both in style and matter as to leave no doubt that its author wrote from actual experience . . . it tells a simple story with piquant directness and sure human instinct."—The Daily Telegraph.

"Told so vividly it is hard to believe it written by any but an eye-witness."—London Times.

"One of the most vital and intense condemnations of Germany that has been or will be produced. . . . One can hardly doubt its genuineness."—Land and Water.

SHIPYARDS TO WORK BOTH DAY AND NIGHT

STRIKE OUTLOOK BETTER

San Francisco Labor Is Reported to Have Promised to Accept Adjusters' Finding.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The United States Shipping Board is at work on a plan to get twenty-four hours of service a day out of all shipyards in an effort to speed up the construction of a great merchant fleet, and all interests involved have been asked to co-operate in the drive.

If this can be accomplished it is believed that many thousands of tons can be added to the 1,000,000 mark given by an official yesterday as an estimate of the amount of tonnage which would be turned out between now and March 1.

Some of the shipyards have been working on a single eight-hour shift, and the men in charge of the program are determined that that condition must be corrected immediately. Organized labor has been asked to bend its best efforts to obtain the workmen necessary for two, and, if possible, three such shifts a day.

In the meantime at least one shipyard at Groton, Conn., will be put on the twenty-four-hour basis. Charles W. Morse, who is directing the construction of twelve wooden and six steel ships, came to Washington and asked Shipping Board officials if the Government would pay for the installation of an electric light system and meet the overtime charges of men on extra shifts if he "never stopped work." He was told that the Shipping Board would meet his conditions.

"Then I'll show you how ships can be built," he said, and went away.

It is understood that Mr. Morse hopes to get his program going within ten days. Other shipyards will be asked to follow this example as rapidly as labor can be obtained.

As a result of a misinterpretation of messages from the Federal Wage Adjustment Board, Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board announced today that the shipyard strikes had been settled at Portland as well as at Seattle, Wash. The Adjustment Board is now engaged in an effort to compose the difference between employers and workers at Portland, and Mr. Hurley explained tonight that a message from there relating to the settlement at Seattle led to his error.

Reports about the prospective settlement of the labor disputes on the Pacific coast were received as the best news in a long time. On Monday conferences will be held in San Francisco to make final settlement of the trouble there. The workers in the San Francisco yards have returned to their labors and have agreed to accept the decisions reached.

It was felt that the clearing up of the trouble on the Pacific coast would have a vital effect on the labor situation in the shipyards on the Great Lakes and on the Atlantic coast. Labor leaders, it was said, were working in complete unison with the Government.

Rear Admiral Capps, General Manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, has appointed a production committee, composed of eminent engineers, who will make a complete survey of the industry, map out the situation in every shipyard, and bend all of their efforts to obtaining supplies to hasten construction. Charles Pies, President of the Link Belt Machine Company of Chicago, Philadelphia, and Indianapolis, is to head the committee, which includes Charles Day, electrical engineer, of Philadelphia; Arthur Mason, erecting engineer, of Chicago, and Frank Kirby, naval architect, of New York. The Atlantic coast yards have been visited by these men, and a conference was held here today with Admiral Capps.

The committee has authority to call upon any engineer in the country as problems arise, and one of the prominent engineers of the Ford motor plant already has been notified that his services will be required. A tour will be made shortly to the Pacific coast. It is probable that an agent will be appointed for each of the important shipyards.

AIDS SWEDISH MINISTER.

State Department Cables to London Concerning Mail Seizures.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—At the request of the Swedish Minister the State Department has communicated with Ambassador Page in London relative to the detention of the Swedish mail boxes and pouches, held by the British Embassy at Washington, with a view to facilitating the release of these things unless the British Government considers that there are good reasons for continuing to hold them. In addition the State Department has transmitted, for the Swedish Legation, a code telegram destined for delivery to the Swedish Foreign Office, forwarding a request from Minister Ekengren to his Government to urge the British Government to order the release of the mail.

The Swedish Minister has assured the State Department that the mail is not of an unneutral character, that the diplomatic seals were not broken and the mail was not tampered with en route to Halifax. The United States Government has no direct interest in the affair so far as its present information goes.

DOCK BUILDERS STRIKE AT GOVERNMENT YARD

Union Recognition Demanded at $4,500,000 Port Newark Terminal Plant.

Union men employed on the plant of the Submarine Boat Corporation at Port Newark Terminal were called out yesterday afternoon. Ninety-four were taken away from their work by their business agent, and it is feared that most of the 600 men now employed there will go out.

Recognition of the union is desired, and according to the union representatives the men will remain out until a conference between the agents and the representatives of the Lackawanna Bridge Company, which is building the plant, can be arranged.

Threats of a strike were made last Thursday when union representatives notified the city authorities that the bridge company had refused to recognize the union.

Business agents of twenty-three unions visited the plant yesterday afternoon, but only Albert S. Peters of the pile drivers' and dock builders' organization was allowed to enter. He immediately called out ninety dock builders and four engineers.

John A. Johnston, Vice President of the International Association of Structural Iron Workers and Bridge Builders, declared that the union was being discriminated against, and that the local job was the only one in this vicinity that was not a "closed shop."

The Submarine Boat Corporation, for which the shipbuilding plant is being erected, expects to construct 200 steel ships for the Government at the Newark plant. The boats are to be built under the supervision of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, which is furnishing the capital for the plant. It expects to spend approximately $4,500,000 on the yards and to employ 15,000 men.

Fifty-three Patrolmen Graduated.

Fifty-three patrolman were graduated yesterday afternoon from the Police Training School after a two months' course. There were sixty-four men in the original class, but eleven of these were drafted for the army. The exercises were under Lieutenant Charles Schofield, the physical instructor. Commissioner Woods presented to Frederick A. Haf aes the Bloomingdale Trophy, a revolver, as the most proficient student.

EXPLAINS NAVAL ACCIDENT.

Boiler Tube of Patrol Boat Blew Out, Killing One Man.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Secretary Daniels today received a report on the accident on board a naval scout patrol boat along the Atlantic coast. The name of the vessel was withheld for naval reasons. One man was killed and another severely injured. The report to the Navy Department said that the accident was due to the blowing out of a return tube in the boiler.

Dennis Sheehan, seaman second class, N. N. V., was scalded about the head and entire body. He died while he was being taken ashore. His next of kin is John Sheehan, 547 Throop Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. Vance I. Perkinson, chief boatswain's mate, United States Naval Reserve force, was scalded about the head and shoulders. His condition is serious, but he is expected to recover.

John Sheehan, brother of the dead sailor, yesterday communicated with the Navy Yard asking for further information. Dennis Sheehan was known as a crack baseball and basketball player in Brooklyn. He joined the Second Naval Battalion when war was declared and was some weeks later detailed to duty on a coast patrol boat.

Already it is a reality in some. It's a situation that can't be ignored.

Are you fixed to meet it?

Speedy and accurate work can hardly be expected from an overworked staff—especially on accounting jobs.

But you can count on the Comptometer to equalize the burden—even when the work of three is left to two.

You can count on its rapid-fire action equally effective on Addition, Multiplication, Division, Subtraction—to extend the productive power of your shortened force on all figure operations:

Now's the time to investigate—before the emergency grows acute.

Anyhow, it's a measure of economy, no matter what happens.

After that you will always drink Clysmic whether you have ever before known the enjoyment of a good ginger ale or not.

For it has just that sparkle—that palate pleasing taste, aroma and tang that is going to make it the most popular of all invigorating beverages.

It has a thirst quenching attribute that only this perfect ginger ale which is actually aged, can impart. It has that harmless, healthful stimulation which is the climax of beverage perfection.

After Years of Experimenting

After years of experimenting—after innumerable trials of various ingredients—after tedious tests, Clysmic Ginger Ale is offered to the public with absolute confidence that here, at last is an American Ginger Ale that will satisfy the most exacting connoisseur.

Till now, we have frankly acknowledged the superiority of imported ginger ale.

But we no longer make this acknowledgment.

—not because the imported article is unobtainable in its former perfection,

—not because conditions abroad have restricted the use of ingredients necessary to good ginger ale,

—BUT BECAUSE we have discovered the secret of the correct combination of ingredients to produce a ginger ale superior to all others in taste, tang and aroma.

Made from Clysmic Water

The quality of the water used has all to do with the making of a good ginger ale.

Clysmic Sparkling Table Water is ideal for the purpose. It has just the mineral properties which blend to make this perfect Clysmic Ginger Ale.

And It Is Made with Care

Greater care than has ever been employed in the making of beverages in this country has been used in the making of Clysmic Ginger Ale.

—care that requires both capital and a full measure of courage and patience.

Conditions produced by the war—the inability to obtain foreign products—has been the incentive for American manufacturers in many fields to strive for perfection, —that perfection attained by foreign manufacturers, through their slower but more satisfactory methods, regardless of expense or time required both in the experimental stage and in the making of the finished product.

Such has been our incentive. Such were the methods followed in perfecting Clysmic Ginger Ale.

Matured by an Ageing Process

To be delectable, ginger ale must be properly matured by ageing—a factor heretofore neglected by makers of ginger ale in America.

Needless to say every bottle of Clysmic Ginger Ale is, and will be, actually aged before it is offered for sale.

The Coming American Beverage

Clysmic Ginger Ale will become the American beverage.

This positiveness is not self-conceit. It is based on the opinion of the many who know

GRADED DRAFT PLAN BEING WORKED OUT

Would Take First Dependentless Men Not Needed in Any War Industry.

COMPLEX TABLE INVOLVED

Shows in What Order Every Man Registered May Expect to be Called—No Class Exemptions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—A comprehensive new plan for applying the army selective draft, which would take first only men without dependents and of no particular value to war industries and establish various grades of dependency and industrial value from which future drafts would be made strictly on the selective basis, has been worked out tentatively by the Provost Marshal General's office and discussed with the President.

The plan was submitted recently to a conference of civilians who directed exemption board activities in a number of States, and received the indorsement of most of them, who are now discussing the proposed plan with their State Governors.

It is proposed to formulate in each local draft district a table of all registrants, placing each in a column denoting his dependents and industrial value in the war's prosecution. For instance, horizontal columns or classifications would be based on dependency. Men with no dependents would be placed in the first class, those with dependent distant relatives in the second, those with wives in the third, those with a wife and one child in the fourth, and so on.

Industries in Vertical Columns.

Similarly, the vertical columns might represent certain industries arranged according to their respective merit as war necessities. Industrial classes under consideration are farmers, shipyard employes, munition workers, railway and other transportation employes, miners, steel plant and motor industry workmen, and certain other branches to be designated from time to time by the President or the War Department as temporarily essential.

Thus the table with horizontal dependency classifications and vertical industrial classifications would hold a place for each registrant in accordance with his dependency or industrial value claims. In selecting men for examination, boards would first take the physically fit, having neither dependents nor value in essential war industries. When this class was exhausted, draft authorities would draw on the classes having the slightest despondency claims and the least value in essential industries. Theoretically, the draft would work down through the table to the classes with most dependents and highest industrial value.

No class would be exempted as such, but the valuable men would be placed so that they would not be called until the need for soldiers became more urgent and all the less essential classes were exhausted.

The plan involves a determination by the Government of what industries are the most valuable, and this is giving officials considerable difficulty. Farmers' organizations, shipping board officials and shipbuilders, munition makers, railroad heads, coal operators and many others are insisting on the prime importance of their own employes in civil work.

Seek to Allay Anxiety.

It is understood the entire program will be made known as soon as it is completed and approved by President Wilson, to allay the anxiety prevailing throughout many industries over the next draft, which had been planned for as early as December before the new plan was proposed, but which now may be delayed.

The proposed plan would meet President Wilson's objection to class exemptions. On the other hand, it is contended, it would successfully prevent the drawing of men into the army who are needed more in the industries or in agriculture, and would avoid mistakes made by Great Britain early in the war, when coal mines and war industries were depleted of skilled workers for the sake of swelling the first expeditionary force. It also would give each man a more or less definite place in the liability list and set his mind at rest as to when he might be summoned for service.

The scheme contemplates immediate examination of all men registered, but this course depends on an appropriation, which cannot be obtained until after Congress convenes in December. Advocates of the plan point out, however, that it might be put into operation for a single increment, even of a million men, and could be extended down the present liability lists as fast as funds were made available.

PLATTSBURG TRENCH DRILL.

New England Recruits Get Their First Trial in Dugouts.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The trench warfare begins at 8 o'clock in the morning, when the first battalion, which is the entire New England force, will take its place in the reserve trench to remain until 8 o'clock on Friday morning, when it will be relieved by the Second Battalion, the entire New York force, for a twenty-four-hour tour of duty. The reserve trench is known as the Tremont trench, and the first line, mapped in three sections, is named East Broadway, West Broadway and New England.

It will be assumed that the trenches are under the observation and fire of the enemy, and all movements in the trenches will be conducted accordingly. All movements of troops, either individuals or groups, will be via the trenches at all times. No one will be allowed to go overland between trenches or to enter the trenches by the flanks.

Eight machine guns will be on duty with each battalion, and the chief surgeon will provide the necessary medical attendants. The line of field artillery is just behind the reserve trench and to the right or west end is the field kitchen and food station. Cooked food will be carried to the food station at 11:30 A. M. tomorrow and 5 P. M. and at 6 A. M. on Friday, and continued at those hours until Saturday noon. The food will be in containers.

A biplane made two trips over the trench sector today. Arrangements were made today to attach a camera to the machine with a hole cut in the bottom of the plane so that the operation of the troops and the trenches might be photographed.

C. Arnold Slade of Provincetown, a photographer, made the trip with the pilot today and will do so tomorrow, operating the camera.

DIES FLYING FOR FRANCE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 17.—Mrs. M. F. Thomas of this city has received the bare announcement of the death in France of her nephew, Samuel W. Skinner, of the French aviation forces, and still lacks information whether he was killed in battle or in training. She believes, however, that he met his death in training, as her last word from him indicated he had not yet been ordered to the front.

Samuel W. Skinner was the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Skinner of Cincinnati. In consequence of an accident years ago, in which he suffered a broken leg, he did not attempt to enter one of the reserve officers' training camps, but seized an opportunity of enlisting in the aviation branch of the French Army.

WADSWORTH SOLDIER KILLED IN COLLISION

Special to The New York Times.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 17.—Three men were killed and several injured when a locomotive drawing a work train crashed into the rear coach of an electric train bound over the Piedmont & Northern Railroad from Camp Wadsworth to this city tonight. There were 300 soldiers aboard the electric train.

The Dead.

WHITE LABORER, unidentified, about 30 years old.

The Injured.

TRIANTAGALLA, N. D., Company H., Seventh Regiment; shoulder fractured.

A force of 250 men from the Medical Corps, reinforced by details from every unit in camp, were still working at midnight clearing away the wreckage in the expectation that two more bodies were in the tangled shell of the wrecked coach.

Men who were aboard the electric train said the direct cause of the collision was the fact that two lights were on in the last car, making it impossible for the engineer of the work train to see the train ahead. The engineer, N. D. Lineberger, was placed under arrest by Major T. Harry Shanton of the military police and was locked up in the military jail, pending an investigation by the camp authorities.

RULES ON ARMY SALUTE.

War Department Explains Observance for National Anthem.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The officers and enlisted men of the army in uniform will stand at attention when the national anthem is played, but when they are uncovered they will not salute. There has been some misunderstanding regarding the custom to be observed by officers and men under the provisions of army regulations, and for that reason the War Department today issued this announcement:

"Attention has been called to instances of misunderstanding with regard to the form of respect to be paid by army men to the national anthem, when played in theatres and other public places. The War Department calls attention to the regulation which provides that during the playing of the national anthem, officers and enlisted men in uniform, when uncovered, stand at attention without saluting."

The army regulations of Aug. 10 last deal with the subject in this language:

"Whenever the national anthem is played at any place when persons belonging to the military service are present, all officers and enlisted men not in uniform shall stand at attention facing toward the music, (except at retreat, when they shall face the flag.) If in uniform, covered, they shall salute at the first note of the anthem, retaining the position of salute until the last note of the anthem. If not in uniform and covered, they shall uncover at the first note of the anthem, holding the headdress opposite the left shoulder, and so remain until its close, except that in inclement weather the headdress may be held slightly raised.

ALL DRAFTED NEGROES TO BE MOBILIZED

Full Quota From City Called to the Colors Next Tuesday by State Adjutant General.

Adjt. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill issued an order yesterday for the mobilization next Tuesday of all negroes in New York City who have been certified for service under the draft law. The number of men affected is 1,386, and the order calling the negroes to the colors was directed to Roger B. Wood, in charge of the draft in New York.

Mr. Wood said last night that he expected to designate a central mobilization point in each borough for boards where the numbers of negroes called to service is less than ten. A great many of the boards have less than five, and a few have no negroes at all among their certified men.

The local boards having twenty or more are as follows:

Dist.	No.	Dist.	No.	Dist.	No.
24	55	110	28	140	148
44	20	121	70	144	132
45	60	130	36	158	25
47	28	135	82	163	21
63	20	139	48	167	149
83	43

The District Board handed down an interesting decision yesterday in the case of Raymond W. McBride, of 426 Seventy-fourth Street, Brooklyn. McBride, though underweight, was certified for service by Board 42 and appealed to the District Board. The Board granted the appeal several days ago, and yesterday came word from McBride, who is in service at Camp Upton.

"I have changed my mind," McBride wrote, "and want to stay in the army. It's fine."

The Board accordingly reversed its decision and he will go to the front with the Camp Upton division.

Jesus Martinez, the Mexican Vice Consul, who was arrested last week charged with willful violation of the provisions of the alien sections of the Selective Draft Law, was held for the Grand Jury by United States Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday. Martinez registered on June 5, but when called for examination by Board 145, of which Charles H. Tuttle is the chairman, refused to obey the summons. He acted under instructions from Consul General Juan T. Burns, who in a statement denounced the members of the board as men who "are on a par with the savage hordes of Villa."

The law requires that all aliens must submit to examination, after which they file the required affidavits that prove their foreign citizenship. These affidavits automatically exempt them from service. Martinez refused to file the affidavits.

BLISS CUTS STAFF JOBS.

Civilians Not to Get Commissions Until There Is Work for Them.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—General Bliss, Chief of Staff of the army, has abruptly ended the practice of commissioning officers from civil life to the staff corps of various branches of the army and calling them into active service before actual need for their services exists. Indications that the practice has grown out of all bounds, particularly in the Medical, Signal, and Quartermaster Corps, led the Chief of Staff to take his action.

The effect of the order will be to hold up temporarily a number of commissions, including those of many men of the Flying Corps who have been graduated from the ground and flying schools. In no one case, however, will any man whose services are needed fail to get a commission eventually.

TWO PER CENT. TUBERCULAR

Infection Among Drafted Men Reported by New Yorker at Conference

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 17.—That 2 per cent. of the men between 21 and 30 years called for draft examination had been found active tuberculosis cases was stated today by Dr. Louis I. Dublin of New York before the North Atlantic Tuberculosis Conference. The action of a number of draft boards in accepting men in incipient stages of the disease was criticised by a number of the speakers.

Dr. Dublin declared that 500,000 active cases had been found in the French Army alone. He said no figures were available from Germany, but reports were that the disease had spread alarmingly there in the last three years.

George L. Neibach of New York advocated Government treatment under military discipline of soldiers who had contracted the disease.

Dr. Lawrence F. Flick of Philadelphia declared that English soldiers had not suffered as great ravages as the French, because, whereas England had carefully selected her soldiers, France had limited her investigations to children and sent men afflicted with tuberculosis to the trenches.

BIG GROCERIES AGREE ON TEN-CENT MILK

District Attorney Says 1,000 Chain Stores Will Re-enter Business for Unbottled Sales.

DAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE JOINS

40,000 Up-State Farms Said to be Pledged in Movement to Hold Down Price.

After conferences with proprietors of chains of several hundred grocery stores in this city and also with officials of the Dairymen's League controlling 40,000 up-State farms, District Attorney Swann announced yesterday that, beginning on Monday, the groceries would retail loose Grade B milk to the New York public at 10 cents or less a quart.

Proprietors of the 46 Andrew Davey and the 125 Daniel Reeves stores have already promised to reenter the retail milk business at this figure, the District Attorney said. The Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company is also making arrangements to obtain milk direct from farmers and sell it from 467 stores at 10 cents a quart or less. James Butler, controlling 135 stores, will be approached by the District Attorney as soon as he returns from a trip out of town.

One thousand retail grocery stores will soon be retailing loose Grade B milk at 10 cents or less, Mr. Swann said. Practically all these grocery store organizations were forced out of the milk business five or six years ago after investigations of the Health Department.

"The grocery and delicatessen stores that formerly sold milk have informed the District Attorney that they were so hounded by the milk inspectors that they gave up competing," Mr. Swann said. "The implication was direct that the local inspectors were acting in the interest of the Milk Trust to force the grocery stores out of the milk business.

"When the farmers attempted to obtain better prices for their milk some time ago, the large milk distributers of New York City disciplined them by closing up about one hundred receiving stations. This deprived the farmers of a market and the New York City public of milk. This caused the recent increase in price. Up to the present the farmers have been handicapped by the fact that these large receiving stations in the country have been owned exclusively by the big distributers in New York City. The farmers offered to buy these receiving stations, but the big distributers refused to sell. The farmers offered to lease, but the big distributers refused this offer also, allowing the receiving stations to remain closed. The New York distributers knew that it would take a large amount of capital and time for the farmers to organize receiving stations for themselves.

"Before I get through I believe loose Grade B milk will be sold from at least 1,000 retail stores in Greater New York at a price not exceeding 10 cents a quart. R. D. Cooper, President of the Dairymen's League, told me today that his organization would furnish the retail grocers of the city with all the milk they could sell at about 8¼ cents per quart. The League is composed of 40,000 up-State farmers who have organized to protect themselves against the big New York City distributers.

"I suppose the City Club will make various accusations against me for entering the milk situation in this way, but let them fire away."

Both Andrew Davey and Daniel Reeves told THE TIMES last night that they would begin on Monday selling milk again following conferences with the District Attorney. Davey said his stores would sell milk for 10 cents. Reeves said his stores would sell for 9 cents.

"Did you get the impression that the Health Department inspectors were conspiring with the Milk Trust to force you out of the milk business?" Davey was asked.

"I got the impression that selling milk was more trouble than it was worth," he answered.

Charles A. Weiant, President of the Borden's Farms Products Company, testified earlier in the day before Mayor Mitchel's Milk Committee at the Health Department that the war, by increasing the cost of labor and of other factors, had increased the cost of producing milk.

"Could not a discriminating mother buy loose milk at 11 cents of just as good a grade as your 14-cent bottled milk?" Mr. Lewis of the committee asked.

"Yes. One should be as good as the other," Mr. Weiant replied. Competition with other companies costs his company $75,000 a year, Mr. Weiant said.

It was admitted at the offices of the Borden's Condensed Milk Company yesterday that a strike of the company's 2,000 wagon drivers was in the air. Officials of the company are to confer with representatives of the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union today.

BOGUS N.Y. CENTRAL DRAFTS.

The New York Central Railroad gave out the following statement yesterday:

"A new form of fraud has recently come to light in the shape of forged drafts of the freight claims accounting department of the New York Central. The drafts are all drawn on the Treasurer of the New York Central Railroad Company through the Lincoln National Bank, New York, for $35 each, and all bear No. 79870, dated Buffalo, Oct. 4, 1917, to the order of James A. Oliver, 365 Glenwood Avenue. No city is given.

Some of the drafts have been cashed in Rochester and Buffalo and the swindlers are likely to attempt to extend their operations. Each draft bears a clumsy forgery of the signature of the railroad freight claim agent, R. L. Calkins, and his assistant, S. B. Hepburn. The police of Buffalo and Rochester and the railroad detectives are working on the case."

Sacky's Wife's Suit Before Court.

Aribert Sacky went before Supreme Court Justice Ford and a jury yesterday, accompanied by two Deputy Sheriffs, to defend a suit by his wife, Mrs. Lilien Suarez Sacky, to recover $32,500 which she alleges she gave to Sacky to invest, and which she says he diverted to his own use. Sacky has been in Ludlow Street Jail since last Summer. Counsel for Sacky said he went into partnership with his wife and it wasn't his fault that the ventures didn't succeed. He said that his wife's relatives took advantage of her illness, which they thought would be fatal, to estrange her. Sacky testified that his wife wanted him to have her property rather than her relatives. He will be cross-examined today.

Why the "Equitable" came to PIONEER

WHEN the famous Equitable fire of January 9, 1912, came like a bolt out of the blue, the Equitable was able to continue its business without interruption because it had duplicate records in another place. Profiting also by the experience of the fire, it saw the advantage of finding an absolutely secure place for duplicate records, valuable papers, and documents not needed in its own offices for current work.

Consequently when the new building was reared, in spite of its being modern in every respect and protected by every safety device known, the executives of the Equitable sent their valuable Surplus Business Records to the PIONEER. WHY?

—because no one man wants the moral responsibility of storing surplus records inside his office building, and in congested financial districts.

—because PIONEER prevents interruption to business that comes with a fire disaster.

HONORS ON TURF AT STAKE TODAY

VIAU'S STAR IS FAVORED

Record Crowd Expected at Maryland Track to See His Contest with Belmont's Three-Year-Old.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 17.—A lightning fast track and the promise of fine weather for tomorrow make it almost certain that the much-discussed meeting of Wilfrid Viau's Omar Khayyam and August Belmont's Hourless will take place before the largest crowd that ever visited the Laurel racetrack. The stipulations of Mr. Belmont's trainer for a fast track have been fulfilled, and during the last few days the rivals for the three-year-old championship have been able to take their training gallops under ideal conditions.

Visitors from Baltimore and Washington say that little else in the sporting line is talked of around the hotels of those cities except the meeting of these great thoroughbreds. Thousands will come from both places, and large contingents also are expected from New York and Philadelphia in addition to the regular race crowd.

Some surprise was expressed by turfmen tonight when it was found that D. J. Leary's Sunflash II. had been entered in the championship sweepstakes against the two real champions. As the rules of The Jockey Club prohibit match races it was necessary to frame the conditions so that all three-year-olds were eligible. It was thought, however, that the publicity given to the event as a special test for the two leaders of their age would keep the lesser ligbts from entering the fray. The belief maintains tonight that Sunflash II., a horse of handicap calibre, will be scratched, and that the issue will be fought out by the two horses which have been keen contenders for three-year-old honors all season.

Omar Khayyam is likely to be the favorite in the mutuel speculation on account of his two previous victories over the Belmont crack. The disposition to plunge on the Viau candidate is so strong at present that many keen speculators will be tempted to buy tickets on Hourless. Their contention is that the last race between the pair was so close that long odds on one or the other is not justfied, and that with Butwell in the saddle and a quarter of a mile less to travel than in the Realization, Hourless is quite likely to turn the tables on his former conqueror.

The supporters of Omar Khayyam are strong in the belief that he will again lead Hourless to the finish, and they point to the fact that the Kentucky Derby winner is working faster for this race than for any of his previous engagements. The imported English horse is not what is known as a "trial horse," and hitherto it has taken the spur of a contest to bring forth his best speed. In his recent gallops he has shown more of a disposition to take the track at good speed and has had to be restrained after the first mile in order to keep him on edge. In spite of his being pulled up at the finish, Omar Khayyam has in his last two trials covered the mile and a quarter in better than 2:07, and on each occasion he has shown that he had speed in reserve.

Hourless has been doing great work, and after two recent trials in which he finished the full distance in 2:10 without letting out a link, he had a real speed test on yesterday between the races. The French son of Negofol stepped in wonderful style, and his speed reminded the onlookers of the day on which he won the Belmont Stakes when he was at the top of his form in the Spring. He was asked to go only a mile and a furlong, which he accomplished in the fast time of 1:51 1-5. The most remarkable part of this final effort was the speed which he accomplished in the first mile, which was turned in 1:38. That is better than any time made at this meeting, and the following fractions show that he was on his toes from the break: Furlong, 0:11 4-5; three-eighths, 0:34 2-5; half-mile, 0:46 4-5; five furlongs, 0:59 1-5; six furlongs, 1:12, and seven furlongs, 1:25 1-5.

In the Realization the two horses did not begin to run until the last quarter of a mile, but according to Richard Carman, the trainer of Omar Khayyam, the pace will be a stiff one from the start this time. It is Carman's intention to try and run Hourless off his feet, but in view of the last work out of the Belmont crack, this will be hard to do, and the race is likely to come down to another nose finish with victory going to the gamer horse.

NEW BRANCH OF A. A. U.

Allegheny Mountain Association to Have Headquarters at Pittsburgh.

With the arrival of George F. Turner, President of the Amateur Athletic Union, in this city Tuesday it became known that a new branch of the Amateur Athletic Union will shortly be organized. The new body will be known as the Allegheny Mountain Association of the Amateur Athletic Union and will have its headquarters in Pittsburgh. It will take in all the clubs in the City of Pittsburgh and vicinity, will extend over all of Pennsylvania west of Altoona, and will include West Virginia in its district. Thus the Allegheny Mountain Association will take up some of the territory now under the supervision of the Middle Atlantic Association and the South Atlantic Association.

All details for the new association have been completed, and it remains now only for it to be formally ratified at the annual meeting of the national body of the Amateur Athletic Union, which will be held at St. Louis on Nov. 19. The movement was originally started by the clubs in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, whose representatives were considerably inconvenienced by traveling to Philadelphia, the headquarters of the Middle Atlantic body, for the various meetings. Another thing which impelled the Pittsburgh club representatives in their quest for a separate organization was the increase in the club growth in that section of the country.

When the application was made to the officials of the Amateur Athletic Union those behind the movement showed a starting membership of thirty-six clubs, and to this number will be added many more. The application was readily approved by the Board of Governors of the Amateur Athletic Union, and notices of a meeting to be held in Pittsburgh on Nov. 15 were ordered to be issued. This meeting will be attended by representatives of all thirty-six clubs, when they will formally organize for the final details to be attended to at the annual Amateur Athletic Union meeting in St. Louis a few days later.

PLAY FOR TENNIS TITLE.

Juniors and Boys to Compete Saturday for Metropolitan Honors.

Although somewhat belated in the season, the third annual junior tennis championship, which will begin at the West Side Tennis Club Saturday, promises to bring out a representative field of contenders. The metropolitan boys' championship, which is being decided this year for the first time, will also start Saturday.

Entries for both of these events may be made with Frederick B. Alexander at 522 Fifth Avenue until 10 o'clock Saturday morning. In singles the entrance fee is $1 and in doubles $2. The tournaments are being played under the official sanction of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association. The events will continue next week, play starting at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The age limit for Juniors is 19 years and for boys 16.

FAST HEATS AT ATLANTA.

Miss Harris M. Paces in 2:00 1-2 in Free-for-All Event.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17.—In two of the fastest heats of the season on the Grand Circuit, Miss Harris M., driven by A. McDonald, today won the free-for-all pace, for a purse of $2,000 on the Lakewood Track. Her time in the first heat was 2:00½. William, driven by Marvin, split second money with Hal Boy, Dick McMahon's gelding, which finished third in the first heat and second in the second.

The 2:13 class trot. 3 in 5, for $1,000, was won in straight heats by Mendosa T., piloted by Curtis. Opera Express, winner of the four-year-old futurity $5,000 stake at Lexington last week, proved a disappointment, its best place in any heat being fourth.

Baxter Lou, driven by Valentine, won the 2:07 class pacing event, for a purse of $1,500, in straight heats. Peter Look, with McMahon up, took second money. Helen Chimes, driven by Owens, was third, and Directum, J. of the Murphy stables was fourth.

TRACK PLANS FOR YALE.

Active Season for Both 'Varsity and Freshman Teams.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 17.—It has been announced by the University Track Association that the university and freshman cross-country teams will take part in several meets during the Fall. Tentative arrangements have been made for a freshman run with Harvard, '21, on Nov. 17, and the university and freshman teams will be entered in the intercollegiate runs to be held in New York City on Nov. 24. Last year this meet was held in New Haven, J. W. Overton, '17, winning the individual trophy. So far only very few freshmen have been reporting for the work.

All track men in the university have been urged to come out immediately to condition themselves for the coming meets. Coach Queal is at the track house every afternoon and Coach Mack is in the cage every morning between 10 and 12, and after football practice on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays.

Arrangements have been made for holding the Fall track meet on Oct. 27. The meet will be held at Yale Field, and the events will include all the usual track events with the hammer throw as the only field event. The other field events will be held in the cage or in the gymnasium on Nov. 27. As in the past, numerals will be awarded to men taking first places in this meet.

It is now definitely settled that the Willisbrook competitions will continue. As each event in the Willisbrook competition is held ten times all competitions, with the exception of the first, being handicap, excellent opportunity is offered the novice to compete. Points are given for the first five places and silver cups are awarded at the end of the season to those having won the greatest number of points in the different events.

The annual interscholastic games, which were dropped last Spring, will be held as usual this year on May 18. The track management has already issued preliminary invitations and full particulars will be sent to the various schools early in the year. Plans for this meet are now being pushed vigorously.

DATE FOR CYCLE RACE SET.

Annual Six-Day Event Will Be Held at Garden Dec. 2 to 8.

The twenty-fifth annual six-day bicycle race will be held in Madison Square Garden during the week of Dec. 2 to 8 this year under the management of William H. Wellman, who closed with the owners of the Garden yesterday for control of the property for the event.

A meeting of the riders has been called for Monday to discuss the plans formulated for holding the contest. With the exception of Oscar Egg, Bobby Walthour, and Marcel Dupuy every rider of prominence is here, and will be on hand at the meeting. Plans for making the race entertaining during the lulls between sprints are also being given serious consideration. Popular prices will prevail for the event, and Promotor Wellman announced last night that there will be no advance in the admission charge during the entire week.

CLASS P YACHTS ACTIVE.

Stranger Provides Upset in Racing at Boston.

Racing among the thirty-one-rater yachts, better known about here as the Class P craft, has been fairly active in Boston waters this Summer, and has developed a genuine surprise in the performances of the Stranger under the handling of Frank C. Paine, who has been able to get more speed out of that big sloop than others who have sailed her. Stranger has had rather the best of the contests in which Wasaka, as the old Josephine is now called, Hayseed, Britomarte, and Bernice have participated.

Stranger wound up the season by winning a sweepstakes race in which Wasaka and Hayseed sailed against her over one of the Marblehead courses, though Wasaka won one of the races when there was a very stiff breeze, in which Wasaka showed the most speed in the lively windward work. Neither Ahmeek, which was awarded the Manhasset Bay Cup in the races off Indian Harbor in 1916, nor Ellen was out this season. Both of these yachts will probably be put overboard in the Spring, as there is a belief among Boston yachtsmen that it was a mistake to curtail yacht racing this season.

Amoret, formerly owned by R. B. Budd of this city but now the property of Alfred I. du Pont of Baltimore, has been out all season sailing in the waters about Baltimore, and, as a year ago, has proven the fastest sloop in those waters, winning about all the races in which she started. Stuart Stevens Scott sailed her again this season and has seemingly found a way in which to make her sail faster than she did when attached to the Indian Harbor Club fleet.

DISCUSS BALTIMORE SUIT.

National League Magnates Gather in Conference.

An informal meeting of several National League Magnates was held yesterday afternoon at the National League headquarters on West Fortieth Street, to discuss recent developments with regard to the suit of the Baltimore Federal League Club. Among those in attendance were John K. Tener, President of the League; Harry N. Hempstead, President of the New York club; Garry Hermann of Cincinnati, Charles Ebbets of Brooklyn, and John Hydler, Secretary of the National League. After the meeting it was announced that no statement would be forthcoming at the present time.

ROAMER OUTRUNS FIELD AT LAUREL

Captures Old Glory Handicap in One Second and a Fifth Less Than Track Record.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 17.—Andrew Miller's Roamer made his first appearance at the meeting this afternoon and had little difficulty in capturing the Old Glory Handicap, in which he was called on to meet only a field of second-raters. The old gelding showed all his old speed, and Shuttinger sent him to the front soon after the break, where he was rated along until nearing the stretch turn.

Roamer moved further away then and was well in hand all through the stretch. James Butler's Wistful, which had been outrun in the early stages, came with a rush in the last quarter and took the place from Priscilla Mullens. Roamer's time for the mile and a sixteenth, 1:44 3-5, is a second and a fifth slower than the track record.

The stake feature was the Anne Arundel selling event at a mile and a furlong, and this was considered to be a trifle too far for O. C. Rasch's Gloomy Gus, which had his chances further discounted by having the unfashionable G. Wall in the saddle. Contrary to expectations, Wall rode a good race on Gloomy Gus, and after laying off the early pace, ran over his field in the stretch. Little Nearer found the distance too short, but came along at the end and took the place from Deckmate.

Two-year-olds were asked to go a mile for the first time in the second race. A large field turned out for the experiment, with the Mirasol Stable's Producer the favorite. Producer showed all the stamina claimed for him and won easily from J. O. Talbott's Hope. In the first race for two-year-olds Emil Herz's Svengali graduated from the maiden class.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-old maidens; purse, $700; five and a half furlongs. Time—1:07 1-5.

John Daly Tuning Up for De Oro.

John Daly, who is matched to play Alfred De Oro for the three-cushion carom billiards championship next week, engaged in two exhibition practice matches yesterday at Howison's Billiard Academy and won both games. In the afternoon Daly showed his best form, winning from C. F. Lane by a score of 50 to 40 in thirty-five innings. The challenger for the title had runs of 6 and 5, making the latter total on two occasions. In the evening Walter Miller was Daly's opponent, and the latter won after fifty-four innings by a score of 50 to 25. Daly's best runs for this match were two of five points.

BALTUSROL WOMEN VICTORS

Capture Team Golf Championship of Jersey by Defeating Hackensack.

Women golfers of the Baltusrol Golf Club yesterday won the championship of New Jersey when they defeated the representatives of the Hackensack Golf Club in a team match on the links of the Englewood Country Club, by a score of 9 to 0. This success gives the victors the right to enter the round robin tournament, which will probably start about the middle of next week, to decide the team championship of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association.

In this latter competition there are, besides the team from Baltusrol, teams from the Dunwoodie Country Club, which won the Westchester championship, and the Nassau Country Club, which had the best record of the season for the Long Island division. The championship for the north of New Jersey went to Hackensack, and Baltusrol won the title for the southern section of the State.

LEONARD NOW IN UNIFORM.

Lightweight Champion Holds Lieutenant's Commission in Army.

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, surprised a number of his friends who had gathered at Grupp's Gymnasium yesterday to watch his training work, by walking into the gymnasium attired in Army uniform. This gave Leonard's followers their first definite knowledge that he had entered the United States service and even Billy Gibson, Leonard's manager, was surprised.

Leonard is in the Athletic Activities branch of the Army and has been expecting orders which would put him in uniform. He has not been assigned to any camp as yet, and until he is, the lightweight champion expects to engage in several ring bouts. His work will be that of boxing instructor and he has the rank of lieutenant. Gibson last night announced that in addition to his bout with Jack Britton, of Chicago, which will be held at the Harlem S. C. tomorrow night, the lightweight champion is matched up for bouts at Philadelphia on Oct. 22, Buffalo on Oct. 23, and Cleveland on Oct. 24.

Leonard is in superb condition for his bout with Britton and is confident of winning by a knockout. He weighs about 135 pounds and at this figure he will be about five pounds lighter than the former welterweight champion. The men signed articles calling for them to weigh in at 139 pounds, one hour before they enter the ring. It was expected at first that Britton would have difficulty getting down to the required weight, but the Chicagoan yesterday was reported at the required figure after a ten-session go with Irish Patsy Cline.

INVITE ENTRIES FOR RUN.

Junior Cross Country Blanks Mailed to Clubs and Colleges.

Local Amateur Athletic Union officials yesterday announced that entry blanks for the national junior cross-country championship, which will be held over the Van Cortlandt Park course on Nov. 10, were mailed yesterday to all of the large clubs throughout the United States and to a number of colleges in the Eastern section of the country. The reason for sending entry blanks to the colleges is to afford student athletes a chance to familiarize themselves with the course, which is the same over which the intercollegiate cross-country championship race will be held a few weeks later.

The junior race will also give the aspirants for intercollegiate laurels a chance for a stiff workout. It is expected that a large field will start in the event, including many of the leading harriers of the country.

The race is open to any registered amateur athlete who has not "won a first place in running at a distance of two miles or over, at any track and field championship meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union, or of the International Olympic Committee, or of any Intercollegiate Association, or of Canada, Australia, or any foreign country, or who has not been a member of a team winning the cross-country championship of the Amateur Athletic Union, or of the International Olympic Committee, or of any Intercollegiate Association, or of Canada, Australia, or any foreign country."

RECORD HOLDERS TO WALK.

Star Pedestrians Will Contest in West Point Hike.

The American Walkers' Association will hold a handicap contest next Sunday from Van Cortlandt Park to West Point, a distance of about forty-five miles. The start will be made from Van Cortlandt Park at 6 A. M., and an attempt will be made to better the record of 7 hours 59 minutes, which has stood for the last three years. The club's champion walker, Dick Remer, will be on scratch, and arrayed against him will be a worthy field of pedestrians, with handicaps allotted according to their recorded abilities. Some of the walkers already entered are:

Kurt Zulch, record holder for the New York-to-Harmon race; J. Mandula, winner of the race to Harmon; G. W. Cisney, holder of the record from New York to Philadelphia; B. Oshinsky, H. Dacks, P. Mendler, F. Senfert, and E. Cunnard, all point winners in various long-distance events.

The limit handicap will be 1 hour 45 minutes, and the individual prizes will be three silver loving cups and seven bronze medals. A silver placque will be presented to the branch whose members score the lowest number of points, a team for this prize to consist of the first four men of a branch to finish. Entries for the event close tomorrow.

TO LET SOLDIERS COMPETE.

Meet in Thirteenth Regiment Armory is Being Boomed.

The committee in charge of the athletic meet and military carnival, to be held at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, next Wednesday evening, yesterday received notification from Colonel Sydney Grant, commanding officer of the Thirteenth Coast Defense Artillery, now stationed at Fort Hamilton, that the usual Wednesday afternoon sports at Fort Hamilton would be canceled next week in order to enable the men to compete in the military events in the Thirteenth Regiment Armory in the evening. This promises a large turnout of soldiers for the five military events included in the program, and indicates some sterling competition.

Colonel Grant announced that he would send two companies to give an exhibition skirmish and bayonet drill. Orders have also been issued to keep the armory doors open between 7 and 8:30 each evening so as to afford athletes intending to compete in the games a chance to get some indoor training. The open A. A. U. events scheduled are filling up rapidly.

SENDS TROPHY OVER SEAS.

National League Donates Silver Cup to London Organization.

The National League has donated a trophy cup to the London Hospital Baseball League, an organization which has been very active in the American game during the past Summer. In the London hospitals are several American physicians and numerous Americans and Canadians, who are promoting the pastime. The National League has also sent several dozen baseballs to the hospital league. The trophy is of silver and is nearly three feet high.

MONEY BAG JINGLES FOR SERIES PLAYERS

National Commission Makes Payment to Members of Giant and White Sox Teams.

The National Commission opened up the money bag yesterday and distributed the spoils of the world's series of 1917. John E. Bruce, Secretary of the commission, made out the checks and handed them around where they rightly belonged. Captain Charley Herzog of the Giants had been delegated by his clubmates to get the Giants' share of the melon, and he was accompanied by John Lobert, who went along, not to watch Herzog, but to keep him company.

Mr. Bruce gave Herzog a check for $61,155.43, which, divided among the eligible players, gave each of them a share of $2,445.21, which is fairly good pay for losing the series the way the Giants lost it. Heinie Zimmerman took his share without a smile. But he must have had a hard time to suppress a little grin.

Secretary Bruce started for Chicago last night and will give the White Sox their share when he arrives in the Windy City. The Chicago players' portion is $91,733.15, which gives each one of those eligible $3,669.32.

The commission also held out its own share, which amounted to a mere $42,587.80, and each of the clubs received its check for $115,160.81 minus 25 per cent., which is laid aside as an operating fund by both leagues.

WARM WELCOME FOR SOX.

Chicago Fans at Station to Greet New World's Champions.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—A cheering crowd of 5,000 White Sox rooters stormed the La Salle Street station late today to welcome home the world's baseball champions. The crowd broke through police lines when the train arrived at 4 o'clock, and, accompanied by two brass bands, swarmed around the conquerors of the Giants.

The appearance of Clarence Rowland, manager of the Chicago club, was the start of a demonstration. Some of the fans hoisted Rowland to their shoulders and carried him into the street. Traffic was blocked for twenty minutes while the crowd sought to shake hands with the players.

With the exception of Eddie Collins, Mel Wolfgang, Urban Faber, and John Collins, every member of the club was in the party. Eddie Collins went to his home in Philadelphia from New York, and Wolfgang and John Collins left the party at Albany. Faber, who pitched two victories over the Giants, returned yesterday, going on to his home at Cascade, Iowa, for a hunting trip.

Rowland carried with him a check for $91,733.15, the White Sox share of the series. Twenty-five players will divide the spoils, each receiving $3,666. Trainer Bruckner, Joe O'Neill, the club's traveling secretary, and Bob Hasbrook, who did not join the club until the middle of the season, will be presented a sum.

CICOTTE AND PSYCHOLOGY.

Sox Twirler Explains His "Shine" Ball as Devised for Effect.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 17.—The secret of Eddie Cicotte's "shine" ball is that there isn't and never has been such a thing. It was a myth devised for its psychological effect. This admission was made by Cicotte today while passing through here with other members of the new world's champion Chicago Americans.

"Hap Felsch and I framed it on the training trip," said Cicotte. "The idea was to rub the ball in a peculiar way to make the batsman think I was doing something to it. I wasn't really, but others thought I was. Felsch started the talk going in St. Louis—got Fielder Jones all worked up about it, and the first thing we knew the 'shine' ball was an established fact in most minds."

WEST VA. MAY GO TO COAST.

Considered as Opponent for California on New Year's Day.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 17.—The West Virginia University football team has been mentioned in newspapers on the Pacific Coast as the logical team to oppose the University of California in the annual New Year's contest at Pasadena at the Festival of Roses between the strongest team on the Coast and a representative Eastern eleven. West Virginia's stock took a rise out West through the defeat of Gilmore Dobie's Navy team a week ago.

West Virginia left for Hanover, N. H., tonight, to play Dartmouth there on Saturday in the last of the hard series of games that had place in the early part of the schedule. If the Mountaineers play a creditable game against Darthmouth it is certain that West Virginia's rating this year in the East will be the highest it has ever been, with victories over Navy and Carlisle and a 14-9 game with the Pitt championship eleven. The trip to Hanover will be made via New York, the afternoon and evening of Thursday being spent there.

McDonough Is Dartmouth Captain.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 17.—H. B. McDonough of Manchester, N. H., was today elected Captain of the Dartmouth football team. McDonough has played quarter back for the last three years. He takes the place of F. J. Dussosoit, who was elected Captain last Fall, but who is now in France with the American Field Service.

N. Y. A. C. Boxing Tournament.

The New York Athletic Club will hold its first formal amateur boxing tournament of the 1917-18 season beginning this evening, when preliminary bouts will be held in four classes, at 110, 120, 130 and 140 pounds. The finals will be decided Saturday night. An excellent entry has been received and some interesting bouts should be witnessed. The 140-pound division will be for novice boxers who have never won a prize in local amateur boxing competition.

Boxing Bouts Tonight.

FORDHAM OFFENSIVE WEAK.

Maroon Practices Attack in Preparation for Holy Cross.

The Fordham football squad had a long drill on the offensive yesterday afternoon. The 'Varsity faced the scrub eleven in an hour's scrimmage, which was as stiff as any the Maroon players have had this season. The regulars showed some improvement on attack, which is encouraging with the Holy Cross game only two days away. As Fordham's weakness of attack has been in failing to gain through the line, Coach McCaffery used only straight plays yesterday. Aided by the forwards, who cleared the way in able style, the Maroon backs showed the best form of the season.

Bunny Corgoran of last year's team was a visitor on the field yesterday. Bunny will join the aviation service in a few days, having received a transfer from the Naval Reserve. He donned a gridiron uniform yesterday and gave the ends a few pointers in taking out interference.

Crowley returned to his regular berth at centre. Christiansen and Fogarty, tackle and guard, respectively, did not get into the drill. Frisch ran through signals with the team but did not do any scrimmaging.

Practice was held on the new athletic field adjoining Bronx Park. If the war had not intervened it was planned to hold all of the football games on this field. Collapsible stands were to have been erected.

COLUMBIA HAS SCRIMMAGE.

Faces Stuyvesant High Lads in Practice Encounter.

The Stuyvesant High School eleven appeared on South Field yesterday and engaged both the Columbia 'Varsity and Freshman elevens in practice scrimmages. Coach Metcalfe directed the Blue and White teams from the sidelines, while Tom Thorpe, assistant coach, was on the field in uniform during the plays. The 'Varsity eleven was pitted against the schoolboys toward the end of the afternoon and rehearsed its tackle plunges against them. The visitors withstood the attacks of the heavier collegeians vigorously, but could not keep them from making substantial gains.

Forward pass formations were also tried and succeeded even better than the line bucks. The ball was given to the Stuyvesant lads next, who lost it on the third play through an intercepted forward pass. Previously the schoolboys had faced the Freshmen and forced the Columbia cubs to battle hard for every gain.

Hal Vollmer, captain of last year's swimming team and member of the 'Varsity eleven, appeared on the field during the practice. Vollmer is now in navy service and said yesterday that he had been transferred from Newport to what was even for him an unknown destination. The Freshmen will meet De Witt Clinton tomorrow.

BOLSTERS RUTGERS LINE.

Coach Sanford Devoting Attention to Improving Defense.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 17.—George Foster Sanford is not satisfied with the Rutgers line and is making strenuous efforts to bolster up the team's defense before the game with Lafayette on Saturday. Francke, a freshman, has been put in at guard and Neushaffer may be shifted to tackle. Feitner, regular tackle, whose right leg is injured, was not in the scrimmage today. Garagan and Kelly were in uniform, but had only light work-outs. The latter part of the practice was devoted to the further development of the forward pass which worked so well against Syracuse.

N. Y. U. REREARSES SIGNALS.

Coach Wall Includes Only a Short Scrimmage in Practice.

Coach Wall gave the New York University football squad a long workout yesterday, consisting almost entirely of signal drill, supplemented by a short period of scrimmage. The scrimmage started the session and lasted only long enough to enable the coach to teach each of the linemen how to execute his part in several new plays which the Violet has been drilling on in the last few days. Then both scrubs and 'Varsity were drilled in signal work, during which the whole Violet repertoire was rehearsed.

Ebenfeld and Gilloon, who have heretofore played end, were shifted to the backfield, while Zeuner and Wurth, erstwhile scrubs, were tried as ends. Sulzer, a 200-pound guard, was used to fill the gap left by Billo, who has not yet recovered from a leg injury.

CALL GRIDIRON VETERANS.

Former Stars of Many Colleges Will Compete in Game at Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Former college football stars will be seen in action in the Harvard Stadium on Nov. 3, when Percy D. Haughton, former Harvard coach, brings his soldier squad from Camp Devens at Ayer to play a team representing the Boston Navy Yard and coached by Leo Leary, also a former Harvard football tutor. The receipts will go to the war camp community fund, for which a campaign to raise $700,000 in New England is to be conducted from Nov. 5 to 10.

Eddie Casey, Harvard's great 1916 half back, heads the list of former college men on the navy team. Others are Enwright and Murray of Harvard, Talbot, Yale Captain of two years ago, and Cannell of Dartmouth. Coach Haughton's team will include Charles Coolidge, former Harvard end; Dave Henry, Brown; Hugh Harborson, Yale; Cy Toolman of Williams, and Lieutenant Day, West Point.

MICHIGAN WINS ON PASSES.

Aerial Tactics Defeat University of Detroit Eleven, 14 to 3.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 17.—Using the forward pass to good advantage, the University of Michigan football eleven defeated the strong University of Detroit team, 14 to 3, here today. The visitors also made frequent use of the forward pass. The Detroiters scored in the third period on a drop-kick by Allen from the 27-yard line.

HARVARD SCORES ON BRICKLEY'S MEN

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 17.—Charley Brickley, Harvard's old 'Varsity football Captain, brought his Boston College eleven to the Soldiers' Field this afternoon for practice against the Crimson informals. Also the college scrub team played the Harvard freshmen. In the clash between the two 'Varsities Harvard showed unexpected strength with its weakened lineup, holding its own goal line always safe and threatening to score continually.

One touchdown was finally made on a pretty short forward pass play from Work to Blanchard, Crosscup making the score possible by splendid interference against the Boston College secondaries. All the regulars played with the exception of Captain Snow, Church and Stone. These three players have been unable to get permission from the head of the new ensigns' school at Technology, and no hope is entertained that they will be able to participate in any more football games here.

George Flynn, one of last year's substitute tackles, is working out at centre, which will strengthen the middle of the rush line, and the return of Higgins, one of the best players on last year's football squad at end, makes the outlook better for a strong team than it was.

James L. Knox, who has coached at Cambridge off and on for twenty years, is now regularly with the team, and last season's field coach, Leo Leary, expects to be able to come out to the field practically every afternoon for the remainder of the season.

LAURA HOPE CREWS IN LIGHT COMEDY

FIVE FIANCES, 2 HUSBANDS

A Very Slight Play, with Exquisite Scenery and an Able Production.

Geoffrey Jones	Harry Ashford
Arabella Cadenhouse	Laura Hope Crews
Emma Wayne	Alice Putnam
Effie Dusen	Alice Augarde Butler
William Pennington	Felix Krembs
Maid	Ethel Cameron
Harry Atteridge	Frank Connor
Mrs. O'Lannigan	Jennie Lamont
Mrs. Green	Virginia Chauvenet
Claude Estabrook	Alfred Lunt
Peter Harper	William Williams
Ernest Mason	Henry Warwick
An Italian Musician	Marc Loebell
Dr. Henry	George K. Denny
Burglars	Harry Blaising Tracy Barrow
Mr. Bergen	Harry Weiser

It is a charming description Mr. Hurlbut has given his play, "whimsical comedy." It suggests all sorts of airy fancies, delicate characterizations, subtle sentiments, and pointed, surprising satire. It gives hope that our hearts will be lightly touched, our risibilities expanded, and our acquaintance with amiable and interesting stage folk in some good measure extended. For the phrase which Mr. Hurlbut appropriates has hitherto been conferred upon Barrie.

Not a few of these hopes "Romance and Arabella" fulfills. The dialogue is neat, light, and at times quite brilliantly witty. The people are well mannered in the main and touched off with now and again a shrewd stroke of observed reality. And at the base of the action is a promising comedy idea. But there is one cardinal defect in it all. The heroine, who exerts a charm on the other people of the play which is quite unprecedented, begins by being utterly incredible and ends by being a bore. When it is added that she is played by Laura Hope Crews, one of the most finished and humorous of our comediennes, little more need be said as to the depths of her shortcomings.

A bare census of her romantic vagaries will suffice. She starts as a widow and in the course of four brief acts she is engaged, or rather compromised, with no less than five men, young and old. The last one she bolts from at the altar. And then we are to suppose that she marries and lives happily with the only man in a very full cast to whom she has not been engaged. That is the plot. He is a wise guy, with a smooth "technique," who foresees that the only way to get the "romance" out of her system is to surfeit it.

Rather vapid, even silly, the way Arabella is on again, off again. Even she has a moment when she begins to suspect that she is "a light woman." She is worse than that. If there is one thing on the stage more trying than the jokeless joke at which the entire cast laughs hilariously, it is the character without reality or charm who is universally adored.

One of the four "episodes," which takes place in a Greenwich Village flat, has local atmosphere and no little amusing satire upon the villagers. But even here the so-called whims mount to the wildest extravagance. Arabella, who is drifting into one of those affairs with an apostle of free love and free verse, takes her chaperon with her; but, in deference to the traditions of the place, she hides the venerable lady beneath the sofa—and then is made passionate love to by the poet, as they both sit heavily on the dear soul's chest. The audience seemed mostly composed of villagers, who laughed at many things. But this was beyond even them.

A wealth of expense and good taste has been expended on the production. The scenes by Unitt and Wickes are of really exquisite beauty, especially the one in Arabella's garden, which is a Reinhardtesque symphony of roses and moonlight. The gowns are splendid and richly harmonious. A fine discretion in all details of furnishing and casting reveal the artist touch of George Foster Platt. A full orchestra, led by Elliott Schenck, discoursed excellent music.

And yet was this Arabella preposterous, and a bore. If only some one had seen to it that the audience should feel for her one-tenth of the adoration that cast and management alike so prodigally lavished upon her!

TESTS NEWS SERVICE RIGHTS

Publisher's Suit Involves Associated Press and International News.

A suit to test the right of The Associated Press to suspend a member because he violates its rule that no member may use the leased-wire service of a competing news organization was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Ralph Buvinger, owner of The Meridian (Miss.) Star, which publishes a morning, evening, and Sunday morning edition. Mr. Buvinger was suspended by the Directors of The Associated Press on Oct. 3 because he takes a leased-wire service of the International News, and has been directed to appear at the next annual meeting of The Associated Press, in April, to show cause why he should not be expelled. The news service is withheld pending his suspension.

The plaintiff said he became a member of The Associated Press in 1910, and that because The Associated Press has refused to furnish service for his Sunday morning edition he is compelled to take a leased-wire service of the International News. He alleges that the leased wire is used exclusively for receiving news, and that the operator is the editor of the paper and is directly under his control. He says that it is not possible for the news received from The Associated Press to be communicated to any one else over his wire, and declares he has not been charged with sending The Associated Press news to any one else.

The plaintiff stated that he was notified on Sept. 12 last to appear before the Directors on Oct. 3 for violating a by-law passed last April prohibiting members from installing in their offices "the wire of a competing news association, thereby endangering the inviolability of the report of The Associated Press." He was in Omaha on important business on the day he was required to appear before the Directors, he [illegible] and in his behalf his attorney appeared and protested against action against him. He states that, without further inquiry into the facts, the Directors suspended him and its news service to his paper.

EDWIN HUGHES'S RECITAL.

A Program of Chopin's Music in Aeolian Hall.

Edwin Hughes, an American pianist, formerly resident in Germany, who played here last season, gave a recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall, of which the program was entirely devoted to Chopin. A pianist needs to be certain of his calling as a Chopin interpreter to devote a whole program to his music, especially when he exacts of himself a performance of the two sonatas, as Mr. Hughes did. The other numbers were three mazurkas and the Fantasie in F minor.

There were many excellent and agreeable features in Mr. Hughes's playing, but it did not denote a special sympathy with Chopin's music or understanding of it. There were intelligence, dignity, repose, a fine technical competency; but the imaginative flight was not sustained, the poetic fire burned only fitfully. It could not be said that Mr. Hughes failed to understand the music he played, but he viewed it with sobriety. With all the excellent qualities that were recognizable in the playing of the B Minor Sonata, there was a nearer approximation to the spirit of the three mazurkas.

CORONA RICCARDO BURIED.

Once Noted Actress Left Stage When She Married Indian Chief.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 17.—A brief cortège wended its way to St. Mary's Cemetery this morning to perform the last rites for a woman who once held audiences of London and America thrilled by her beauty and her art. Corona Riccardo was the name by which the stage and its followers once knew the woman who died at the General Hospital two days ago.

In Kansas City, in a modest room, marked almost by privation, she was known as the wife of Chief Silver Tongue, an Indian, for whom she left the stage a dozen years ago, almost at the height of her career. In her girlhood days she became the protégé of one of the great prelates of her church, who saw in her talent of unusual promise. Mrs. Augustin Daly became interested, and the girl's first appearance upon the stage won recognition. She played for Daly in "The Great Ruby."

Wilson Barrett took her to London as his leading woman and then brought her back to act with him here. For a season or two she played leading rôles with Robert Mantell in his Shakespearean production—and everywhere was lauded. When "Ben Hur" was produced she acted one of the leading rôles.

Then came a brief season in vaudeville in an Indian sketch, during which she met Silver Tongue—and the stage knew her no more. She came to this city several months ago with her husband and the little son who wept at the grave this morning.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The first program to be given by the Wisconsin Players, who will begin an engagement at the Neighborhood Playhouse on Saturday night, will include "The Shadow," a fantasy by Howard Mumford Jones; "Carlos Among the Candles," by Wallace Stevens; "Neighbors," by Zona Gale, and "On the Pier," by Laura Sherry. A new bill will be given on Monday.

William Gillette's engagement at the Plymouth in "A Successful Calamity" will end on Nov. 3, and the piece will then be seen at the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago.

It is announced that subscriptions received for the season of the Theatre de Vieux Colombier, under the direction of Jacques Copeau, approximate $20,000. The theatre has already been sold out for the first performance.

A patriotic playlet by Marion Craig Wentworth, author of "War Brides," will be on the program at the Palace next week.

The cast of George V. Hobart's farce, "What's Your Husband Doing?" which will be produced in one of the Shubert houses by the Hobart-Jordan Company, includes Hale Hamilton, Virginia Hammond, Charlotte Ives, Jane Cooper, Alice Lloyd, Jed Prouty, Clara Mackin, Joseph Conyers, Gus Hegge, and Thomas Clark.

Oscar Shaw, playing in "Leave It To Jane," will also appear nightly in the "Midnight Frolic" next week and thereafter.

Margit Leeras, a Norwegian dancer who is to take part in the Adolf Bolm ballet at the Century, arrived in this country yesterday.

PACK CARNEGIE HALL FOR WAR AID RALLY

Mrs. Preston, Widow of President Cleveland, Presides at Security League Meeting.

PAY HONOR TO SOLDIERS

Speakers Tell of Conditions in War-Stricken Countries — Cheers Welcome Calls for Victory.

Wives, mothers, sisters, and sweethearts of American men who have been called to the front last night formed one of the biggest gatherings that has ever filled Carnegie Hall, at the Women's War Service meeting, held under the auspices of the National Security League. Mrs. Thomas W. Preston, formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland, presided.

Every seat in the hall was taken and hundreds crowded the platform before the hour set for the opening of the meeting. At 8:15 o'clock the doors were closed and the police on the outside were busy turning the crowds away. Through the settlements, clubs, and patriotic organizations the women had been invited to the big patriotic celebration in honor of the men called to war, and they responded in large numbers.

Mrs. Preston, who was introduced by S. Stanwood Menken, President of the league, made a short address. Other speakers were Miss Kathleen Burke of the Scottish Woman's Hospital, Frederic C. Walcott, an assistant to Food Administrator Hoover, who told of his experiences with the Food Commission abroad, and Henry van Dyke, former Minister to Holland. The speakers told what they knew of actual war conditions in the invaded countries. The audience, when asked if these conditions should be permitted, and if it would not fight to the last, answered in once voice that it would.

"Are we going to make peace with a people who have not repented?" asked Dr. van Dyke, speaking of the recent aid raids on Red Cross hospitals, where only a short time before he said he had seen French doctors, performing with great skill an operation on a German soldier.

"No! No!" answer the audience.

There was applause when Mr. Walcott, after an account of the horrors of starvation allowed by Prussian officers, said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, if it cost everything in the world, that system must be stopped."

Patriotism was the predominating note of the meeting. Large flags formed a background to the platform, on either side of which was a picture of Liberty. The boxes were filled by prominent men and women. Representatives of France and Belgium also occupied boxes.

The meeting opened with a procession of young women carrying the flags of the Allies, who marched upon the platform to a patriotic air played by a United States recruit band. Mrs. Preston in part said:

"The bravest battle that ever was fought was fought by the mothers of men. Today we, mothers and wives of the soldiers of Freedom, face again the old, grim fact of war; but this is a war to end war; and therefore our eyes must be dry and our hearts unswerving for sacrifice. More than that, we must all serve. Not grief but labor, not tears, but steadfast purpose, are worthy of the men who bear our colors against the enemy of the world's peace. Above all we must let our soldiers know that the women of America are behind them, steadfast, resolute, and demanding the victory which alone can bring disarmament, and a lasting peace."

Miss Burke first told of the work performed by the women of the Scottish Woman's Hospital, which she represents, of their endurance, cheerful suffering and willing death in the service of the wounded.

Mr. Walcott told of the starvation and death he had seen in Poland.

"England and France can't hold on forever," he said. "They want us to hurry, and we must hurry." He also told the need of aid through food.

Dr. Van Dyke told of his visit to the front in France, because, he said, he felt he could not come to America and ask men to go into the war until he had first experienced some of the danger himself. He told of his visit to a hospital near Verdun. When he was going through one of the wards, he said, he was asked to be guarded in his remarks, because it was a "German ward," and he was not to offend the men by remarks about their country.

"And after that," continued Dr. van Dyke, "there came three damnable Potsdam airplanes and dropped bombs on that very hospital, killed thirty nurses and helpers and their own German wounded in their beds.

"Remember, France helped us," he said in conclusion, as he called the girl bearer of the French flag to her feet with the Tricolor waving, and shouted, "Vive la France!"

The entire house from floor to gallery rose in salute.

BOND TALKS IN THEATRES.

Ten Days' Liberty Campaign Is Begun—Salesmen in Lobbies.

A ten-days' Liberty bond campaign was begun in the New York theatres yesterday afternoon, and Liberty bond speeches will be a feature of practically every theatrical performance given in the city from now until Oct. 29, the end of the period allotted for subscription. The campaign is under the direction of the United Managers' Protective Association, which has assigned a speaker and several bond salesmen to every theatre.

Lillian Russell and Irvin S. Cobb were the speakers at the Hippodrome yesterday afternoon, and in the evening the stars or featured players of the various plays addressed the audiences at their respective theatres. Among those who made speeches were Marjorie Rambeau, at "Eyes of Youth," at the Maxine Elliott; Douglas J. Wood, at "Maytime," at the Shubert; Raymond Hitchcock, at "Hitchy-Koo," at the Forty-fourth Street; Ernest Torrence at "Furs and Frills," at the Casino; Sam B. Hardy, at "The Riviera Girl," at the New Amsterdam, and many others. Bond salesmen were stationed in the lobbies during intermissions and at the end of the performances.

Cohan & Harris announced a plan whereby they will assist actors and actresses in their companies to subscribe to bonds on a weekly payment basis.

BATTLESHIP TEAM WINS.

Texas Crew Members Are First in Electric Show Signaling Contest.

In a field of eight competitors the team from the battleship Texas won the semaphore signaling contest yesterday afternoon at the Electrical Exposition at the Grand Central Palace. The conditions were the transmission of two messages from the roof of the Heckshher Building, Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street, to the roof of the Grand Central Palace. The teams consisted of four men, two at the sending and two at the receiving end. The first message was as follows:

"To all Americans: Our country needs men and dollars. Enlist in the army or navy. Buy a bond. Do both if you can, and do it now. Recruiting office for the Signal Enlisted Reserve Corps, 1,493 Broadway; for the navy, at Landship Recruit, Union Square."

The other message was fifteen words in code. The Texas team sent the messages in 3 minutes and 4 seconds. It made nine errors and was penalized a second for each, making the corrected time 3 minutes and 13 seconds. The First Naval Reserve team won second place with a record of 3 minutes and 48½ seconds and twelve errors. The Mine Sweepers' team from the lower bay was third, the time being 4 minutes and 16 4-5 seconds, with five seconds added for errors. The first prize consisted of four safety razors, the second a comfort kit, and the third a money belt. Arthur Williams, President of the exposition, in presenting the prizes said that the exposition management had decided to make the contest a permanent one and that a silver prize cup would be put up for the winner next year. Besides the winners other teams competing were Company H, Army Signal Corps; Second Naval Reserve team, team from the Naval Recruiting Station, New York, and two from the Signal Enlisted Reserve Corps. The members of the winning team were T. B. Hawkins and E. W. Grandhoeffer, chief quartermasters, and M. M. Clement and A. A. Bitterle, quartermasters of the second class. The contest lasted two hours. Lieutenant O. F. Cooper of the navy and Lieutenant Harloe Hardings of the army were the judges.

Oil Fire and Explosion at Tampico.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 17.—News has been received here of a fire which communicated to four oil tanks at Tampico, causing an explosion. The Waters-Pierce Company, owner of the oil, state that the loss will amount to thousands of dollars.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, OCT. 18, 1917.

MR. ROOT SUPPORTS MAYOR MITCHEL.

"Of course I am for the re-election of Mayor Mitchel," says ex-Senator Elihu Root in his letter to Mr. Sheffield, published today. Mr. Root gives the soundest of reasons for supporting Mayor Mitchel. In the first place, he should be re-elected because he has been a good Mayor. "I have "known personally every Mayor of "New York in the past fifty years," says Mr. Root, "and several of them "have been my warm personal "friends; yet I am satisfied that Mr. "Mitchel has been the best Mayor "New York has had in all that time." There could be no weightier testimony to the worth of Mayor Mitchel's administration than this from the great statesman who has been honored so often by his party, who has rendered such distinguished service to the State and to the Nation.

Deserving the continued trust of the people, Mr. Mitchel should not be hindered of his re-election by any false pretenses about Republican regularity. Governor Whitman, the Republican leader in the State, has declared that he will vote for Mayor Mitchel, and he has shown that the doctrine of party regularity has no application to restrain a Republican voter in the City of New York from supporting the Fusion candidate. Mr. Root demonstrates that nonpartisanship in municipal elections is imbedded in the creed and faith of the Republican Party, a principle put there by Republicans and repeatedly sustained by them. The Constitutional Convention of 1894 was a Republican convention, presided over by Joseph H. Choate. The State Convention of that year approved the new Constitution, the Republicans carried the State that year by a heavy majority and adopted it. Tammany Hall fought the Constitution but was beaten, for the whole City of New York approved it, and Mr. Root points out that "the city of "Brooklyn voted for it by a still larger majority." Let the Republicans of Brooklyn who look upon Mr. Bennett as the regular candidate of the party note that.

In the address to the people submitting the Constitution for their approval or rejection, the Convention said:

> We seek to separate in the larger cities municipal elections from State and national elections, to the end that the business affairs of our great municipal corporations may be managed upon their own merits, uncontrolled by national and State politics, and to the end also that the great issues of national and State politics may be determined upon their merits free from the disturbing and often demoralizing effect of local contests.

Independent Democrats have long been accustomed to cast off the thrall of party in municipal contests, and Republicans have encouraged them in that course. Mr. Root points out that the freedom of action which Republicans commend to Democrats is equally open to them; they cannot say that "Democrats are free to vote as "they choose without regard to the "Democratic nomination without say"ing that Republicans are free to vote "as they choose in the coming muni"cipal election without regard to the "Republican nomination." The argument of Republican regularity put forth by Mr. Bennett and his supporters is worthless. It has no basis in Republican doctrine or practice. It is plainly, unmistakably, an argument for Hylan, not for Bennett, whose election is impossible.

But the argument based upon the positive merit of the Fusion candidate, upon the demonstrated excellence of Mayor Mitchel's administration, is impregnable and can be assailed only by impudent misrepresentation. Not only is he the best Mayor in the city's history, but Mr. Root declares that in this time of anxiety and of peril "he "has been a great patriotic leader, "powerful, fearless, active, effective, "arousing his people, holding up the "hands of the National Government "for the cause of free democracy and "the security and honor of our "country. All true Americans owe "him a debt of gratitude and we "ought to express our sense of that "by our votes." A vote for Mr. Mitchel is a vote to sustain and continue the honest, efficient, businesslike administration of the city's affairs. It is a vote to recognize and approve the noble service he has rendered to the Nation, to hold up the hands of a patriotic and fearless American.

SHAMING AMERICANS.

It would seem that the foreign-born want the Liberty bonds more than the natives. Minneapolis is tardy and deficient in its American subscriptions, but is not ashamed to say that "the buying of bonds by "farmers of German birth and an"cestry is very gratifying." Standish, N. Y., has less than 300 population, including 150 iron-workers of fifteen nationalities. They have bought $21,550 of Liberty bonds, and it is thought that every inhabitant of bond-buying age will take some. That may well be a record. Even the Creek Indians, aborigines, yet about the most alien of our people, took $412,000.

Meanwhile the help of the foreign-born does not maintain the average necessary for the oversubscription which will make the loan the success it ought to be if it is to be persuasive to the Germans. The American who has not taken his bonds should blush to read that Pershing's boys have sent back home $50,000 and that $25,000,000 has been subscribed by our "conscripts." Equal proportionate contributions by other Americans would have oversubscribed the loan before now.

It is a reproach that we are not willing to advance to the Government the funds for the payment of wages and purchase of goods among ourselves while our soldiers are proving themselves the best patriots among us. The war is now costing more than the daily growth of our loan list. Only our soldiers and the foreign-born do their duty, and more than their duty, while the generality of us do less than ours. There is not the least question of the success of this loan, and of the next offering as well. The money will be found, if necessary, by those whose patriotism the country has thought sordid. But it would be well if the loan showed not only that we are rich but that we are as patriotic as other nations. If more Germans subscribe to their loan now closing than subscribe to ours, it will be shown that the Germans approve the ruthless war on noncombatants on sea and land, and that we do not condemn it as we should. It would be easier to understand, even to excuse, the German support of their national policy than our failure to back up ours with the money which comes so easy to us, and which is so sorely needed by those who spend and bleed in a manner exemplary to us. Let us hope that the reproach will be wiped off the record within the next day or two.

RAILWAY THEORY AND PRACTICE.

Events have neither softened the hearts of the State regulators of the railways nor taught them lessons which the country's welfare makes it desirable that they should learn. The Chairman of the Interstate Committee of the National Association of Railway Commissioners, now in session at Washington, warns the railways that they should behave if they would avoid commandeering. The President of the association, in his opening address, said that the railways were doing very well and need no increases of revenue. It is true, he said, that the railways' net showed a decrease of $18,600,000 if compared with 1916, but the true comparison was with 1915, when the railways were less prosperous. Also it should be remembered, he said, that the railways had spent more in maintenance of their properties, and, if that item should be deducted, the railways were enjoying an increase of net by $30,000,000 even over their best year, 1916. The railways still had something to do before showing the results of economy and efficiency, as counseled by the Interstate Commerce Commission when it refused the railways permission to raise their rates. The criticisms of the railways by Interstate Commissioner McCord were amiable, compared with the unrelenting views of the State Commissioners.

While these counsels of perfection were being put on record, and in ignorance of them, the Presidents of the Pennsylvania and Atchison Railways put on record some facts which may be contrasted with the theories of the regulators. Mr. Rea said that the Pennsylvania's average freight rate was 6.4 mills per ton per mile, as compared with 2½ cents in the civil war period. Compared with the most efficient foreign Government roads' rates in the normal period before the war, the Pennsylvania rates were half theirs, the Pennsylvania's wages were thrice theirs, and the foreign Government roads paid no taxes. The Pennsylvania company was unable to proceed with $20,000,000 expenditures in terminals in this neighborhood, and the railway system of the country must decay without a more progressive and equitable policy of regulation.

The Atchison company's report on the surface sustains even the glowing views of the State regulators. Above dividends upon the common stock there is confessed a surplus of nearly $20,000,000. It is bad enough to pay dividends, but a surplus is little short of insulting. Why waste money in dividends? Why not at least apply the surplus to reduction of rates? The excuse of the report is that the surplus was allotted to betterments, including eleven millions for equipment, ordered at double the cost of normal times. Even so, "every nerve has been strained to the utmost" to cope with the company's flood of traffic. There certainly are roads less able to cope with the difficulties of the situation than these two, but it may be doubted whether there are any others better representative of the best the railways can do.

If such are their conditions, what might be expected if their facilities were to be much longer shriveled by arbitrary reductions of their income and increases of their costs? How could the State Commissioners expect the railways to serve the public if they did not have and use their surplus like the Atchison? And what could the country expect if the threat to commandeer the railways were enforced? Is it not reasonable to suppose that there would be a railway deficit to be charged against the taxpayers, in the manner of the Post Office? If the railways are blamable for maintaining their properties, what would be thought of them if they allowed their facilities to deteriorate at a time when the country was demanding that a million men be moved, and sixteen cities be built, at half rates for Government work? The country observes the results, and it is only fair to ask the country what it thinks of the policy of starving the railways.

TAMMANY IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Rigmarole about "the Rockefeller interests" controlling the public schools, about the Gary plan as "undemocratic" and "plutocratic," can hardly be believed by other than crude and undeveloped intellects. The boys in a public school adapted to the Gary plan have been led by soap-box spouters or other disseminators of malice and falsehood to believe that the Gary system is a scheme of the rich to injure the poor. It is a fable suited to the childish mind. So the boys smash the school windows, go on strike, as the agitators told them to. We have the sorry spectacle of some 5,000 school children marching in a demonstration ostensibly against the Gary system. The banners carried by some of them show the purely political purpose of which the children were made the unconscious instruments, for example: "Can the Gary system and Mitchel!"

This touch of the political I. W. W. in the public schools, this organized insubordination, is a foretaste of what the Tammanyization of the schools would bring upon us. There are misled and ignorant parents, there are shirking teachers who object to the Gary system on account of the added hour to the school day. What hope has any competent teacher or person who wishes to become a teacher, not sure of political "pull" or "influence," if the appointments to the new Board of Education are made by a Tammany Mayor, and Tammany Examiners, true to Tammany tradition, are to be the judges of teaching qualifications? What hope of decent education for their children would these misguided parents have?

The boys of one school amused themselves by tearing down Mitchel posters. While some of the manifestants in the night procession carried Hillquit lithographs and legends, the Socialist headquarters deny, no doubt truly, that they furnished these. The whole affair smacks of Tammany, whose candidate has been the chief emitter of the prating about taking the schools away from the poor. Socialism or pro-Germanism is divided between the Hillquitites and Tammany with its spurious, impossible socialistic proposals and its malignant attempt to create class-consciousness.

By whomsoever stirred, these school riots, this injection of politics into the schools, these endeavors to disorganize the schools, must stimulate in the public mind the sense of the dangers which a Tammany success would bring. There is more even involved than the gravest injury to the schools. Behind all this fomenting of mischief one suspects not only the hand of the enemy of social order but the seditionaries who fear and hate Mayor Mitchel.

FOOD AND THE WAR.

The bitter denunciation of our embargo on food exports by pro-German newspapers in Holland was published on the same day with a trustworthy estimate of Germany's new crops. There is only a little more than half of a normal yield, the reduction being 40 per cent. for wheat and 45 for rye, oats, and barley. These figures show a perilous shortage in a country which found it necessary to import large quantities of grain before the war. In Austria and Hungary crop conditions are even worse. Winter is at hand. Allowances of food for the people of these countries are already very small. They will be reduced. The crops of all the Northern neutrals are far below average. Germany can have little or nothing from Holland, Denmark, Norway, or Sweden unless they are assisted by imports.

We do not say that any part of the grain on the eighty-four Dutch ships held here would go directly to Germany if it should be released. But some of it would cross the border in other forms. Holland has a quarrel with England because the use of cables has been withheld from her. But this has been done for the reason that Holland permits Germany to use her waterways and territory for the transportation of great quantities of sand and gravel for the concrete needed in trench warfare. England says that there must be no more of this. By their embargoes both the United States and England say they will not assist the neutrals to help Germany.

Such expressions as are found in the pro-German press of Holland were to be expected. German influence is powerful in that country, with the aid of German intrigue, exposed in many other parts of the world. It seeks to make the Dutch our open foes. One paper talks about a "declaration of war." The President of the Overseas Trust, which controls imports, says our Government "is playing a high hand." It is a strong hand because the cards in it are high, and it is played fairly, with due regard for the interests which it represents. He knows that there has been playing in the neutral countries which was not fair. "Food will win the war," Mr. Hoover says. Lack of food will hasten the defeat of our enemy and save the lives of American soldiers. The United States and England will strive in every legitimate way to prevent relief of Germany's food shortage by supplies from abroad.

THE RUMOR AS A WEAPON.

As the channels of print are rapidly closed to the German Government's propagandists in the United States, they are resorting more and more to the spreading of poison by word of mouth. We are not now speaking of those who do the German Government's work without knowledge, the pacifists and Socialists, but of the actual agents of Wilhelmstrasse; for it is certain that this poison cannot be the product of any others. The German agent pervades the land. In every community where he stops overnight a full-blown rumor pervades the town next day. It came from somebody on the "inside," somebody who "got it straight," and it is whispered from one to another until the whole community is uneasy and agitated.

Sometimes the rumor is the one to which the National Committee of Patriotic Societies paid its respects yesterday, the rumor that a transport has been sunk with an American regiment on board. It is usually given with the utmost particularity, including the name of the regiment, the names of the survivors, and all the details. This bars all possibility that the rumor is mere accidental rumor, of the usual wartime kind, for the particularity of detail argues an author. Sometimes the story whispered by the German agent is that there has been a mutiny; in such cases the camp and the regiments engaged in the outbreak are named. Sometimes he poses as an Englishman or a Canadian with a friend or relative in the army or in the Foreign Office, and in this case his story is that the British are holding their army at home and making the French and colonials do the fighting for them; in such cases he particularizes in figures and dates. Sometimes he masquerades as a newspaper man or a Government official, and whispers the "inside" information that Japan is getting ready to declare war on the United States.

These are only a few of his lies, a few of those which come constantly to newspaper offices through frightened and excited inquiries by the dupes, not of the German agent, but of other dupes who have given currency to his stories. One and all, they are false; and their purpose is to spread alarm and distrust among Americans. This method of propaganda began while the German agents were still able to make use of newspapers and periodicals, but when their farseeing employers knew that those channels would soon be closed. It has increased in intensity and viciousness as the subtler method has been gradually taken away from them. Americans who hear such stories should recognize clearly their source and be on their guard.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Belated Seeing of Light.

It is not exactly kind, perhaps, to call attention to the fact that not until this late day has any German paper been moved to express the opinion that aerial raids on undefended cities are neither wise nor moral. Even now only the Munich Post, so far as the cable dispatches disclose, has made public statement to this effect, but it may be that its editors are not alone among the journalists of Germany in seeing what has long been obvious to everybody elsewhere—that besides ranking in the category of atrocities, such raids can have no other consequence than that of embittering public sentiment in the country at which they are directed and of strengthening the determination of its people to think of peace only after complete victory has been won.

If that belief, however, has existed to any measurable extent in and out of journalistic circles in Germany, it is a pity—from the German point of view—that its first expression should have followed so closely upon the announcement of British intention to make reprisals in kind for the murderous work of the German airships. For now, it may be unjustly and it may be ungenerously, there will be a general disposition to say that realization of the wrongness of killing noncombatants in this way arose in the German mind only when it was confronted with the probability that the penalty for continuing the raids would be like assaults on German cities. Should that cruel theory gain general acceptance, the argument for reprisals would meet with no more antagonism, for it would be fully justified.

And what tends most to silence those who have protested against entering into a competition in atrocity with Germany is the observed fact that since it became evident that the British Government could not much longer resist the popular demand for aerial reprisals there have been no more raids on London. Should they not begin again, it would look as though the plan had been to continue them until just that point was reached and to stop them in time to prevent the carrying out of the reprisal policy.

An alternative theory is that the German Government was deliberately trying to drive the English into a duplication of the German crimes in order that it could say, "They are as bad as we are." But that theory will not hold against the present inactivity of the German raiders.

On Keeping Minds Still Open.

There is still to be heard, and not always, though usually, from pacifist sources, statements to the effect that "every case has two sides" and that the fortunate possessors of judicial minds are not only willing, but want, to give everybody a chance to present argument and evidence in his own behalf. The trouble with these assertions is not that they are false, or that the policy they formulate is a bad one, but that, as used in current discussion of the war, their purpose is to excuse or justify refusals to reach a conclusion and to act on it.

The people who vaunt this kind of "fairness" forget that while there may be two sides to every case, of most cases one side is the better of the pair, and that for those whom a given case concerns it is no more a duty to give each party a fair hearing than it is, after the hearing has been given, to render a verdict and to stand by it. That is what Judges do—that is their business—and they do not go on endlessly listening to repetitious presentations of the "two sides." Instead, they render a verdict and the defeated litigant or the convicted defendant pays the penalty, whatever it may be, of his tort or his crime.

It is only mental inertia that insists on seeing all cases as still and forever pleadable. It is not as regards the accuracy of the multiplication table alone that the keeping of "an open mind" is a sign, not of intellectual and moral superiority, but of—well, of something quite different. A good many other "cases" are properly held to be settled by those who have had access to the relevant facts and have met the obligation to weigh them.

It is not permissible to say that human judgment is fallible and that the case in question may have been settled wrong. Both statements are true, but whoever waits for absolute and ultimate certainty on any subject whatever, before he decides and acts, will be reduced to an immobility in regard to that subject which, if it happens to be one of present importance, will be quite without excuse. Germany, just now, is trying to keep in court a case in which a verdict was rendered long ago, and no appeal lies. To talk about that case as still open is to misuse language.

Yet America Taught the Lesson.

Great things in the way of aviation are promised for after the war, as well as while it lasts, by the Caproni brothers, the Italian builders of airplanes larger than are used in other countries than Italy. They speak of transatlantic passages as things, not of the future, but of present possibility, and they have given the most convincing of proofs that machines capable of carrying twenty and even thirty passengers for long distances are already practicable.

As the assurances of these men are from experience as well as knowledge, they can be accepted with confidence. For safety, or approximation to safety, they trust to multiple motors, acting, or able to act, independently. In this, too, they are supported by demonstration.

It is more than a little humiliating that these advances of flying are made abroad, instead of here, where mechanical flight by men was changed from the dream of ages to a reality. We are making neither the largest nor the fastest airplanes, and though we have high hopes of our "Liberty motor," it is yet to have the ultimate tests of service.

Edward A. Dithmar.

From the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

One of America's finest literary and dramatic critics passes in the death of Edward A. Dithmar of The New York Times. And daily journalism, in its broadest activities, loses a public-spirited patriot, as deeply interested in fighting encroachments upon our city parks as in the military preparedness of the nation, to which he had given special study.

Contemporary as dramatic critic of William Winter, The Tribune veteran, a collaborator with Winter and H. C. Bunner and Laurence Hutton and Brander Matthews, author of the "Memoirs of Augustin Daly," biographer of John Drew, Mr. Dithmar knew the stage of the past and of the present, its figures and its forces, its romances, its traditions. It was he who persuaded Richard Mansfield to have Clyde Fitch write "Beau Brummel," and started Fitch on his road to fame. The Times critic of that period had not the enthusiasms of William Winter, rather scorned the word-pyrotechnics of "Nym Crinkle," and trusted to keen judgment, justice, and finished, graceful expression. He waved aside stage absurdities as unworthy of attack. What he said was quoted and respected, because there were many things he did not choose to say.

Like The Times editor in chief, Charles R. Miller, Mr. Dithmar had seen several changes in that newspaper's ownership control. Mr. Miller's connection with The Times began in 1875. Mr. Dithmar went there in 1877. A great daily paper has a character and an identity distinct from its business control, and dependent on reputation for truth, justice, consistency. Mr. Dithmar's loyalty was to The Times as an institution. For forty years he had helped to make it what it was. His career had been worth while.

Mr. Dithmar as Dramatic Critic.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The sudden death of Edward A. Dithmar comes as a shock to me. I knew him intimately—and he was a man, a credit to his profession. For twenty years I was the press agent for Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Joseph Jefferson, Modjeska, and several other stars, and as such became acquainted with Mr. Dithmar, then dramatic critic of The Times. He knew plays and players, and was always extremely fair in his criticisms. I had a talk with him of old times a few weeks ago—and now he has gone to the happy hunting grounds.

Beautiful Bonds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With the most patriotic apologies to Mr. William Henry Haworth of Brooklyn, let me say to the glory of the nation that "Man never made and nature never produced anything more beautiful than the Liberty bond."

STRONG FUSION CANDIDATE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While attention in the municipal campaign has, naturally enough, been mainly centred on the head of the ticket, it might be well for citizens, regardless of party, to be reminded that the Fusion candidate for County Clerk, Mr. Morgan, is none other than the very efficient and capable former Postmaster of this city.

His record assures that, in the event of his election, the County Clerk's office will be well administered and with strict regard to the public interest. H. L.

The Dutch Pro-German Press.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At this moment when our relations with Holland are somewhat strained you may read with interest and profit, perhaps, this passage from a private letter which I have just received from a prominent Dutchman who resides in Amsterdam, where he is in a position peculiarly favorable for knowing whereof he speaks:

> Please spread the fact that we have here in the Netherlands a press that is poisoned by Bocheism, neutralism, the system of "neutrality in the face of crime," and the cowardice and treason of the partisans of "a German peace." The attitude of the so-called Dutch "Socialists" is especially lamentable. These people were the organizers of that recent Stockholm trap. As regards our newspapers, the only ones worthy of confidence are De Telegraaf, De Courant, De Nieuwe Arnhemsder Courant, Het Dagblad voor Zuid Holland. Then there is the monthly La Gazette de Hollande, in French; and a few little local sheets. Among the weeklies, De Groene Amsterdammer is very good. Put no faith in any of the others. But it is worthy of note that these others have not succeeded in deceiving the popular instinct. Nine-tenths of our people are on the side of the Allies, in no small measure due to the good work of De Telegraaf and its popular edition, De Courant, which together have nearly a million readers, an enormous number for a small country like Holland.

Doubtless the explanation of this divorce between the press and the people of the Netherlands is simply due to the free use of German money, the common method, as we only too well know in this country, employed by the stupid Junker diplomats of Berlin. THEODORE STANTON.

Bigger Game Than Villa.

General Pershing, by no fault of his own, failed to catch Villa. He has now the chance of his life to redeem his Mexican misadventure by bagging a far more important game.

Get him, Pershing, dead or alive! Soon a powerful flotilla of airplanes will be at your disposal. Don't forget that the automobile is also one of the Yankee inventions, and if an armored limousine could be of any use in helping in the game, we will pat ourselves on both shoulders. And as long as you are at it, take, if you have sufficient room, a few of the main screws of the militaristic machinery with you—the tragicomical heir to the Hohenzollern throne, and Hindenburg and Ludendorff.

Willie, the last Hohenzollern, at Guam, would be a worthy pendant to Nickie in Tobolsk. LUCIUS VERUS.

A Crumb of Comfort.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the present international situation there is at least a crumb of questionable comfort. When the terms of peace come to be authoritatively discussed, not a moment need be lost over the question of the vindication of Germany's national honor, since Germany long ago abandoned, even in her own mind, the last vestige of a claim to a lingering shred of personal or national honor. Any suggestion now by Germany that her honor is involved would be received by the nations of the world with unsuppressed boos of scorn.

It is not inappropriate to add that, when the terms of peace with Spain were under deliberation after the recent Spanish-American war, the question of Spain's national honor was accorded chivalrous and sympathetic consideration. H. A. TODD.

Bonds From Savings Accounts.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To make a success of the present Liberty Loan the rank and file of the people must unite to subscribe. The great body of our people, and the thrifty class particularly represented in part by the savings bank depositors, could be brought into touch with the movement if the banks would inform them what proportion of their deposits could be safely converted into bonds without impairing the solvency of the banks, and also that the bonds would be kept free of charge by the banks as their custodians, and the interest collected and credited to their respective accounts.

The Loan in Minneapolis.

By Telegraph to the Editor of The New York Times.

Your editorial article of Oct. 14 headed "Rounding Up the Loan Slackers" calls attention to the Minneapolis district, which you say is particularly backward. This article is a grave injustice to this district. Our district is not backward, and the State Deposit Board's applied remedy was not due to that fact.

Our committee feels that it knows its own district and the best method of handling it. Consequently our campaign did not start until Monday. We have been unable, therefore, to send any adequate returns, but we can safely say that this district is not entitled to the charge made, and that when all the returns are in there will be no cause for complaint. ROGERS, Chairman.

Minneapolis, Oct. 17, 1917.

OCTOBER MORNING.

Level with yon flaunting flag which ripples in the breeze,
I can see the swaying tops of green and russet trees,
I can watch the dancing play of sunlight on the street.

Purple mists of morning come a-creeping o'er the town,
Waking it to rhythmic roar of derrick, drill and steam,
Flowing tides of eager life that eddy up and down. . . .

Spires of many churches prick the opalescent sky,
Gaunt and craggy buildings loom, innumerable, gray,
Turned to glowing splendor by the glory of the day,
Crowding into Heav'n itself where flags and seagulls fly!

Calling men as never yet in all the changing past,
Carrying the message of the silver trumpet blast,
Message of a Battle Hymn that marching millions sing!

Vision shining, wonderful, in sunlight or in rain—
Purple haze of Autumn, while a baby Sea-Wind sings,
Rush of doves a-flutter with a swirl of shining wings—
Yet over all and under all our consciousness of Pain!

ELIZABETH NEWPORT HEPBURN.

J. B. BRADY'S ART OBJECTS.

The collection of furnishings and ornaments formerly in the house of the late James Buchanan Brady and now on exhibition at the American Art Galleries furnishes abundant testimony that Mr. Brady kept his money in circulation. The catalogue contains nearly 1,800 numbers, and does not include the oil paintings, which are to be sold at a later date.

Among the art objects are a large group of Japanese, Chinese, and European ivories, realistic in style and clever in execution; also caprices in bronze, most of them cabinet specimens, by modern sculptors. The dance is represented in many forms. Carmencita is dancing with castanets, a bronze and ivory figure on an agate plinth; Lois Fuller is modeled by Louchet, and appears in gilt and tinted bronze. There is a Turkish dancer by Guillemin and a Mme. Pavlova in German porcelain, and rising far above the general standard is a Greek dancer by "Howard." A few paintings include portraits of famous racehorses.

For the rest, there are rock crystals, Wedgwood ornaments, bedroom, dining room, and drawing room furniture, elaborate tableware and table and bed linen, Oriental arms and armor, a presentation loving cup with the autographs of the theatrical managers who bestowed it, a gold theatre pass, and some odds and ends of the famous jewelry. The lover of games will find the implements of baccarat, roulette, faro, billiards, keno, and a banking crap layout. The problem of disposing of material so heterogeneous and various was difficult, and the galleries, with their dinner tables set for action, their groups of related objects, and their well-balanced centres of interest, are quite a triumph of ingenious arrangement. The sale begins Oct. 22, and the collection is on free view until that time.

BUYS AN ORR ETCHING.

France Honors American Artist Who Sketched Rheims Cathedral.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Louis Orr, painter and etcher, has been asked by M. Dalmier, Minister of Fine Arts, to sell to the State the plate of his etching of the Pont Neuf, the oldest bridge in Paris, entitled "Le Canal de la Monnaie," for the permanent possession of the Louvre. Artist's proofs of the etching are to be struck and sent to the national museums of all the nations at present in friendly diplomatic relations with France.

The French Government will print a certain number of proofs for presentation and sale to museums and art galleries. Presentation copies will go into the collection of the President of the Republic, and to four French Senators and four French Deputies, in accordance with the custom of the Louvre after it has acquired an etching.

The honor which has come to Mr. Orr was a great surprise to him. Last Spring the chief official adviser of the Ministry of Fine Arts saw his etching, "Le Canal de la Monnaie," at a Parisian dealer's and brought it to the attention of the Minister, who asked to be put in touch with the artist. The Luxemburg Museum has recently purchased six of Mr. Orr's etchings, making the number he has in that gallery eight.

Mr. Orr recently had an interesting experience at Rheims, where in August and September he had been sketching the Cathedral under German fire. The three important plates which are the chief results of his work there he has given to the American Red Cross, to be sold in America.

One day in the cathedral garden he was forced to use a gas mask. At another time he got a piece of shrapnel through the steel helmet which he always wore. Every day he was compelled to take refuge in a bomb-proof cellar when the Germans periodically bombarded the cathedral. Each morning Cardinal Luçon on his rounds to see those who had suffered in any way from the bombardment of the preceding night would stop and bless the artist as he worked at his easel.

AMAZED AT SHIP PROGRAM.

America Soon to Possess 10,000,000 Tons, Says German Paper.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 16.—Since the passage of the German Shipping bill by the Reichstag public attention has been drawn in Germany to the shipping situation in other countries.

The Tagliche Rundschau, writing of the influence of America's merchant fleet on England, calls attention to the fact that before the civil war America possessed the largest cargo fleet in the world and mentions notable sailing vessels of that time. "At the end of the civil war," it says, "the American flag had disappeared from the high seas." The paper says that after that war America forgot her shipping interests, although interior shipping developed tremendously.

The world war, the article continues, has brought America to a realization of the fact that, without a merchant fleet, she could not control exports. "Recognition of this fact," it says, "has united the two big political parties, and led to a shipping program whose magnitude leaves nothing to be desired. What appeared impossible before has become a reality. Shipbuilding has been subsidized, and in spite of high wages and the cost of building, shipping will pay where it was impossible before the war."

The paper says that not only is America building a great tonnage but that it is seizing neutral vessels and even laying hands on English and French shipping. If this continues, the prediction is made that at the end of 1918 America will possess about 10,000,000 tons and will, therefore, not be far behind England.

"The submarine war has an unexpected side," says the paper, "in that it helps America's merchant fleet to compete with England."

The paper concludes by saying that, by an irony of events, "Russia is freed from Czarism by Germany, and Germany exacts reprisals from England in behalf of America for injustice perpetrated fifty years ago. Verily America should count us first among her friends."

FILIPINOS VOICE LOYALTY.

First Act of Congress Session Is to Affirm Adherence to Our Cause.

MANILA, Oct. 17.—The Insular Congress opened today, its first act being the passage of a resolution affirming the adherence of the Filipino people to the cause of the United States in the world war.

Francis Burton Harrison, the Governor General, in his message to the Congress, urged legislation authorizing the Government to proceed with the food campaign already begun by the Administration. He asked liberal treatment of all Government employes who have been called to serve in the war. Regarding economic legislation, he suggested a postponement until the end of the war of the contemplated changes in the Philippine tariff.

Authority was asked by the Governor General to reduce the intrinsic value of silver coins and to issue peso bills. Legislation for the establishment of a Philippine mint also was requested.

The Governor General reported the Treasury to be in a most sound condition, and therefore asked Congress to make adequate appropriations, particularly for public works, education, and the promotion of health.

HIGH SCHOOL STRIKE HALTS FOR PARLEY

Students Will Present Objections to Longer Day to Board Officials.

STORMY MEETINGS KEEP ON

The expected strike of high school students did not take place yesterday because the cooler heads among the students advised waiting until Monday afternoon, when they will have a hearing at the Board of Education, where they will be able to present their objections to the lengthened school day to John Whalen, Chairman of the Committee on High Schools. The school situation, however, was not quiescent, for several hundred angry mothers, dragging their children with them, continued to hold meetings and loiter near schools in Harlem and Yorkville as a protest against the Gary duplicate school plan. One mother was arrested in the demonstration against the schools.

Charges by school officials that Socialist agitators had been sowing seeds of dissension among the children and their parents were denied by teachers, who said that the unanimity of protest against the lengthened day itself proved that the dissatisfaction was widespread and not confined to a few of the high school students who might be Socialists. A committee of teachers of the DeWitt Clinton High School drew up a brief protesting against the lengthened school day, and the document will be presented today to the Board of Education.

Conference on Gary Plan.

William Wirt, Superintendent of Schools in Gary, Ind., who was asked to install the study-play-work system in this city, was in town yesterday, but declined to make any statement on the situation. He intimated that he had made a complete statement regarding the recent attacks on the Gary schools made by speakers, including former President Thomas W. Churchill of the Board of Education, to the Public Welfare Association of the Fusion Committee, as well as to Superintendent William McAndrew, in charge of the Department of Divisional Schools of the Board of Education. Mr. Wirt conferred with the heads of the Board of Education yesterday, but no statement was made at the Board of Education as to the conference.

The Bronx was included in the agitation yesterday, for the Grand Jury continued its investigation of the Gary schools in that borough and heard Dr. Joseph Taylor, a District Superintendent, in favor of the system, Commissioner Frank D. Wilsey of the Board of Education, who is opposed to it, and Elizabeth Reed, a teacher of Public School 40, Prospect Avenue and Ritter Place, and George Wasservogel, of 1330 Franklin Avenue.

Dr. Harry Penhollow, administrative assistant to Dr. F. J. Paul, principal of De Witt Clinton High School, said yesterday that he did not believe that "thinking teachers who have the interests of the children at heart" disapprove of the lengthened school day.

"Unfortunately there is quite a sprinkling of Socialists in this school who are opposed to the Government, no matter what the rules are, and when they see a chance for free advertising they jump at it," he said.

M. Wright, assistant to Dr. John L. Tildsley, Associate City Superintendent of Schools, said it was also his belief that the Socialists were behind the agitation. This statement was objected to by several teachers in the De Witt Clinton School and by Dr. Henry J. Linville, President of the Teachers' Union, who said:

"Even some of the high school principals acknowledge that the lengthened school day is unnecessary. The school day at Boys' High School, Jamaica and Flushing, has not been lengthened beyond the usual day. As for the Socialists, the objection comes from more non-Socialist teachers than Socialists."

School Girl Harangues Crowd.

At 8:30 yesterday morning several hundred boys and girls, with their parents, congregated near Public Schools 171, 37, 72, and 109, in the Harlem and Yorkville districts, and walked to and fro past the school building, shouting and singing. The police reserves dispersed the crowd, assisted by members of the Home Defense League and teachers of the school. Soon afterward one of the school girls mounted a soapbox and harangued the children and mothers. Lieutenant Ayres of the 104th Street Police Station started a counter-demonstration by jumping on the soapbox and exhorting the children to return to school. The crowd melted away, but another outbreak occurred during the morning in front of Public School 109, on Ninety-ninth Street, near Second Avenue, and in the scrimmage that followed the police arrested Mrs. Mollie Hirschman of 234 East Ninety-ninth Street. She paid a fine of $2 imposed by Magistrate McGeehan in Harlem Court.

Thirteen children who were arrested for rioting before Public School 171, Fifth Avenue near 104th Street, on Tuesday, were arraigned yesterday before Judge Hoyt in the Children's Court. All were charged with juvenile delinquency. Five were remanded to the care of the Children's Society until Oct. 24, two boys, Alexander Hirschman and Seymour Lehman, were discharged, four were fined $2 each, one was remanded until Oct. 30 and William Adder was paroled in the custody of his parents.

Gustave Straubenmuller, Acting Superintendent of Schools, said that the educational authorities have the situation well in hand.

In their brief to the Board of Education, protesting against the lengthened school day, the committee of De Witt Clinton High School, consisting of Samuel Schmalhausen, Leonard Covello and Ludwig Kaplan, declare that the longer school day prevents teachers from pursuing graduate work, that it reduces the efficinecy of the teacher and that it is equivelant to a reduction of salary.

TAX EVASIONS $17,500,000.

Munition Makers Dodge Levy, but $10,000,000 Is Recovered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Internal revenue agents have reported that evasions of the special tax of 12½ per cent., by munitions manufacturers have totaled so far approximately $17,500,000. More than $10,000,000 of that sum has been already recovered by the Government.

The amount of tax voluntarily paid by the munitions manufacturers last year was approximately $26,300,000. Field investigators, checking the returns, notified them that in many cases the amount was far below the sum actually due the Government.

One of the methods said to have been used in returning minimum taxes was to charge off a large percentage of the value of a plant under the head of depreciation. In some cases the entire value of the plant was said to have been deducted from the profits of the concern, representations being made that at the end of the war the plants would be of no further use. The practice is said to have been quite general and to have been followed by some of the largest manufacturers.

JEWISH WAR RELIEF ASSEMBLY ON OCT. 28

1,000 DELEGATES TO ATTEND

No Money to be Solicited—Meeting Solely for Planning Great Future Work.

Felix M. Warburg, Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee of the American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers, announced last night that the Special Assembly of the Jews of America to plan the continuation of Jewish war relief and the completion of the $10,000,000 1917 fund which is to bring together about a thousand of the most prominent Jews from all parts of the United States, will be held at the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue Seventieth Street and Central Park West, on Sunday, Oct. 28.

The Trustees of this, the oldest Jewish congregation in America, in giving its consent to the use of the synagogue, broke all the traditions of its 250 years of existence in recognition of the supreme importance of the problems the assembly has been called to discuss.

Mr. Warburg further announced that invitations have been extended to Lord Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England; to Baron Ginsburg of the Russian Commission; to United States Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis, and to Julius Rosenwald of the Council of National Defense.

The meeting will be presided over by Mr. Warburg, and among the speakers will be Jacob H. Schiff, Louis Marshall, Abram I. Elkus, Herman Bernstein, who has just returned from Russia, and the Chairman of the Constituent Committee of the Joint Distribution Committee, and others.

This special assembly is expected to be the most important national gathering of Jews since the European war began, and easily the most important event to Jewry since the entry of the United States into the war. The call was issued several weeks ago by the Joint Distribution Committee, which has disbursed more than $10,000,000 for Jewish war relief, collected by its constituent committees. In explaining the purpose of the call, Mr. Warburg, Chairman of the committee, said:

"It has only been possible to collect this immense sum, unparalleled in the history of the Jews, through the cooperation of all sections of the community and the whole-souled support of every Jew in America. The responsibility of administering this large amount, the largest ever contributed to one cause by the Jews of America, and the need for continuing the campaign for raising still further large sums being self-evident, it now becomes imperative for all those who have thus far worked so successfully to come together to plan for the future."

It was particularly stated in last night's announcement that, unlike other meetings which have been held by the Jews to discuss war relief, there will be no collections or money solicited at the assembly, which is to be solely for the purpose of planning for the future.

BRIDAL PAIR WALK ON CARPET OF SHAVINGS

Frank A. O'Hare, Builder, and Miss Carolyn Maguire Wed in Unfinished Church.

Miss Carolyn Maguire of 209 West 108th Street and Frank A. O'Hare were married yesterday forenoon in the new Church of St. Vincent Ferrer, Lexington Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street, of which the bridegroom is chief of construction.

The church is still in an unfinished state, and a special dispensation was obtained from Cardinal Farley for the ceremony. Three hundred guests attended the wedding. The bridal pair walked on a carpet of wood shavings, with the bare and unpainted beams in the roof as their canopy. The Rev. E. J. Deevy, assisted by Father Hefferman, officiated.

A breakfast followed at the Hotel Majestic, where the bridal couple made an ineffective attempt to escape their friends and the usual shower of rice, resulting in a chase that led over several floors of the hotel, while friendly sentinels guarded every door and every taxicab in the neighborhood.

MISS EDITH BOURNE TO WED.

Engaged to John Esten Bolling, a Nephew of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

The engagement of Miss Edith Marion Bourne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griswold Bourne of 25 East Thirtieth Street, to John Esten Bolling of Chicago, has been announced. Miss Bourne was a debutante of last season. Mr. Bolling is a nephew of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President, and is a graduate of the University of Kentucky.

Miss Bourne is visiting at the home of Mr. Bolling's parents, Dr. and Mrs. William A. Bolling, in Louisville, Ky. Mr. Bolling is connected with the Drying Systems, Inc., in Chicago as chief engineer, the plant having been placed at the disposal of the Government for the conservation of the food supply.

No date has been set for the wedding.

MISS ANNA SCHAEFER WEDS.

The wedding of Miss Anna Amelia Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Schaefer of 8 East Eighty-second Street, and Arthur C. Knolhoff, son of Mrs. J. W. Knolhoff of East Orange, N. J., was celebrated yesterday afternoon at St. James Lutheran Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-third Street. The Rev. Junius B. Remensnyder performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was in white satin and rose point lace, with a point lace veil and full court train, was attended by Miss Marguerite R. Schaefer, her younger sister, as maid of honor, who was in Nile green satin with net over silver lace. Mrs. Frederick K. Mohr, another sister, and Mrs. Frank L. Boynton, the other attendants, were dressed in orchid colored satin and silver.

F. W. Knolhoff was best man, and the ushers included Jean C. Caldwell, Samuel D. Hollis, John C. B. Orth, Christopher D. Robert and Daniel R. Robert, all of this city, and Frederick K. Mohr of Ardmore, Pa.

Posner-Weil.

Miss Florine Rosalie Weil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Weil, of 19 West Seventy-fourth Street, was married to Edwin Posner last evening in the ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton, the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman officiating. Miss Evelyn Weil was her sister's only attendant, and David R. Posner was best man. The ceremony was followed by a dinner.

REGIMENT IN CAMP SEES PRIVATE WED

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 17.—With the regiment gathered about, Miss Iza H. Peeke of Devonshire, England, was married to Mechanic H. B. De Vol, Company 1, 107th Infantry, in the old Seventh's camp, at noon today. This, the first field wedding in camp, was solemnized by the former Seventh's Chaplain, Major William E. McCord, whose wife acted as one of the witnesses. The bride was given away by Colonel Willard C. Fiske. The altar was erected at the head of Company I Street. When the knot had been tied, De Vol's company mates showered the pair with "issued" rice, thereby removing rice-pudding from Company I's menu for a week. De Vol obtained a furlough. The couple left for a five-day honeymoon in Asheville, N. C.

Colonel George A. Wingate, commander of the Second Field Artillery, said today that he had not yet submitted to Brig. Gen. Charles L. Phillips his findings on the charge lodged against Captain Howard E. Sullivan, Battery D, by Private Otto Gottschalk, who alleges that the Captain had him beaten. Colonel Wingate said he wanted to give at least another day's study to the matter.

Friends of Captain Sullivan declared that he expected to prove he had not witnessed the alleged whipping. They said that although the Captain, irritated by what they called Gottschalk's refusal to keep himself clean, had told several non-commissioned officers to give him a ducking, he had not instructed them to roll him in mud or whip him. Pending official action, all concerned in the affair continued on active duty.

Captain F. M. Young, Liberty Loan promoter, said the camp had contributed $687,750, the Fourteenth Infantry leading with $138,050. The 108th (old Third) and the Fifteenth took $45,300 and $43,700 respectively. To stimulate the campaign in Spartanburg about 10,000 soldiers will parade through the streets tomorrow.

Lieut. Col. Frank H. Hines, Second Field Artillery, has been promoted to Colonel and assigned to command the Third Field Artillery. He takes the place of Colonel Daniel Hand, assigned to the national army.

WEDS JAMES M. BECK, JR.

Miss Adelaide Wilmerding the Bride of Princeton Aviator.

The wedding of James M. Beck, Jr., son of former Assistant United States Attorney General Beck and Mrs. Beck, and Miss Adelaide Wilmerding, the daughter of Theodore Kearney Wilmerding, and the late Nina Ferris Wilmerding, was quietly solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternon in the Chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church, the rector, the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, performing the ceremony.

Miss Wilmerding, who walked with her father, wore for a bride an unusual costume of black charmeuse satin combined with black chiffon, a short afternoon gown with a bustle drapery at the back and long transparent chiffon sleeves. It was topped by a large rose red hat having a soft black crown with ostrich flues as a trimming. She wore a sable neckpiece and carried lilies of the valley with showers of white ribbons and was unattended.

There were no ushers, but the bridegroom's cousin, J. Hutchison Scott, Jr., of Philadelphia, was his best man. A small reception followed at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Floyd-Jones, 15 West Fifty-fifth Street.

Mr. Beck has been ordered to report at San Antonio, Texas, on Saturday for duty with the Signal Corps of the Aviation Section of the army and will take his bride with him, leaving today. He was graduated from Princeton in 1914. Mrs. Beck is a member of the Junior League.

Major Bishop Marries.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—A war wedding took place here this afternoon when Canada's aviation hero, Major William A. Bishop, honored with the Victoria Cross and other emblems of gallantry earned above the battlefields of France, was married to Margaret Eaton Burden, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Burden of this city. Army and aviation officers made up a guard of honor, and the presence of nurses added to the military aspect.

Holman-Spencer.

The marriage of Morris Chapman Holman and Miss Dorothy Spencer, a daughter of Mrs. Frederick Spencer of 73 West Eighty-ninth Street, took place at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the Church of the Transfiguration, the Rev. Dr. George Clarke Houghton officiating. Miss Spencer was attended as maid of honor by Miss Orie Holman, a sister of the bridegroom, and Frederick Spencer, a brother of the bride, was Mr. Holman's best man. There were no ushers. On their return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Holman will live at 400 West 160th Street.

Miss Amy R. Reick Weds Saturday.

The marriage of Miss Amy Ridgeway Reick, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Reick of New York, and Seabright, N. J., and Chandler Bates, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Bates, will take place Saturday in St. George's Church at Seabright, and a small reception will be held at The Orchard, the Reick country place in Rumson Park. The wedding is to be quiet, owing to Mr. Bates being in mourning.

Celebrate Their Silver Wedding.

Aubrey E. Meyer, President of the Champlain Silk Mills, and Mrs. Meyer of Whitehall, N. Y., celebrated yesterday their silver wedding by giving a dinner at the St. Regis to the members of their family. Their son, Aubrey E. Meyer, Jr., is at the French front serving in the English Army.

Edward D. Floyd.

Edward D. Floyd, member of the firm of Chandler & Floyd of 90 West Street, Manhattan, Eastern representatives of the Alleghany Steel Company, died yesterday at his home, 405 Elm Street, Westfield, N. J., of apoplexy, in his fifty-second year.

Mr. Floyd was formerly associated with the General Electric Company of Schenectady. He was a member of the Westfield Golf, Baltusrol Golf, Pittsburgh Athletic, and Schenectady Clubs and the Engineers' Club of New York.

Throng at Florence La Badie's Bier.

The Funeral Church, at Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street, was filled yesterday morning with people of the moving-picture industry, who came to attend the funeral services for Florence La Badie, the actress, who died on Saturday in Ossining. There were a large number of floral pieces from friends in the profession and the motion-picture companies, and several hundred persons viewed the body before it was taken for interment to Greenwood Cemetery.

Charles Yale Beach.

Charles Yale Beach, eldest son of the late Moses Y. Beach, one time proprietor of The New York Sun, died on Tuesday at Atlantic City in his seventy-first year. He was born and educated in New York, and later went to Bridgeport, Conn., and made his home in that city up to the time of his death. He left a widow and three sisters.

TWO MEN ARRESTED FOR STOCKYARDS FIRE

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 17.—Almost simultaneously with the first arrest here in connection with the stock yards fire, it was learned that a man suspected of complicity in the plot had been taken in custody by Government agents in Oklahoma City. It is reported the man was secretly removed from Oklahoma by Government operatives.

The man arrested here, a German, formerly in the employ of the Kansas City Stock Yards Company, had already supplied the name of a second man believed to have been implicated in the fire. It was this man, he said, he was trying to find and tell to leave town when detectives arrested him.

It was learned yesterday that notice had been sent out by local authorities that two men were seen in the vicinity of the stock yards, and police in different cities were notified to look out for them. The name of a third person was supplied to Larry Ghent, Chief of Detectives, this afternoon by the man now held at Police Headquarters.

Asked why he was attempting to get word to one man to leave town, the prisoner told Chief Ghent that it was because a third man had requested him to do so. It was then that the third name was supplied. Detectives place little confidence in some of the man's statements.

The man denied that he had any knowledge of the fire other than what had been told to him. He could not tell where the other men could be found. The German was arrested by private detectives, who charged that the man said recently that the stock yards should be burned.

ESCAPES FROM KIEL CAMP.

Interned Americans Would Starve but for Outside Aid, Says Smith.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Ira Nelson Morris, American Minister at Stockholm, cabled the State Department today news of the arrival there of Willot Charles Smith of Norwalk, Conn., who escaped from a German internment camp at Kiel and brought word that American prisoners in Germany would starve but for food sent to them by the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A.

Smith was a horseman on the British steamer Esmeralda, captured by the German raider Moewe, and was carried into Germany just before the United States broke diplomatic relations with the Kaiser. No details concerning his escape were given by the Minister.

"Smith stated," said a State Department statement announcing the escape, "that without the food packages sent by the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross prisoners would not be able to live, as the daily food ration consists of a slice of black, sour bread and a drink of cold coffee for breakfast, and for dinner and supper about a pint and a half of warm soup, apparently consisting of water and turnips."

MRS. THOS. F. RYAN DEAD

Financier's Wife, a Philanthropist, Dies at Suffern Country Home.

Mrs. Thomas Fortune Ryan, wife of the financier, died at midnight last night of heart disease at her country home at Suffern, N. Y. Mrs. Ryan was taken suddenly ill at noon. Her husband and her son Allan were at her bedside at her death.

Mrs. Ryan was Miss Ida M. Barry of Baltimore. She married Mr. Ryan on Nov. 25, 1873. Mrs. Ryan dispensed large sums in charities that report says reached over $1,000,000 in 1907.

In addition to her charitable works in and around New York, Mrs. Ryan gave vast sums to Catholic institutions in the South. Among them, she built the Cathedral at Richmond, Va., at a cost of more than $1,000,000; Ryan Hall, Georgetown University; convent and chapel of the Perpetual Adoration, at Washington, D. C., when she established the order in the United States in 1900; hospital at Suffern, N. Y., and hospital annex for Sisters of Charity, New York. York.

She aided in the re-establishment of the Consumptives Hospital at Phoenix, Ariz.; chapel at Tucson, Ariz.; founded nine scholarships for poor boys, of which three were in Rome, Italy, and erected monuments to mark all Virginia's battlefields.

Mrs. Ryan never gave her name to public subscriptions, and whenever she donated a sum of money to a deserving charity it was on the condition that she should not be mentioned.

Besides her husband she is survived by her five sons.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Start Down Again, but Rally—Expect Relief for Railways.

Prices moved irregularly yesterday, but the close found many active securities higher by from 2 to 4 points than they were at the end of Tuesday's session. While the volume of dealings was smaller, it was large enough to indicate that liquidation is still proceeding on a large scale. The decline got under way again in the middle of the day, but was quickly halted, and in numerous instances stocks made up their early losses before 3 o'clock.

The Street is once more beginning to hope that the Interstate Commerce Commission will grant a substantial increase in freight rates. Such a development would prove particularly helpful at this time. The commission let it be known yesterday that it was prepared to facilitate matters as far as possible, and suggested to the railroad executives that they apply for a reopening of the 15 per cent. case as a short cut to the introduction of new evidence of declining railway prosperity. The two greatest factors in the current depression are the threatened ill effects of the new war taxes and the inability of the railroads to make a showing on present rates that justifies them in asking for additional credit among investors. The fundamental mistake made in the new revenue legislation of levying taxes on all business profits instead of differentiating between normal and war gains is working against the Government loan and against the stimulation of the country's productive capacity. A case in point came to light yesterday that typifies the injustice of the new law against which so many complaints are being made. A concern which is operated on a nominal capital of $100,000 earned an average of $200,000 a year before the war, but its business has been hurt by the war, and the current year will show profits of only half that amount. Nevertheless, this company will be heavily penalized because its profits amount to 100 per cent. of its capital, and the management must curtail operations to provide money for the new taxes.

As for the railroads, they are approaching another Winter with track and rolling stock much below average condition of maintenance, yet with no prospect of any abatement in the flood of traffic they must carry away. Favorable and early action by the commission upon the reopening of the rate case would have a beneficial effect which would be much further reaching than immediate improvement in the railroads' credit.

Steel got down to 100⅞ yesterday, but easily rallied to 102¼. Bethlehem B ranged from 74⅞ down to 71, closing off 1⅛. The copper stocks were weak, Kennecott losing 1⅛, Anaconda 1, and Utah 3¾. The weakness in tobacco issues was again prominent, United Cigar Stores losing 2¼ and Tobacco Products 1¼, the preferred stock of the latter selling off 6¾. On the whole, traders were pleased at the way the rally which followed the slump on Monday held in the face of fresh selling orders yesterday.

LONDON MARKET IS FIRM.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The stock market was firm today with the war loan and gilt-edged securities in good demand. Continued strength and activity in industrials, bank shares, and South African mines were the principal features. Russian issues showed no recovery, but the leading American shares improved in sympathy with Wall Street.

Money was in better supply owing to maturing Treasury bills. Discount rates were quiet.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 61 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 18 centimes. Five per cent. loan 88 francs 50 centimes.

Extra Dividend by Illinois Central.

Directors of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, in advance of the annual meeting of stockholders, held in Chicago, declared yesterday an extra dividend of 1 per cent. for the current quarter, in addition to the regular quarterly divident of 1½ per cent. Both dividends are payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record at the close of business Nov. 5. At the meeting of stockholders it was decided to change the date of the annual meeting to the third Wednesday in April, and Directors whose terms of office expired yesterday will hold over until then.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Matter of Encouragement.

News from steel and iron trade centres that buying of pig iron on the new price basis is expanding rapidly is the most satisfactory development in the industry since the first prices were fixed. It speaks well for the realization of the country's full expectations of the industry—that operations in all lines necessary to the completion of the war and shipping program be maintained at the highest level. If pig iron, the basic commodity, begins to move out rapidly from the furnaces, it is axiomatic that the semi-finished and finished steel products will be turned out at a faster rate than in recent weeks.

An over-night accumulation of buying orders to be filled at the start of business or soon after imparted an appearance of strength to the stock list yesterday which aroused many hopes in the first half hour. The movement had no more than gotten well under way, however, before bearish pressure became pronounced in the copper shares and certain of the industrials. The selling bore earmarks of short operations, which one part of the financial community would like to see restricted at this time and the other part can find no fault with. Whether short selling or liquidation of long stock was the dominant factor, stocks quickly showed that the buying power beneath the surface was far less persistent than on Tuesday, a development which brought much disappointment to traders who bought on Tuesday with the expectation of turning in a satisfactory profit before the end of the week.

Distillers Securities Bid Up.

So desirous were traders of buying Distillers Securities at the opening that the first sale at 35½ was a full point above the closing quotation the day before. Thereafter this stock paid no attention to the retreat in other directions, but moved forward for a net gain of 5⅝ points on top of a rise of 2½ points in the preceding session. The commission houses heard many rumored explanations for the upward surge, including a hurried retreat of shorts, excellent earnings, and last, but by no means least in effect, the formation of a big pool committed to a substantial uplifting of the price before seeking to take profits.

Get the Other Fellow, Too.

Aesop's fable of the fox that lost its tail is being exemplified these days in the attitude of a number of big shipping men. Their business being the one most immediately in line with the country's war program has been the most completely nationalized of all. Where the Government has been content in other industries with fixing prices, in the case of the Shipping Board it has commandeered virtually the whole plant, and apparently intends to keep the original owners operating their own ships, merely as its agents, and paying over at least 90 per cent. of the profits into the United States Treasury. Consequently, the shipping men, rubbing the sore spots in their pocketbooks, are beginning audibly to wonder why the Government doesn't also take over the railroads and mines and oil wells. You can hear plenty of State-socialistic talk these days on the Maritime Exchange.

Shipping Profits.

As a matter of fact, there is no indication that the shipping industry is going to suffer or that individual initiative is going to be crushed out of it by the Government's program, whether the operating fee which owners receive for running their own ships for Government account is 10 per cent., for which the owners themselves are "rooting," or only 5, which some privately consider more likely. In either case they will receive the full time-charter rate for their ships, which was fixed some time ago by the Shipping Board, and which is generally admitted to be very fair—before the war it would have been thought a bonanza. With even 5 per cent. operating fee or loading commissions on top of this, the shipping men's initial dose of "State socialism" has not left them badly off.

British Steel Suggestion.

British steelmakers, with an eye to market conditions in the future, are considering ways to reduce costs and get the most efficiency out of existing plants. At a recent meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute in London, the following suggestion, according to The Times of London, was presented by a committee which had studied the manufacturing situation: "The opinion is expressed (in replies to queries sent out by the committee) that if the steel trade of Britain is to hold its own in open competition with other steel-producing countries of the world it will be necessary, among other things, to have a central board to which all orders will go, and from whence the work will be allocated to the different works according to their ability to do it. This would save the enormous amounts of capital locked up in rolls. Many mills have rolls for practically all the British standard sections, and change the rolls as required to suit orders. If, on the other hand, the orders were sent from a central board, mills could be kept on work allocated to them for long periods, thus reducing the amount of roll changing and also the cost of production."

London Taxicab Rates.

New Yorkers may grin sickly grins when they learn that Londoners at present are kicking vociferously because they have to pay taxicab rates of a shilling for the first mile and twopence for each additional quarter of a mile, these rates having been ordered by the Home Secretary. A shilling at normal exchange is worth 24.3 cents. Hitherto, even in wartime, and with high prices, it has been possible to ride a mile in a London taxicab for eightpence. And here in New York 30 cents a mile was considered an amazingly low rate when a company had the audacity to introduce it!

DIVIDEND RATE INCREASED.

Cities Service Company Puts Common Stock on 9 Per Cent. Basis.

Directors of the Cities Service Company increased the rate of the stock dividend on the common stock yesterday from a 6 to a 9 per cent. annual basis. The company has been distributing stock in the form of dividends for some time in periodic payments. The usual monthly dividend of one-half of 1 per cent. in cash was declared, payable Jan. 1 to shareholders of record Dec. 15, and arrangement was made to make a similar distribution on Feb. 1.

September net earnings amounted to $1,506,373, against $700,523 in the same month last year. In the twelve months ended Sept. 30 the net income applicable to common stock dividends and reserves was $14,287,975, compared with $4,968,368 in the same period of 1916. The Directors yesterday took no action on the proposal to list the stocks on the Stock Exchange and to reduce the par value.

The Birth of American Thrift

The United States Senate has published as a public document a study entitled "The Birth of American Thrift."

Based on the experience of the first Liberty Loan campaign, when millions of subscribers on the Partial Payment Plan helped not only their Government by providing war funds but also themselves in adopting a habit of saving, it tells clearly how subscriptions can be paid for out of future earnings.

We have a small supply of these pamphlets which we are ready to distribute to those contemplating a Partial Payment Liberty Loan subscription.

STEEL TRADE BEGINS TO REGAIN IMPETUS

EXPECT WIRE PRICES SOON

It Is Estimated That the Government Will Require 3,000,000 Tons of Shell Bars.

The outstanding feature of the steel and iron trade this week has been the heavy increase in the buying of pig iron at the fixed Government price of $33 a ton. Reports from various centres of the iron industry indicate that several hundred thousand tons of foundry iron have been sold this week and last, whereas for a long period after the price was fixed consumers held off and business fell to a small figure.

In regard to the price-fixing program. The Iron Age says:

"Just when additional maximum figures will be settled on is not clear, but it is likely, now that ratios have been established for conversion differences between raw materials and semi-finished products and between the latter and finished forms, that further Government prices will be arrived at without requiring general sessions in Washington between the War Industries Board and the producers. Whatever the basis of the adverse criticism already developing, the underlying object in the price-fixing seems clear—to secure a condition which will bring out 100 per cent. production.

"On high authority it is intimated that the industry is expected to adjust itself to the new base prices, particularly in the matter of adopting usual trade practices without specific announcements in this regard. It is not clear as yet, however, that producers are expected to take any initiative in revising prices of major commodities not yet covered. Approximations as to what they may be, discounting special conditions, may be ascertained by comparing the new prices with the average of those for the years 1911 to 1914, inclusive, the four-year period before the war demands developed. The producers have used quotations of The Iron Age for this interval as the basis of their figures in deliberating with the War Industries Board.

"Before the end of the week, the base for wire will probably be fixed. A figure a little above the mean between the quotation of the largest maker and the higher one of the others would harmonize with the rest of the new prices."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Now that shell-bar prices have been determined, the Government is proceeding to make tremendous distribution of its requirements in this line. It is estimated reliably that such matters upon which action now is being taken will call for from 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 tons. For the navy 1,000,000 tons, consisting chiefly of plates and shell steel, is in sight. The open requirements of the Emergency Fleet Corporation are placed at 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 tons. Selling of pig iron at the new prices has gone far ahead of steel."

FINANCIAL NOTES.

James H. Oliphant & Co. have prepared and will soon issue a pamphlet containing a very full analysis of the effect of three years of war on British investment securities, with tables showing the fluctuations in prices of each class of security.

Frank D. Potter of Pouch & Co. has been elected President of the General Ordnance Company, succeeding A. J. Stone, now a Lieutenant Commander in the navy.

Directors of the Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., declared yesterday an initial semi-annual dividend of 3½ per cent. on the preferred stock, payable Oct. 31 to stock of record Oct. 24.

J. P. Morgan & Co. have notified holders of trust certificates for preferred stock of the Southern Railway Company that their certificates may be exchanged on presentation at the Morgan offices for definitive stock certificates at any time before Oct. 31. The voting trust expired three years ago, and this action is now taken to assure payment of the recently declared dividend to the rightful owners.

President Clarence M. Woolley of the American Radiator Company has been elected a trustee of the New York Trust Company.

Formal application of the Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia to join the Federal Reserve Bank system has been filed with the Federal Reserve Bank.

Clarence M. Woolley, President of the American Radiator Company, has been elected a Trustee of the New York Trust Company.

The Lima Locomotive Company has declared an initial dividend of 3½ per cent. on the preferred stock.

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Philadelphia Electric Company the plan for the exchange of stock of the New Jersey Company to the Pennsylvania Company was adopted.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Advices from abroad seem quite confident regarding the question of food supplies. Broomhall estimates that North America will have an exportable surplus of 400,000,000 bushels of wheat, Australia will have about 120,000,000 bushels, India has large reserves, and the coming Argentina crop promises a surplus of about 144,000,000 bushels. The problem abroad therefore is one of transportation, which, however, is a serious one, and makes America the most accessible market. The movement here continues rather discouraging. More talk is heard of bringing wheat to the Pacific Coast from Australia, and this may simplify the matter of moving the crop from that country, and liberate more wheat for shipment from the last American crop.

CORN.

Price changes in the corn market appeared to be due more to technical conditions than to any real change in the situation at large. Early the undertone was distinctly weak and prices were on the down grade under continued selling on the part of commission houses. Toward the close, however, the market developed a firmer tone, with active buying by early sellers, and final quotations were at the top, with net gains of ⅜c to 1c. Europe is looking forward to increased offers from America, and, should exporters take the buying side, sentiment might very readily take a bullish turn. Peace rumors had comparatively little influence on the market. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.02 and No. 2 mixed at $2, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The cash proposition in oats again showed firmness, and, after experiencing a moderate early decline, prices rallied and closed firm, with net gains of ⅛c to ⅜c. Exporters took about 300,000 bushels. Reports from the West complained of export embargoes checking the eastward movement and receipts at primary points, while fair, continue to run behind last year. The local cash market was steady; standard quoted at 66½c; No. 2 white, 67c; No. 3 white, 65½@66c; No. 4 white, 65@65½; fancy clipped white, 67@69c; ordinary clipped white, 65½@67c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was very weak early under selling by leading interests prompted by a larger run of hogs and weakness in the hog market. On the decline, however, shorts bought quite freely and this together with the late rally in corn brought about a partial recovery and closing prices were steady. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 27,000; estimated for Thursday, 22,000; Kansas City received 5,000 and Omaha, 4,200 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Trading operations in the market for cottonseed oil were of very limited proportions, owing to the restrictions which exclude all speculation and which limit trading to hedging in the near positions and to closing out of old contracts in the late months. In the absence of business price changes were irregular, closing unchanged to 10 points lower. Total sales were 1,400 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

There was further liquidation in the coffee market yesterday and heavy switching from December to the later months. This included exchanges of December for September at 73 points, and December for May at 40 points, while December was exchanged for July at 58 points. Prices opened 2 points lower to 2 points higher, with late months relatively steady, but eased off, closing at a net decline of 4 to 8 points. SUGAR.

There were no new developments in the market for raw sugar, holders not being willing at present to offer sugars at refiners' maximum bid of 5¾c, cost and freight, equal to 6.90c, duty paid, and consequently there were no transactions, and the market ruled very quiet. Refined sugar was without special feature, Howell's and the American filling old orders at 8.35c, but taking on very little new business. Warner and the Federal continued withdrawn, and Arbuckle was practically withdrawn, their leading grades being exhausted. As yet there is no relief in sight, and the situation continues acute. Spot prices for raw sugar are nominal, based on last sales, as follows: Centrifugal, 6.90c; molasses, 6.02c; cost and freight, 5¼c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 10,368 packages. Under continued pressure to sell and very limited buying interest, prices further declined about ½c on all grades of creamery, and the market is still unsettled. Renovated a little easier. Ladles and packing stock more in buyers' favor. Creamery higher than extras, per lb., 44@44½c; extras, (92 score,) 43½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 42@43c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 40½@41½c; thirds, 40c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 45@46½c; extras, 44@44½c; firsts, 42@43½c; seconds, 41½@42½c; creamery, held, higher scoring than extras, 43½@44c; extras, 43½c; firsts, 42@43c; seconds, 40½@41½c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 43c; good to prime, 41@42½c; common to fair, 38½@40½c; renovated, extras, 42c; firsts, 41@41½c; lower grades, 38½@40½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 40@41c; ladles, current make, firsts, 38@39½c; seconds, 38@38½c; lower grades, 36½@37½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 38@38½c; No. 2, 37½c; lower grades, 35@37c.

EGGS.—Receipts, 10,971 cases. The market is still generally quiet. Very high grade fresh gathered have a fair inquiry, and these are in light supply and fairly firm. Medium and lower grades of fresh are moving slowly and still in considerable accumulation. Storage eggs dull and in buyers' favor under increased pressure to sell. Nearby whites of fancy quality scarce and firm; mixed and lower grades quiet and irregular. Nearby poultry by express very slow sale and prices weaker and irregular. Fresh gathered extras, per dozen, 45@46c; extra firsts, 43@44½c; firsts, 40@42c; seconds, 37½@39c; thirds and poorer, 35@37c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 36@36½c; No. 2 and poorer 30@35½c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 33@34c; under grades, 30@32c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 37½@38c; firsts, storage and insurance paid, 36@37c; seconds, storage and insurance paid, 35@35½c; lower grades, storage and insurance paid, 33@34½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 62@68c; ordinary to good, 50@60c; gathered whites, poor to fine, 40@62c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby whites, pullets, 40@50c, Western and Southern, gathered whites, 42@50c State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 48@54c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 41@46c.

THE COTTON MARKET

Finish Steady, Off 2 to 18 Points Net After Unusually Nervous Day.

No very marked tendency in either direction manifested itself in the cotton market yesterday. The influence of last week's highly unfavorable weather reports and killing frosts appeared to have spent itself, and though the market was far from dull—on the contrary, if anything more than usually nervous and irritable—no features appeared during the day to produce more than a temporary effect. An opening decline was followed by an advance which carried December and January contracts up to new high records for the season, but this promptly brought out heavy and general realizing, under which January, after selling at 27.30c, closed at 26.93c. The finish was steady, off 2 to 18 points net.

There was Southern selling at the opening, but after starting at a decline of 2 to 12 points, active months sold about 15 to 20 points net lower. Reports that Germany was threatening to extend her submarine operations to the Atlantic coast attracted some attention, and probably helped to unsettle sentiment. Offerings were readily absorbed on the decline, however, the feature being the continued active buying of trade interests. This was again accompanied by reports that spinners were calling cotton or fixing prices, and seemed to take so many contracts out of the market that prices worked up rapidly as soon as the buying broadened. December sold up to 27.65c, and October to 28.07c, with the general list showing net advances of 17 to 35 points during the early afternoon. Demand from trade sources then appeared to be subsiding, which stimulated the realizing of speculative longs, with December selling off to 27.17c in the late trading. The close was a few points up from the lowest on covering.

Apprehensions of another cold snap in the Southwest were partly responsible for the forenoon advance, and there was also buying on the report of a Memphis authority estimating frost damage at fully half a million bales. Some of the private estimates now reaching the ring from Southern sources placed the crop at slightly under 11,000,000 bales excluding linters. Bullish Southern spot advices figured on the forenoon advance, but there was one report from Texas of an easier basis. A number of the reports coming in from Eastern belt sections say there is increased competition owing to the arrival of buyers there from the Southwest. Exports for the day were 38,800 bales, making 1,097,763 so far this season, against 1,318,562 last year. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to 50 points higher.

GOULD QUITS RAILROAD.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Western Maryland Railway Company today George J. Gould, who has been a Director of the road ever since the Fuller Syndicate purchased the property, over fourteen years ago, retired from the board. He was succeeded by John N. Willys, President of the Willys-Overland Company.

The resignation of Mr. Gould marks the passing of the influence of the Gould interests in the affairs of the Western Maryland. Until the Rockefellers gained control some years ago, George J. Gould and his associates were the dominating factors, and it was said to be their dream to establish a coast-to-coast system.

Disaster overtook some of the properties to be included in the scheme, however, including the Western Maryland. The latter went into the hands of receivers, and did not emerge until 1909. After that the control of the Goulds began to wane until their allied interests gradually severed all connection with the road.

The creation of an authorized general refunding mortgage of $150,000,000 voted for the issuance of $5,000,000 7 per cent. three-year notes to be dated Nov. 1, 1917.

REORGANIZATION
Fellsmere Farms Company

TO THE HOLDERS OF
Certificates of Deposit of Guaranty Trust Company of New York for first mortgage six per cent. gold bonds deposited under protective agreement dated July 14, 1916.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Committee acting under the said Agreement of July 14, 1916, has prepared and adopted a Plan and Agreement of Reorganization of FELLSMERE FARMS COMPANY, and has caused a copy of said Plan and Agreement to be filed with Guaranty Trust Company of New York, the Depositary under said Agreement of July 14, 1916.

The transfer books for the above mentioned Certificates of Deposit will be closed at three p. m. on the 18th day of October, 1917, and will remain closed until the 2nd day of November, 1917.

The property of FELLSMERE FARMS COMPANY is about to be sold under foreclosure of a mortgage given to secure an outstanding issue of $330,000 of the above bonds, all of which have been deposited under said agreement of July 14, 1916. The Plan contemplates the purchase of the property of Fellsmere Farms Company at the foreclosure sale, and the organization of a New Company for that purpose, with a working capital of $100,000. To secure the working capital the New Company will make an issue of Five Year 7% Unsecured Gold Notes, bearing interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum, payable semi-annually. By said Plan the registered holders of the above Certificates of Deposit are permitted to subscribe to the Notes of the New Company to the extent, and upon the terms and conditions therein specified, by subscribing therefor on or before October 25, 1917, and paying therefor as follows:

10% December 15, 1917
10% January 15, 1918
20% February 15, 1918

The balance on or after February 15, 1918, at intervals of not less than thirty days, in amounts not exceeding 20% on any one call, and in each case upon thirty days' notice, but no call shall be made on account of subscriptions after December 31, 1918.

Under the terms of the Plan each Subscriber to Notes of the New Company of the par value of $300 will receive stock of the New Company of the par value of $1,500. All payments must be made promptly at the office of Guaranty Trust Company of New York in the City of New York, and temporary receipts will be issued for payments pending the delivery of the permanent securities.

Copies of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization and forms of Subscriptions can be had on application to the Depositary, or to the Secretary of the Committee.

ROADS AGAIN MOVE FOR HIGHER RATES

Commission Notified That Eastern Lines Soon Will Seek General Increase.

ASK TEMPORARY RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Eastern railroads are preparing to place before the Interstate Commerce Commission a program to provide general relief from their financial difficulties. Executives of the roads so notified the commission today when they appeared in connection with proposed increased rates on a long list of commodities not included in the raise granted in the 15 per cent. rate advance case last June. What form the railroads' program would take was not disclosed, although it was broadly intimated that the commission would be asked to authorize a general rate advance.

Notification of the roads' intention was incidental to a conference of the commission, the roads, shippers, State Railway Commissioners and other interested parties at which the question of specific advances was taken up. The broad features of the whole rate revision program remained in the background. Discussion centred almost wholly on the technicalities of procedure involved in obtaining what the roads characterized as temporary relief.

This temporary relief, the commission was told, was desired in the form of increased rates on a long list of commodities, chief of which are livestock, dressed meats, petroleum, grain and grain products, sand, stone, cement and copper. The proposed increases would apply to traffic east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio River. They would not affect, except indirectly and by combination, rates in other sections of the country.

Seek Temporary Relief Now.

"It is the opinion of the gentlemen I represent," said George Stuart Patterson, spokesman for the roads, "that any relief which will be secured from permitting increases in rates on these commodities will be only temporary relief and that it is only a question of a short time when the needs of the Eastern carriers will be brought to the attention of the commission in a much more general and more specific way than is contemplated in these particular tariffs."

After the commission disposed last June of the 15 per cent. case, the railroads in many instances promptly filed individual tariffs, proposing virtually the same increases that had been denied. The docket has many such applications, and a number of proposed tariffs are under suspension.

Commissioner McChord, seeking to shorten the way to disposition of the railroads' request, suggested today that it might be well for the roads to apply for a re-opening af the 15 per cent. case, but withdrew the suggestion upon learning of the number of pending cases which would be affected by such a course.

Chairman Hall of the commission suggested at the close of the hearing that the roads notify the commission formally of what they desired in the way of temporary increases, and said that the commission would confer over methods of procedure suggested by the roads and communicate its decision to the carriers.

Representatives of shippers asked that they also be notified of further developments in the case. Chairman Hall told them it would be done.

Commission in Divisions.

Under authority recently granted by Congress the commission today divided itself into three sections to facilitate the work of disposing of its ever-growing docket. The first division, consisting of Commissioners McChord, Meyer, and Aitchison, will be charged with the work of the Bureau of Valuation, "other than considering and deciding proceedings relating to the valuation of carriers' property." Division No. 2, consisting of Commissioners Clark, Daniels, and Woolley, is charged with action upon certain rate applications and requests for suspensions, the transportation of explosives and dangerous articles, and tariffs carrying released rates. Commissioners Harlan, Hall, and Anderson, constituting the third division, are charged with disposition of all Board of Review cases which have been submitted, "and those not hereafter orally argued before the commission or any division thereof."

All three divisions will alternate in hearing cases set for argument, each division hearing arguments for one month.

VOTE NO ON PRICE CONTROL.

Fifty Business Men Meet to Discuss Referendum on War Policy.

Fifty business men attended a meeting held yesterday at the Merchants' Association rooms to take action on the referendum being conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to arquaint Congress with the national sentiment regarding price fixing. Of those present twenty-eight voted against price control, one voted for it and four cast "neutral" votes.

The vote was taken after several addresses had been delivered. C. C. Harris, Treasurer of George D. Harris & Co., coal dealers, asserted that 15,000 coal miners in Illinois had become idle since the Administration began fixing the price of the fuel, and that the output of coal in the country this month was more than 3,000,000 tons less than normal.

J. Howard Cowperthwait of Cowperthwait & Sons, furniture, asserted that if "it were not considered unpatriotic" he would say that "price control could not succeed." He took the price of milk as an illustration, and said that if the price should be fixed at ten cents a quart less milk would come to the city, and dairymen would slaughter their cows.

Charles Thaddeus Terry, a lawyer, a member of the State Commission on Uniform State Laws, said that price fixing was a mistake. The Sherman law and the Clayton act forbid agreements to fix conditions and prices. These laws were intended to support commercial morality, he said, and to protect the interests of the consumer. If the fixing of prices was wrong under these acts, it was wrong, he argued, in any case, even in the face of war.

Charles F. Droste, dealer in butter and eggs, said he had just received a letter from Liverpool saying that control had worked so well over there with respect to butter and cheese that there was none left to control.

R. H. Johnston of the White Automobile Company presided. "I think we will all admit," said Mr. Johnston, "that if you fix the price of one commodity you must fix the price of all."

The vote does not bind the Merchants' Association unless ratified by the Directors at a meeting to be held soon. The association has ten votes in the National Chamber, but can decline to cast them at all if it considers such action advisable.

VOTE IN DU PONT CASE.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 17.—The official count of the vote cast by stockholders of the Du Pont Powder Company a week ago for and against the acquisition of the $60,000,000 worth of the powder company's stock by Pierre S. du Pont, President, and other officials of the company for themselves, was completed this afternoon, and the official totals as announced by Daniel O. Hastings, Special Master, are:

Against the purchase of this stock for the company, 312,587 shares, sustaining President du Pont and his defendant associates; for the purchase, 157,959 shares supporting the contention of Alfred I. du Pont and the other complainants.

The voting of much of the stock in favor of the defendants was objected to by the complainants, and they hope to have it eliminated. The definite result will not be known until Judge J. Whitaker Thompson enters his final decree in the case.

The shares eligible to vote were 473,132, and the total polled in support of President du Pont and his associates is more than 66 per cent. of the eligible vote on the face of the returns. The total does not include the 126,628 shares in dispute.

After the vote has been tabulated, Judge Thompson will pass upon the protests of the plaintiffs against counting stock of defendants, their relatives and of employes and bonus stock.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was in much greater volume than on the preceding day. Prices were highly irregular and few of the groups moved in unison. The course of prices was generally considered a natural sequence of Tuesday's abrupt change in the general trend of the market. Efforts on the part of those who had bought stocks on Tuesday to obtain profits were not altogether successful. Those issues which had moved up the easiest on Tuesday declined almost as readily when profit-taking was attempted.

DR. H. KURZ TELLS HOW HE LEFT FRANCE

PARENTS WERE AUSTRIANS

Went Over on Last Trip with Good American Credentials — Asks Washington for Investigation.

A young man, slightly below medium height, with broad shoulders and the vivacious air of a Frenchman, although he is of Austrian parentage, sat in front of the open fire in his home at Yonkers last night and told a story of his hardships in France, laughingly suggesting that it might be called "the Odyssey of an American devoted to France as much as to his own land." He is Dr. Harry Kurz, an instructor in City College, and a Doctor of Philosophy of Columbia University. He returned recently from Paris, where he was imprisoned for thirty-two days, after going there as an interpreter in the Aviation Corps of the United States Army.

No specific charge was made against him, Dr. Kurz says, but it was recalled to him that he had been requested to leave Paris a year ago. His Austrian parentage, he says, is the only cause to which he can attribute the French attitude to him. He has asked the State and War Departments, however, to investigate his case, and has received assurances from Secretary Baker and Secretary Lansing that General Pershing and Ambassador Sharp will be asked to furnish Washington with all details.

"In February, 1916," said Dr. Kurz, "I obtained leave of absence from the City College, where I was teaching French, in order to devote myself to hospital work in France. I went to Paris and began teaching blind soldiers braille, typewriting and English. In June, after five months' residence in Paris, although I had conformed to the laws governing aliens, I was suddenly notified by the French authorities that I had five days in which to leave France. Our Embassy failed to obtain the reason. My Austrian descent seemed the only explanation.

"On my return to this country I continued working for France and for her wounded soldiers. I wrote articles, and letters which I received from abroad were published in New York newspapers. When the Columbia University Training Corps was organized, I joined and drilled with the other alumni. Later I applied for admission to Plattsburg and was not successful. I prepared, nevertheless, for a commission in the Signal Corps of the army.

"Late in May of this year, I was invited by telephone from Washington to join the army as chief clerk and interpreter in field service, and was told to hold myself in readiness for immediate departure. I considered the advisability of accepting work which might lead me back to France, when I had been unjustly expelled from that country, but I resolved that so long as my country called me to duty, I need ask no other permission to serve.

"I went to Europe with General Pershing's expedition. On the way over I spoke to Major Robert W. Bacon of the Quartermaster Corps, recounted to him my expulsion from France in 1916, and asked his advice. He suggested I speak to Major T. A. Dodd, but I had no opportunity to do so in England. The first day of Major Dodd's arrival in Paris I told him. He thanked me and told me to go right ahead in the organization of the office. Several weeks later he called me into his office and said the French police were after me. I gave the Major some letters to show that I was what I represented myself to be, and sketched for him a telegram to be sent to Professor Downer of City College, urging him to act in my behalf by asking his friend, Ambassador Jusserand, to request an explanation from the French authorities. The Major returned my documents, including the telegram, the next day. I asked him to send the telegram, but he insisted that the matter was closed.

"The organization of the office proceeded. Major Dodd asked me to open all the mail, and in other ways showed his confidence in me. We even had discussed the possibility of obtaining a commission, and he suggested that I write home for the three letters which always accompany applications. This I did.

"On July 17 Lieutenant B. B. Lewis called me into his office, and informed me that the French police were after me. He asked me to relate to him what had happened to make the French authorities assume this attitude to me. I could give him no definite information, but I offered him a few credentials that I had among my papers, such as an introduction to friends in France from Dr. John H. Finley, New York State Commissioner of Education.

"The Lieutenant told me that a police official would visit him the next day. Late the next afternoon he remained closeted with a French police official. Later he called me into his office, and presented me with the following document:

> American Expeditionary Forces, Air Service Material Department, Palace Hotel des Champs-Elysee, > Paris, July 19, 1917.
>
> Frim First Lieutenant Birdseye B. Lewis, Aviation Section, S. O. R. C.
>
> To Mr. Harry Kurz.
>
> Because of your Austrian parentage on both your father's and mother's side, and owing to the fact that you were expelled from France for military reasons on June 17, 1916, and also owing to the fact that these points were not brought to my notice at the time of your engagement in New York, and because the French police for various reasons deem it inadvisable that you be in a position where military information of use to the enemy could be obtained, I shall have to sever your service with the Aviation Section, Material Department, at 5 o'clock this afternoon.
>
> I have no personal knowledge of any injudicious act which might be detrimental to the United States.
>
> BIRDSEYE B. LEWIS,
> First Lieut. Aviation Section, S. O. R. C. A. E. F.
>
> Authorized by Captain Reid verbally.

"After I read the letter I appealed for a hearing. Lieutenant Lewis refused to advise me in any way. I thereupon took the letter to Major Dodd, who said that the communication went too far, that my connection with the Aviation Section was not severed, but merely suspended until a military court could investigate the whole situation.

"The French official who had been closeted with the Lieutenant presently invited me to accompany him, which I did, believing that there was some formality that the French law required me to fulfill, but when I reached the Prefecture I was clapped into prison, and that was the end of my liberty for thirty-two days. I was kept there for three nights in solitary confinement.

"I wrote letters to General Pershing, Ambassador Sharp, and my chief. In the mtantime my Bertillon measurements were taken, and several days later I was taken before an Interrogatory Court. After a few formal questions had been asked I was returned to my cell. I wrote again to General Pershing, to the Ambassador, and to my aviation chief; but I received no response. A few days before the time set for my trial I wrote to Mr. Bliss of our embassy, asking that a representative of the embassy be present to afford me protection, but received no answer.

"On Aug. 19 I was taken from the Sante Prison back to the depot, and there lodged in a new cell. A few hours later I was set at liberty and given freedom of movement in France for the space of a week. At the end of that period I was to leave French soil. I reported to the embassy for papers, but was referred to the Military Attaché. He was away, but his clerk referred me to a Captain in the Intelligence Department of the Army, who assured me that the army would take care of my transportation home.

"Until Aug. 23 I moved about in Paris without any restriction. On that day I boarded the train for the port of departpre. A French police official was awaiting me there. I refused to accompany him to the Prefect, and firmly insisted on reporting to the Quartermaster Chief of the Port. eH reluctantly followed me. The Quartermaster received the documents I had to present to him and then proceeded to the most disagreeable and brutal upbraiding of me, even going so far as to call me a German spy. He finally ordered me to report to a Lieutenant the following day at 5 P. M. In the meantime I was at liberty, and he swore that terrible things might happen to me if I didn't take care.

"The next day I was taken aboard one of the transports. I then discovered that in spite of the position I had held with the army, I was slated for the discomforts of a trooper on the home voyage. Moreover, half an hour after the vessel left the dock the commander summoned me and stated that because of the nature of my departure from France he felt obliged to segregate me. I was given a cabin and told to remain there except when I went down for meals. At mess I was seated alone at a table. Later the commander permitted me to use a small part of the deck. A medical clerk returning home on a mission, a man I had known in Paris, stopped and talked with me a few times. He was ordered to keep away from me.

"I want to add that the commander's action had nothing personal in it. He was doing what he considered his duty, and he was doing it without abusing me. But a prisoner I was virtually during the whole of the miserable trip home. Twenty-four hours out of the port of departure the machinery broke down, and we wallowed in the submarine zone for a day before the break was repaired. When we finally docked in New York, after three hours of waiting, I was allowed to go my way.

"The only course open to me is to demand rehabilitation and reinstatement in the army, for the authorities at Washington cannot permit this mystery of injustice to remain a blight on my good name."

MORE BANKS TO JOIN THE RESERVE SYSTEM

Pacific and Peoples Trust of Brooklyn and Fidelity Trust of Manhattan Apply.

President Wilson's request to State banks and trust companies to enter the Federal Reserve system was answered by several important institutions in Manhattan and Brooklyn yesterday. The Pacific Bank, with total resources of $14,000,000, applied for admission. The bank's main office is at Broadway and Grand Street, and three branches are maintained in the city. The President is O. H. Cheney, former State Superintendent of Banking.

Directors of the Fidelity Trust Company, at Chambers Street and West Broadway, voted to join the system, to "help mobilize with the Government the gold reserves of the country and to strengthen its financial measures during the present war." The Peoples Trust Company of Brooklyn decided to enter the system, with total resources of approximately $30,000,000 and deposits in the neighborhood of $26,500,000.

Numerous other trust companies in the greater city are contemplating entrance into the Reserve system. The Trustees of the Brooklyn Trust Company are expected to vote on the matter today, and announcement of similar action is looked for in a day or two from several institutions in Manhattan.

The Central Trust Company of New York, which applied for membership before President Wilson issued his appeal, was formally admitted to the system yesterday, the Federal Reserve Board at Washington having approved of its application.

EXEMPT FROM SPECIAL TAX.

J. F. Curtis Shows Desirability of Liberty Bonds as Investment.

James F. Curtis, Secretary and General Counsel of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, sent out yesterday about a thousand letters to the presidents of banks, railroads and industrial corporations, calling attention to the fact that investments in the 4 per cent. second Liberty Loan bonds are absolutely exempt from the special 10 per cent. tax on undistributed earnings provided for in the War Revenue act. His letter follows:

> Dear Sir:
>
> May I take the liberty of calling to your attention a new provision in the Corporation Tax law as amended by the War Revenue act of Oct. 3, 1917.
>
> Section 1,206 of this low provides that a special tax of 10 per cent. shall be levied on the amount of earnings of every corporation, joint stock company or association or insurance company remaining undistributed six months after the end of each calendar or fiscal year. But there is a further provision that this tax "shall not apply to that portion of undistributed net income which is actually invested or employed in the business or retained for the reasonable requirements of the business, or is invested in obligations of the United States issued after Sept. 1, 1917."
>
> The questions involved with respect to the employment or retention of funds for use in the business are subject to review, and if the Secretary of the Treasury finds that any portion of the amount retained for employment in the business is not so employed or is not reasonably required in the business, a tax of 15 per cent. is to be collected thereon. (In other words, this amounts to a penalty of 50 per cent. of the amount of tax otherwise payable.)
>
> The amount of the undistributed earnings invested in the Liberty Loan 4 per cent. bonds, however, is not subject to review. Consequently, all undistributed surplus of your company accumulated during the 1917 year, which may be invested in the Liberty Loan 4 per cent. bonds, will be absolutely exempted from this special tax of 10 per cent. It should be noted that the law limits this exemption to issues put out after Sept. 1, 1917. In other words, the exemption would not apply to investments made in the first Liberty Loan.
>
> I need hardly call your attention to the great advantages which the purchase of bonds of the second Liberty Loan would have over the purchase of any other investment out of funds which a corporation has remaining undistributed from the results of this year's operation.
>
> Very truly, yours,
> JAMES F. CURTIS.

Investments in the 3½ per cent. bonds of the first Liberty Loan are subject to the special 10 per cent. tax, but on the other hand they are not subject to the new excess profits tax and to the income tax on corporations. In any event, these latter taxes are not likely to be as heavy as the special 10 per cent. tax, and for that reason it is to the advantage of corporations to invest their undistributed earnings in the new 4 per cent. bonds.

GOOD BIDDING FOR FURS.

Muskrat and Mink Were Features of the Auction Yesterday.

The disposal of more than 600,000 muskrat skins marked the third day of the annual Fall sale of furs in the Masonic Hall here. Bidding was active, and generally good prices were obtained. The best ones brought as high as 86 cents and $1, the latter price being paid for a lot of 2,200.

Milton Schreiber & Company were liberal buyers of muskrat, other buyers including Joseph Herbst, M. Fisher, W. J. Boehner, Theodore Thorer, Vandeweighe Brothers, Becker Brothers & Co., the Ganss Fur Co., B. & W. Vorhaus, Otto Wagner, H. D. Fertel, Joseph Steiner & Brothers, and M. F. Pfaelzer.

The morning session was given over to the selling of mink. More than 43,000 of these skins were put under the hammer by Auctioneer J. Gordon Noakes of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, and the best one sold for $6.60. This price was higher than those recently current in the open market. The rise in mink is said to foreshadow an increase in demand that begins with the consumer and strikes all the way back to the seller of raw skins. The similarity in appearance of dark mink to marten, which is very popular this season, was said to be a factor in the greater call for it.

Over 70,000 mole skins also were sold at yesterday's sessions. Both Scotch and Italian mole were put up, and the top price reacned on the former was 34½ cents.

Among the sundries that were included in the day's offerings were chinchilla rats, which are being used to considerable extent this season as trimmings. They brought 4 cents, as compared with $50 to $70 for real chinchilla, which the rats resemble somewhat in appearance. The cheapest skins of all sold for 2 cents each. These were 27,000 barundukis, or small Russian chipmunk. A novel offering was that of flying squirrel pelts from South America. These brought 60 cents each. Six hundred skins of Siberian dogs, the size of St. Bernards, sold for 66 cents. The highest paid price for mountain lion was $1.10. Nineteen were sold.

Close to $75,000 worth of Liberty Loan bonds were subscribed at the sale. This brings the total for the three days up to $1,627,600. The day's largest individual subscribers were Leo D. Greenfield & Son and Peppercorn & Berger, who took $15,000 each.

The total of the three days' sales was announced at the close of selling as over $1,500,000. It was also said that this is the first sale in which the prices received have exceeded the invoice figures. Compared with the figures obtained at the last Spring sale, yesterday's prices showed up this way: Northern mink, 25 per cent. higher; Southwestern mink, same; leopard, same; mole, same; Northern muskrat, 30 per cent. higher, and black muskrat, same.

The sale will continue today at 10 A. M., and among the furs to be sold are the following: 199 Russian sable, 43,000 ermine, civet cat, hare, American and Australian opossum, ringtail opossum, kangaroo, marmot, beaver, wildcat, ringtail raccoon, chinchilla, and lynx.

Pokes Popular Again Here.

One of the features of the millinery situation in this city at the moment is the revival of the old-fashioned poke of the 1815-1820 period, modified to suit the tastes of the young woman of 1917. Already it is enjoying considerable popularity, which is increasing daily. The most favored shape is a medium or large mushroom, with a short cut back that shows a glimpse of the hair. Crowns are soft, and may be high or low. Some of the best-liked hats are made of black velvet, with a contrasting silk faille facing, while others show a combination of antique satin with velvet. The current models have no streamers or chin straps, but large velvet chous at the front or side front are used to set them off. Another revival which is attracting attention here is that of various kinds of ostrich trimmings.

Help for Bow-Legged Men.

A "camouflage" garter for bow-legged men is now on the market. It consists of a band of elastic that goes around the leg, just above the knee, and two pieces of non-elastic tape that extend downward, one attaching to the sock. The straight-leg feature is obtained by the gravity action of four strips of silver-finished tool steel, slightly weighted. When walking, running, sitting down, &c., the steel strips swing back into a perpendicular position against the inner fabric strap. This collapsible feature is said to prevent bulging of the trousers. The garters are said to be adjustable to fit various degrees of bow-leggedness by raising or lowering little clasps through which the tape passes. It is claimed that any pair of trousers put on by a bow-legged man will hang straight if he wears the garters in question. They weigh only one and a fourth ounces.

Drug Prices Go Higher.

Drug and Chemical Markets will say today that the developments of interest in the local market this week are the sharp advance in hydrogen peroxide, amyl acetate, morphine, and witch hazel extract. All grades of herbs are scarce and selling at record prices. Seeds also are higher. Lower prices were quoted for acetphenetidin and silver nitrate. The appointment of an American representative in England with power to regulate the space on American vessels engaged in trade with British possessions is urged to facilitate the importation of raw materials needed in the United States.

Ribbons Quiet but Firm.

Reports from local ribbon manufacturers indicate a fair volume of buying for this time of the year. Black and white gros grains for the millinery trade are said to be in good demand. The dry goods stores are taking liberal quantities of satins and taffetas in the more subdued shades. Dark warp print ribbons, due to the continuing popularity of shopping and knitting bags, are also well sought. But the real buying, it is thought, will start in next month, when retailers come to market for their holiday requirements.

Gray Goods Trading Uneven.

Trading was uneven in the local gray goods market yesterday, but the evidence was that business was not as large as on Tuesday. A report was heard of a sale of 39-inch 72-76s at 13⅝ cents for November delivery, but it must be taken for what it is worth in the face of the demands of sellers generally for 13¾ cents for anything further away than spots. These are held at 14. Some business was put through on 38½-inch 64-60s for 1917 shipment at 10¼ cents. Reports were heard that second-hand sellers of this construction had goods in the market at an eighth less. Bids of 7½ cents for narow 64-60s for nearby delivery were received and declined. Some heavy sheetings were disposed of in the course of the day. Spot printcloth prices closed this way:

Evening Gowns Sell Despite War.

Reports from local manufacturers of dresses and gowns indicate that the evening gown, contrary to the predictions in some quarters, is just as much a part of the fashionable wardrobe as it ever was. The position taken by some that, due to war activities, extensive entertaining in the evening would be curtailed in a marked degree would not seem to be a correct one, for women are apparently as eager as ever for full-dress costumes of elaborate and attractive design. The bustle effect in these creations is said to be receiving but slight attention, though there are some moderations of this silhouette which are said to be very well taken.

Woolen Makers Stand Indefinite.

Many in the local woolen trade feel that the resolutions adopted at the meeting of the woolen manufacturers in the Waldorf-Astoria last week, looking to the conservation of wool, are so indefinite that nothing will be accomplished by them but confusion. The suggestion made, that a committee be formed to determine how much cotton and how much virgin wool manufacturers should use, was received in most quarters as one of the best ways to "blow the smoke away so that every manufacturer could see where he stands."

They Want to Get It All.

The "want-to-get-it-all" spirit that is shown by many American business men was taken to task yesterday by a downtown dry goods merchant. "This desire to grab everything in sight," he said, "costs the average merchant as much as he ever gains by it, and possibly more. It is this spirit that keeps most buyers from getting goods at actual rock-bottom. It makes them afraid that that level has not yet been touched, so they do not buy until a sudden upturn in the market shows them their mistake. Conversely, the same thing is true of many sellers. These merchants hold their goods for higher and higher prices, with the result that a drop in the market often robs them of some profits they might have made. I know several men in this trade who from time to time bewail losses like this, but they do not seem to change their methods."

WOOL SUPPLIES DEPLETED.

Stock of Australian Goods, However, Is Expected Here Shortly.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Medium and low wools were the feature of the week's buying, but fine wools were not neglected. The medium wools were active on account of heavy orders for army cloth. The hesitancy in buying fine wools was due to the prospect of Australian wools coming to this country. Supplies are gradually approaching a minimum. The call for fine cape wools, it is understood, has been chiefly for civilian purposes.

"In the woolen goods market the situation in regard to deliveries is becoming more acute. There is very little possibility that more orders will be accepted until the Government has been fully supplied. The civilian trade is not particularly prominent. Cancellations are few.

"In raw cotton the situation is largely speculative, many buyers believing that a reaction may come because efforts are being made among the growers to hold the available cotton. Because of the higher prices of raw material, quotations are gradually being forced up, but at the same time distribution is not increasing noticeably as prices advance."

Coat and Suit Sales Diminishing.

There has been a very marked falling off in business in coats and suits during the last week or two, according to a number of manufacturers of such garments. While in some cases decreased interest has been most apparent in the popular-priced garments, there are many others who have felt the lack of demand in the higher-priced models as well. "If the retailers are doing the business they are reported to be doing," said one manufacturor, "I don't understand why there are not more reorders and special orders. I can only conclude that they must be running into a calm spell which is responsible for our quiet."

Raincoat Novelties Selling.

Novelty raincoats for women, particularly those adapted to the requirements of motorists, are reported by local manufacturers to be moving very freely. One of the newest of these garments which is said to be gaining wide acceptance is made of silvertone cloth and cravenetted. It has five box plaits in the back, is made with the belted effect in the front, and has a deep standing turnover collar and large flaring cuffs. It is also made up in Pekin blue, purple, taupe and other shades which are in vogue this season.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

U. S. CHRYSOLITE ASBESTOS CO. of 170 Broadway.—A petition in bankruptcy against this company has been filed by Saul S. Myers for these creditors: Seymour W. Frolichstein, $30,000; Isabelle W. Frolichstein, $384, and Fred H. England, $2,000. It was alleged that the company made preferential payments, and permitted a judgment to be entered against it for $462. Judge Mayer appointed Paul R. Schmitt receiver, with a bond of $2,000. Liabilities are stated to be over $100,000 and assets $20,000, consisting of a mine at Lowell, Vt., on which there is 550,000 feet of cut timber.

BERLIN LABORATORY, LTD., INC., of 26 East Ninety-second Street and 373 Fourth Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $9,564 and assets of $1,299, consisting of cash in bank $1,048 and accounts $1,299. Among the creditors are Marie B. Reynolds, $8,059. The company put on the market a preparation called "Intesti-Fermin," manufactured by a company in Germany, for which the company had the sale agency in this country.

MAX MINTZ.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Max Mintz manufacturer of clothing at 75 Spring Street, by these creditors: Moe Smith, $125; B. Siller, $369, and B. Saperstein, $258. Judge Mayer appointed Max E. Sanders receiver. Liabilities are stated to be $10,000 and assets $2,000 in stock, seized by the Sheriff.

KELLY CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Kelly Construction Company of Yonkers by these creditors: Ethel M. Alperin, $186; Francis Hughes, $43, Emanuel Schaffel, $158, and James J. A. Clark, $297.

ROTHENBERG BROTHERS, grocers at 9 West 115th Street.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed by these creditors: Max Blum Company, Inc., $179; Julius Bruckner, $230, and Max Klinger, $108. Judge Mayer appointed William Solomon receiver and authorized him to continue business ten days. Liabilities are $2,000 and assets $1,000.

RENE LEON of 417 Riverside Drive has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $15,132 and no assets. Among the creditors are Richard Gotthell, $7,020; Winston L. May, $6,117, and Maurice Leon, $1,677.

HYMAN SUSSMAN, tailor, of 104 West Thirty-seventh Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $5,195 and no assets.

ALTMAN & WERNER.—Judge Mayer has denied a discharge from bankruptcy to Altman & Werner, manufacturers of trousers, formerly at 417 Lafayette Street, against whom a petition was filed on Dec. 24, 1914.

GEORGE M. GARSSON.—Judge Mayer has granted a discharge from bankruptcy to George M. Garsson, doing business as Garsson Bargain House, at 307 Canal Street, against whom a petition was filed on Aug. 21, 1915.

REINIS CAFE.—Judge Mayer has confirmed a composition of the Reinis Cafe, at 416 Grand Street, with creditors at 30 cents on the dollar cash.

MAX ZEISLER, dealer in auto supplies, at 1,771 Broadway and 95 Chambers Street, has filed schedules showing liabilities of $146,510, and assets of $58,518, consisting of stock, $35,000; fixtures, $8,350; accounts, $14,633; cash, $435; shares of stock $100, and two lots at Springfield Gardens, L. I., value unknown. Among the creditors are Rose Zeisler, $10,741; Corn Exchange Bank, $11,649; George I. Wilson & Sons, $18,600; Keystone Tire and Rubber Company, $4,956; Ajax Rubber Company, $4,775, and Endurance Tire and Rubber Company, $4,620.

EASTERN BEDDING COMPANY of 421 Ninth Avenue has filed schedules showing liabilities of $7,562, and assets of $690.

STEEL-DRAKE BAKING COMPANY.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed in the United States District Court, Brooklyn against the Steel-Drake Baking Company, one of the largest makers of cake and pastry in that borough. Simon Rasch, counsel for the petitioning creditors, whose claims aggregate about $8,000, said that the action was a friendly one, and was taken to guarantee all the creditors an equal chance of securing an equitable settlement. The liabilities of the company, which has a plant at 44 Wallabout Market, are said to amount to about $77,000. Its building and equipment are valued at $75,000 and raw materials on hand at $14,000.

SAMUEL BROWNER, a carpenter of 26 Dewey Place, Brooklyn, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $3,812 and assets of $1,073.

ANNIE KURZ of 2,397 Charles Street, Maspeth, L. I., has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $9,959 and assets of $75.

RECEIVERS' NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—SUSQUEHANNA COAL COMPANY, Complainant, against INTERSTATE COAL COMPANY, INC., Defendant.—In Equity.—E 13-325.

Pursuant to an order of the United States District Court made in the above entitled action on the 6th day of June, 1917, notice is hereby given requiring all the creditors of said Interstate Coal Company, Inc., and all persons having claims of any kind against said company to exhibit their claims to said Receiver at his office, Room 1119, No. 115 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, and become parties to the above entitled suit within six months from the first publication of this order, and that in default thereof they will be precluded from all benefit of the order or judgment which may be made in such suit, and from any distribution which shall be made in such suit, and from any distribution which shall be made under such order or judgment.

Dated, New York, June 6th, 1917.

WALTER PETERSON, Receiver.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

One of the properties of the American Real Estate Company, being the four-story dwelling at 15 West Eighty-second Street, between Central Park West and Columbus Avenue, was sold yesterday by Horace S. Ely & Co. It covers a lot 23 by 102.2, and was purchased for investment. The house was recently taken in a trade with the Basch Realty Company for the Bronx property at 730 Forest Avenue.

In the West Harlem section the three-story dwelling at 252 West 137th Street was sold by Robert C. Saunders for John P. Leo to Edward E. Caines. It covers a lot 19 by 99.11.

Investor Buys Harlem Corner.

Violet C. Miller purchased for investment from Charles A. Naegeli the southeast corner of 120th Street and Lenox Avenue, improved with three and four story business buildings, on a plot 37.8 by 85. Manning & Trunk negotiated the sale.

Buy Site for Harlem Garage.

Shaw & Co. sold for Clarence H. Kelsey, as administrator of the estate of Mary G. Pinkney, four lots on the north side of West 143d Street, east of Lenox Avenue, to the Non-Column Construction Company. The buyers will erect a modern garage upon the property of novel construction, without posts or columns.

Tenement Buyers.

Recent Buyers.

M. Tritto is the buyer of 602 and 604 Fordham Road.

$75,000 Bronx Block Front Sold.

Bernard Bloch sold to a client of H. B. Davis the block front on the west side of Webster Avenue, from Ford Street to 183d Street. The plot, which has a frontage of 200 feet on the avenue and 100 feet on each street, was held at $75,000. It will probably be resold by the present buyer to a builder for improvement with a taxpayer. A. C. Scharsmith negotiated the sale.

Bronx Sales.

H. F. Byrnes & Co. sold for the Classic Realty Corporation 970 Union Avenue, a five-story apartment house, on a plot 40 by 170. In part payment the purchaser, S. Belkind, gave the two-story two-family house 769 East 223d Street.

Leonard Weill resold to I. Kellerman 1,219 Hoe Avenue, a frame dwelling and garage, 33 by 95, near Freeman Street. The seller recently acquired the property in trade for the apartment house at 181 West Ninety-seventh Street. P. Rosen was the broker.

Cahn & Pittman have sold to Louis T. Lehmeyer the four-story flat, with stores, at 3,886 Third Avenue, on a lot 27 by 125, and the same brokers have also sold the four two-family houses at 309 to 315 Locust Avenue, plot 75 by 100, to the 37 West Nineteenth Street Realty Company.

Brooklyn.

The John Pullman Real Estate Company sold 720 Union Street, near Sixth Avenue, a two-story and basement brownstone dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, for George Clark to a client for occupancy.

Charles Mueller sold to an investing client of the McInerney Klinck Realty Company the four-story brick and limestone business and apartment building located on the east side of Flatbush Avenue, 89 feet 6 inches south of Beverly Road. The building has a frontage of 20 feet on Flatbush Avenue and a depth of 100 feet on both sides.

The Realty Associates has sold the three-story frame dwelling at 428 Chester Street, plot 20 by 75, north of Dumont Avenue, through Philip Weinstein, as broker, to Jacob Lokoshofsky.

Queens Borough Sales.

J. L. Maybeck purchased the dwelling on the southeast corner of Chestnut Street and Jamaica Avenue, Richmond Hill, from the Lancastershire Realty Company, Inc.

R. Kunzer sold to C. O. Baumann the property on the northwest corner of Eighty-sixth Road and Woodhaven Boulevard, Woodhaven.

Gateshouse Brothers, Inc., sold to I. A. Jensen the dwelling on the east side of Diamond Street, 465 feet north of Jamaica Avenue, Jamaica, and to P. E. Buehler the dwelling on the east side of Diamond Street, 560 feet north of Jamaica Avenue.

$218,000 for Loan Company's New Jersey Realty

A total of $218,000 was obtained for the realty holdings in New Jersey of the Industrial Savings and Loan Association. The property was sold at public auction by Henry Brady, who conducted the sale for the State Banking Department. There were 728 lots and two houses, located in Grantwood, Palisade, Cliffside Park, and Hudson Heights.

In Grantwood six lots at the corner of Knox Avenue and Cliff Front were sold to F. W. Bull for $4,100, and seven lots at the corner of Washington Avenue and Cliff Front were purchased by W. E. Barges of Manhattan for $4,700. These were the choicest of the defunct company's properties.

Seven two-family houses on Henry and Hamilton Avenues, Hudson Heights, sold from $2,000 to $3,700 each, and a four-family frame tenement on Cliffside Park was purchased for $2,700 by Mr. Knox, who is one of the Directors of the defunct company.

Westchester County.

William J. Brainard of Manhattan purchased from the B. & G. Development Company a new English stucco dwelling and three plots of ground in Chester Hill Park, Mount Vernon. R. K. Maclea negotiated the sale.

Commercial Leases.

J. K. Moors leased the building at 342 West Fifty-eighth Street to P. E. Riehl for a term of years.

Duff & Brown Company leased for Dwyer & Haigh to M. Kastner, Inc., 3,543 Broadway, northwest corner 145th Street, a one-story business building.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., leased the store and basement at 215 Seventh Avenue to the Royal Print Shop.

Private Dwelling Leases.

Slawson & Hobbs have rented for Anna Fillman the dwelling at 19 West Eighty-seventh Street to F. W. Kaufman, also 143 West Seventy-third Street for the West Seventy-third Street Association, Inc., to Anna Kinnear, and 72 Riverside Drive for the Estate of Leonard Lewisohn to W. E. C. Jones.

Barnett & Co. have leased for the Manhattan Leasing Company the dwelling at 29 West 126th Street to F. Laselle.

J. B. English has leased for John S. Spencer the three-story dwelling at 234 West Forty-ninth Street to Michael Falco.

Hearing Today on New Elevator Rules.

A public hearing will be held this afternoon at 2:30 by the Board of Standards and Appeals upon its proposed rules for the maintenance and operation of elevators in this city, which are designed to take the place of the existing rules.

The Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests submitted the rules for criticism to its staff of experts, and the sub-committee of this committee, consising of Julius Franke, Otto M. Eidlitz, Frank A. Pattison, and Thomas E. Snock, have submitted individual criticisms of the proposed rules, through the Advisory Council, to the Board of Standards and Appeals. They agree that there should be but one set of rules for all buildings, in that manner following the object of the consolidation of various departments as prescribed by the Lockwood-Ellenbogen bill, enacted with the view of simplifying rules and regulations.

The committee also recommended that the rules should not be made to apply to existing structures, unless their euipment was found to be unsafe, for that application would mean an expense to owners of buildings equipped with elevators in this city, variously estimated between five and six million dollars, if all the proposed rules are enforced as drafted.

Realty Notes.

Laurence McGuire was elected President of the Real Estate Board of New York for the fifth time at the annual meeting. Stephen H. Tyng, Jr., was chosen Vice President, Thomas P. Graham Secretary, and Alfred V. Amy Treasurer.

Joseph R. Day will sell today, in the Vesey Street salesroom, eight East Side properties, for the William B. Kirk Estate.

A SALESMAN'S FUTURE.

Where is the salesman who does not realize that his future must be something higher than merely selling?

Yet how many selling jobs offer a chance beyond the selling?

Secondly, he must be a fit associate—clean cut, energetic, high grade, and of good personality.

He must be between 30 and 35 and have earned over $4,000 a year, because this position will pay a salary of $5,000.

The work is in selling a $400 labor-saving machine. Therefore, it requires a man who can interest big men and convince them.

Besides, this man will have to assist in other work than selling—must be capable of taking charge at times—of developing, in fact, into a real part of the business and training other salesmen.

Now we have tried to state our needs plainly. Check them over and see if the job fits you in every detail. It it does not, please do not answer, because no detail stated above will be waived.

Write freely and fully as consideration will only be given letters telling age, education, selling experience in detail, past salaries and the kind of work in which you are now engaged.

The Kells School, Seventh Avenue and 125th Street, will begin its series of review lessons in preparation for the day and evening high school examinations in English, stenography and typewriting, clerical assistant, commercial branches, theory and practice of accounting, and physical training tomorrow evening at 7.30.

Because of the fact that the present class in elementary shorthand is crowded to capacity, the Isaac Pitman Shorthand Writers' Association has decided to begin a second section, to meet at the Washington Irving High School, Sixteenth Street and Irving Place, on Saturday mornings from 9:45 to 10:45 o'clock. This is a free course, and the first session will be held on Oct. 20.

The first meeting of the school year of the High School Clerical Assistants' Association will be held at 5 P. M. today. All clerical assistants are urged to attend this meeting, at which a vigorous campaign will be started against the inadequacies in the salary schedule.

At a parents' meeting on Oct. 15 in the Joseph Rodman Drake School (No. 48, the Bronx) $12,150 was realized by a Liberty Loan sale. Among the speakers was Walter Stanton, a grand nephew of DeWitt Clinton. During the campaign the school will be open to the public. Teachers will explain and prepare application blanks.

At 7:30 P. M. today there will be a Liberty Loan meeting at P. S. 1, 8 Henry Street, Manhattan. Parents and others in the neighborhood are invited.

Sherwin Cody will conduct a junior efficiency course at the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, 318 West Fifty-seventh Street. The class meets on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:15 to 9:15 o'clock. It begins Oct. 23. The cost is $21.75 for each pupil.

SOUTH SETS RECORD IN FOOD PRODUCTION

Commercial Congress Hears How the Agricultural Call Has Been Answered.

FARM LOAN ACT PRAISED

Harding Tells of Importance of Relations Between Banker and Business Man in War Crisis.

Agriculture and finances were the principal topics discussed yesterday at the various conferences of the Southern Commercial Congress at the Hotel Astor. At the Agricultural Conference, held in the morning, addresses were delivered on the food question and the Federal farm loan law was praised. At a luncheon tendered to W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and George W. Norris, executive officer of the Federal Farm Loan Board, at the Hotel McAlpin by the Committees on Banking and Finance and Agriculture of the congress Mr. Harding spoke of the importance of close relations between banker and business man during the war crisis. What Southern colleges and universities are doing to meet the new demands made on education by the war were told at the Educational Conference, in the afternoon. Other sections of the congress discussed insurance, engineering and natural resources, and woman's work.

The response of Laurel, Miss., to the appeal for increased raising of food was given special and honorable mention in the agricultural conference. Charles Lathrop Pack of Asheville, N. C., President of the National Emergency Food Gardens Commission, told how the town of Laurel had sold the horses which had formerly drawn the apparatus of the Fire Department and other city vehicles in order to give them to farmers of the surrounding district for agricultural work, and then bought motor apparatus to take their places. The town commissioners then thought coal dealers were holding up the municipality on prices, he said, so the citizens turned out in a body and sawed enough wood to meet the needs of the school buildings and the City Hall. Laurel was given by Mr. Pack as only one instance of the readiness with which the South has responded to the call for more food. Other speakers, in lauding the work of the Federal Farm Loan banks, urged the passage of the bill proposed by Senator Fletcher of Florida, President of the Congress, for the establishment of chambers of agriculture, to do for the farmers what chambers of commerce do for business men.

"The South is breaking all records in food production," said Mr. Pack, "and the city farmer is doing his bit as never before. In North Carolina, for instance, there has been an increase in home canning production from 350,000 jars and cans last year to nearly 4,000,000 this year. In Virginia the 115 branches of the Woman's Suffrage Association asked for our daily garden planting lessons and other data just as the great newspapers of the country were receiving it, and made it their business to see that the material got to the local newspapers. In Kentucky the National League for Women's Service took up the campaign all over the State, and held exhibitions this Fall at all the county fairs. After the planting season the commission took up the canning and drying campaign all over the country, and our estimates show that 460,000,000 cans of food are being placed on the pantry shelves this Fall."

Loans At a Low Rate.

George W. Norris, Federal Farm Loan Commissioner, declared that the Farm Loan act was breaking the "vicious circle" wide open. "If the present $467,000,000 of farm loans paying 8.3 per cent. in interest and commissions were to be refunded at 5 per cent," he said, "there would be an annual interest saving of more than $15,000,000. The system will not only do this—it will enable thousands of small farmers to get loans at a low rate and on easy terms who would not have been able to borrow at all under previous conditions because private loaning companies did not care to bother with their small business. The obtaining of long-time loans will emancipate the borrowers from their economic thralldom to the supply merchant and the local banker and permit them to do safe and diversified farming."

Leonard G. Robinson, President of the Federal Land Bank of Springfield, Mass., declared that most of the opposition to the Farm Loan act had been due to a misapprehension of its true import.

"Ultra radicals," he said, "call it a banking measure; ultraconservatives regard it as a socialistic measure. This in itself shows it is neither the one nor the other. The best sentiment in the country among farmers and bankers alike, however they may differ in details, has gradually crystallized into the belief that the Federal Farm Loan act is one of the most constructive measures ever enacted by Congress."

David Lubin, American delegate to the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, and Robert B. Van Cortlandt, Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture and Food Supply of the Congress, spoke in support of the Fletcher bill. Mr. Van Cortlandt also discussed the work of the Farmers' Non-Partisan League in North Dakota and said that it was of the highest importance to the success of farmers' organizations to make sure that there was no suspicion that they wanted to promote the welfare of one class of the population at the expense of others. He praised the Fletcher bill, declaring that a similar system had worked effectively in Germany, and added: "The war would be a good time to give this system a trial, as it could be put into operation as an emergency measure, and if shown to be workable and beneficial would without doubt become a permanent feature of our national institutions."

Mr. Lubin said that the economic system of mobilized agriculture was no longer an experiment. "It has proved itself a success in the Central European countries," he said, "and now also in France. It marks an evolution in the field of economics as important as that brought about by electric light in the field of physics. It is important to a country in time of war, for under it the agricultural industry of a country becomes as responsive to Government action as an automobile to its steering wheel. But it is equally important in time of peace; nay, it has now become an imperative necessity, for no country can now remain long in the front rank unless its agriculture is effectively mobilized."

H. T. Davis, President of the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, said that the farm-loan system was especially calculated to remedy the evils of the tenant system and the one-crop system, and that, while the cure was sure to be slow, his section of the South was already seeing the light.

Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma talked on financing the war, advocating the employment of taxation as far as possible instead of borrowing, on the ground that borrowing tended to inflation and rising prices.

Talks Finance at Luncheon.

An inevitable decline in general securities was pictured by W. P. C. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, as one of the logical consequences of flotation of large Government issues such as the second Liberty Loan, at the lucheon at the Hotel McAlpin, but he added that cool-headed banking would avert any money crisis. Mr. Harding also told the hundred or more bankers who gathered about the luncheon table, spread with war-time simplicity, and at which neither wines nor cigars were served, of the importance of close relations between banker and business man during the war crisis, and predicted that no serious disturbances need result from war financing. He announced that an encouraging disposition had been manifested by non-member banks in the last few days to come into the Federal Reserve system.

Introduced by Thomas S. Southgate, Vice President of the Congress, Mr. Harding said that when America entered the war the entire business of the country changed until the foremost business of America today is war.

"There is no business worth while today," he continued, "which is not connected in some way with the supply of material used in war. The progressive banker must keep in touch with events at all times. It is particularly important that he keep in touch with them now. Under ordinary conditions a banker makes loans at his discretion, scrutinizing the securities he takes as collateral; today he must not only distinguish as to securities, but he must demand to know the object for which the money loaned is to be spent."

The speaker said he sincerely believed it was a mistaken policy for bankers to withhold from the market any commodity of which the Government or the people stood in need, pointing out that the higher price levels reached the greater the burden on the consumer. To supply such needs, he urged, bankers should be liberal in extending credits.

"When the Government is floating large loans, other securities such as those of railroads," he said, "are bound to suffer. Of course we cannot protect them. There is bound to be a readjustment of values, and that is the penalty we must pay. But I think that a wholesale slaughter can be prevented. I do not think that this recent shrinkage in values was due to an organized bear campaign, but rather to the natural result. I think from the quotations of yesterday and today that the slump has been arrested, that the people are gathering their second breath."

Mr. Harding next discussed the statement attributed to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo that $14,000,000,000 in loans were to be put out between now and next July. He had heard comment, he said, to the effect that if a railroad company, for example, were going to float a large loan it would not advise the public in advance. "But if it is true that this amount of money is to be raised by the Government, the people are entitled to know it," he asserted. "They should be taken into the confidence of the Government."

Predicting the success of the Liberty Loan, Mr. Harding urged widest participation in it, adding: "I think the $5,000,000,000 will be divided among 8,000,000 people. This loan money will ultimately seek its level, as will money subscribed to any other loans which may follow."

George W. Norris of the Federal Farm Loan Board, the other guest of honor, dwelt upon the present importance of agriculture, and said he rejoiced that under the Federal Farm Loan law the farmer could borrow ready money to prosecute and extend his work.

"The agricultural production of the country," he said, "last year amounted to $11,000,000,000 in round figures, and the production for the coming year is estimated at about $17,000,000,000. It will be seen, therefore, that the amount of money asked for by the Government is more than met by the production of the farmer." Mr. Norris urged the bankers of the country to deal liberally with the farmers, pointing out that they must be depended upon to supply not only the needs of the nation, but a large part of those of our allies.

Work In Southern Colleges.

Dr. William H. Thornton of the University of Virginia in the afternoon told the Educational Conference of the new work being done in Southern Colleges. "New courses are offered in the political geography of all the great European States," he said, "in meteorology, in physical geography, and in international law and diplomacy. From the school of engineering have been taken over courses in plane surveying, topographical surveying, topographical drawing, map making, navigation, field astronomy, automobile construction and care, and the characteristics and uses of timber. Other courses are those in telegraphy, telephony, wireless, signalling, and photography, taught so as to obtain practical values as well as scientific understanding."

P. P. Claxton, Federal Commissioner of Education, and Dr. W. S. Currell, President of the University of South Carolina, also spoke.

At the insurance conference, Judge W. Julian Mack explained the indemnity and insurance plan for the soldiers and sailors, and former Governor Edwin Warfield of Maryland told of the spread of surety insurance and bonding in the South.

WILL ADVERTISE THE SOUTH.

Commercial Congress Plans to Raise $1,200,000 for the Work.

At the closing session of the Southern Commercial Congress last night, on motion of Leland Hume, Chairman of the Resolutions Committee, resolutions with the following provisions were adopted:

To raise $1,200,000, in levies of $25,000 a year for the next three years from each of the sixteen Southern States, for the purpose of advertising the South, under the direction of a committee consisting of the Governors of the States and another member appointed from each State by the President of the Congress.

To devote the energies of the Congress to the enactment of Federal legislation for improving the national system of the marketing of agricultural products.

To urge legislation for the development of water power on navigable rivers and in public lands, with due regard to the safeguarding of public interests.

To ask the Legislatures of the Southern States to utilize convict labor in construction and maintenance of highways.

The resolution on the war read in part as follows: "The Southern Commercial Congress insists that the outstanding fact that we are in the most stupendous war of all times is the controlling fact which precludes all argument as to the cause and reasons and admits of no contention as to why and how. The congress stands for winning the war, and when the war is won and Germany made powerless, or free, it devotedly trusts, as does the nation, that a peace may be secured that will be just and righteous, and that it will be so safeguarded by a 'league of honor among democratic nations' or by some other plan that it shall become the permanent bulwark and hope of the nation."

Other resolutions expressed appreciation of the work of the Southern States Exposition, and of the hospitality of New York in general and the efforts of Oscar S. Straus, Chairman of the New York General Committee, in particular.

A loving cup was presented to Mr. Straus by Ben Altheimer in the name of the Directors of the congress, in appreciation of his efforts in connection with the convention.

At the closing meeting W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, said that the strain imposed on American banking resources by the problem of financing the present war was by no means as heavy in proportion as that presented during the civil war, and that wise and foreseeing leadership by the bankers would be able to direct the most satisfactory distribution of capital to meet war needs without too much weakening of the values of domestic securities.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury L. S. Rowe pointed out that the movement of Latin-American nations to the support of the United States in the war, though somewhat slow, was certain and had already progressed far. He said that care should be taken that our necessary war measures did no harm to Latin America.

Other speakers were William Peabody Malburn, chief National Bank Examiner; John Clausen, Vice President of the Crocker National Bank of San Francisco, and Hamilton Holt.

TO FIGHT NEW PROFITS TAX.

Penn Mutual May Start Opposition for the Insurance Companies.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 17.—Millions of dollars will be involved in a fight which mutual life insurance companies all over the United States will wage against any attempt on the part of the Government, under the War Revenue act, to collect excess profits taxes from them if the attitude of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of this city is emulated by other concerns of the same kind. That the Penn Mutual will make a contest was indicated today by L. K. Passmore, Vice President of the company, who said:

"In times such as these we want to pay our proper share of taxes, but we do not want to encourage an interpretation of the law which would place an unjust burden on companies of this kind. We have no capital stock and no profits. The company is operated solely for the benefit of its members.

"We admit our liability to the 2 per cent. income tax under the law of 1916, to the 4 per cent. income tax under this year's war revenue law, to 80 cents a $1,000 on our $102,000,000 annual business, and to the host of stamp taxes on various sorts of papers, such as assignments and transfers. Beyond that we do not believe we should be taxed."

'Sam Browne' Belts Are Barred Here

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The War Department today put a ban on the wearing of "Sam Browne" belts by American officers serving within the limits of the United States. These belts have been worn by a number of British army officers and consist of a broad waist belt of leather, connected with a narrower leather strap that goes over the shoulder. The "Sam Browne" belts serve no useful purpose but set off the uniform of an officer.

MRS. DE SAULLES PLEADS.

Answers "Not Guilty," and Probably Will Be Tried Next Month.

MINEOLA, L. I., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Blanca De Saulles, accompanied by her counsel, Henry A. Uterhart and County Judge Lewis J. Smith, but showing little interest in the proceedings, was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Jaycox here this afternoon to plead to the indictment charging her with the murder of her husband, John H. De Saulles, at his home in Westbury on the night of Aug. 3 last.

None of Mrs. De Saulles's relatives nor any of her husband's was in court when she was arraigned and there were very few curious persons about the courthouse.

The court clerk asked how she pleaded to the indictment charging murder in the first degree, and Mr. Uterhart answered "Not guilty." There was some debate as to the date of trial and counsel for Mrs. De Saulles said they would be ready about the first week in November. District Attorney Weeks refused to say whether he would call the case to trial at that time, but intimated that he would also be ready.
